Hear Hutchins Talk for Samuel Jr.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

"Market rigging" or market support?

"Wash sales" or matched sales?

These technical but highly important issues of the Insull mail fraud trial occupied the attention of court and jury before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday.

Fred H. Scheel, former vice president and manager of the Utility Securities company, who lost $900,000 as a result of the failure of the Insull investment concerns, testified most of the day in defense of his marketing operations in stocks of Corporation Securities company. Utility Securities was the stock selling organization of the Insull empire. Scheel is the ninth of Samuel Insull's 16 co-defendants to go on the stand.

Experts Take the Stand.

He was followerd toward the close of the session by Dr. John T. Madden, dean of the school of commerce, accounts and finance of New York university, an authority on marketing and finance, and by G. W. Fedderson, former secretary of the Illinois secretary of state's "blue sky" department.

Eight character witnesses also were called by the defense. Among them were Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, who testified to the good reputation of Samuel Insull Jr. He was a classmate of the younger Insull at Yale university.

The testimony of Dr. Madden and Mr. Fedderson clarified some of the terms that have been in such common use throughout the trial.

Explains "Support Syndicates."

Dr. Madden explained that as one result of the American public's going into the stock market in such numbers after the war it became the custom for syndicates to be formed for the purpose of supporting new issues of stock, steadying the stocks through the distribution period at least.

Questioned by Defense Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, he said:

"It is not possible to maintain for any length of time a market too high or too low, either in commodities or in securities."

The government has sought to show that the market for Corporation Securities company stock was an Insull market from the start.

Congress has provided in the new securities act, Dr. Madden said, for pegging or stabilizing operations in the market, but has left to a commission the question of what limitations to put on this. He said it was proper to support the market and at the same time sell stock.

Judge Asks About Limits.

"What determines the limits?" Judge Wilkerson wanted to know.

"This depends upon circumstances," was the reply. "So long as there was no control of short selling, corporations were between the devil and the deep blue sea. If they did not support a market the investors suffered. If they did they were open to the charge that they were maintaining the market for their own securities."

Mr. Fedderson testified that one of the questions asked of Corporation Securities and of all other corporations listing in Illinois was whether they were ready to maintain bids for their stock at all times as a protection for investors who wished to sell. There was no suggestion as to any level that must be maintained.

Drawing Line on Support.

The court's question as to where the line may be drawn in proper market support was brought up in another form by Special Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter during the cross-examination of Mr. Scheel.

"Is it honest," the prosecutor asked, "to maintain a market by buying all the stocks and at the same time selling more?"

"No. I don't think it would be," Mr. Scheel replied.

"Would it be honest to buy 90 per cent of the stock?"

"I don't think so."

"How about 60 per cent?"

"There is a line of demarcation coming,' was the reply. "A lot of other factors enter in. I don't know."

"How about 40 per cent?"

Scheel Defines Dishonesty.

It was Mr. Scheel's position that it was dishonest for a corporation not

RICKENBACKER SETS MARK ON FLORIDA FLIGHT

Round Trip Made in Fifteen Hours.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—A silvery monoplane drifted down to a landing on Newark airport tonight with 16 persons aboard. The Florida Flier, which had left Newark for Miami this morning at daylight, had completed the round trip of 2,400 miles in less than 15 hours' flying time.

On board were Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and Mrs. Rickenbacker and 12 other passengers besides the two pilots, Erlon H. Parker and Gene Brown, mail flyers for Eastern Air Lines. Rickenbacker was in command, but did not take the controls at any time.

While the flight was a record for passenger planes, Capt. Rickenbacker was disappointed. At 6 a. m., ten minutes before the takeoff, Rickenbacker had said that he expected to be back in Newark by 8 o'clock tonight. He had agreed to be present at a dinner here.

Made in Record Plane.

The flight, which initiated a new eight hour service to Miami starting Thursday, was made in the same machine, a Douglas Airliner, which brought Rickenbacker and another passenger group across the country from Los Angeles a few days ago in a little more than twelve hours.

Headwinds cut down the speed today, winds carrying snow squalls and blowing as high as fifty miles an hour at times. From the start the plane fought these winds, and the flight was bumpy for the first 400 miles.

The Florida Flier was due in Washington at 7:05 a. m. It was 34 minutes late. After a 19 minute stop, Pilot Parker nosed the huge monoplane up for Jacksonville.

The winds blew even more furiously, and twenty minutes out of Washington the plane plowed through a sleet and snow squall. Richmond passed beneath at 8:35 a. m. Officials at the Byrd airport said it was flying at about 8,000 feet, and throughout the flight to Florida the pilots held that altitude or a higher altitude.

Seen Next Over Raleigh.

The plane was next sighted at Raleigh, N. C., and shortly after 10 o'clock was over Charleston, S. C.

It was just two minutes before noon when the Douglas touched its wheels on Jacksonville airport a good hour and 20 minutes behind time. There a reception committee greeted them and precious minutes were lost. More fuel was poured into the tanks and after a 22 minute stop the plane sped southward once more.

Two hours and 25 minutes later the Flier rolled to a stop on the Municipal airport at Miami, more than two hours late. The southbound trip had taken 8 hours and 35 minutes all told, of which 7 hours and 54 minutes was flying time.

Northbound, Rickenbacker hoped for better luck, but the headwinds were not tailwinds on the return. Instead, conditions shifted and the big machine was buffeted by cross winds most of the way home.

Dark at Jacksonville.

Darkness overtook the plane as Parker was letting down his wheels for the landing at Jacksonville, two hours out of Miami. Eighteen minutes later they were off for Washington.

They made good time through the night to Washington, covering the 600 miles in 3 hours and 50 minutes. Again there was an 18 minute stop for service and fuel.

It was 10:14 p. m. when the Douglas roared away from Hoover airport. An hour and 13 minutes later Parker set it down at Newark, 3 hours and 27 minutes behind schedule but still far ahead of any like flight in a passenger liner.

Total elapsed time for the round trip was 17 hours and 17 minutes. The plane was actually in the air, however, 14 hours and 55 minutes.

While no comparative figures were available, pilots agreed the Florida Flier had established a new passenger record for the round trip.

Woman, Former Associate of Dillinger, Is Arrested

Jean Burke, 32 years old, former associate of the Dillinger gang, and three youths were arrested late last night in a garage at 1648 Flournoy street. When questioned she said she "just happened" to drop in the garage. The men identified themselves as Fred Clone, 19 years old, 1111 South Wood street; Ralph DeSota, 24 years old, 1822 South Kedzie avenue, and Frank Carlo, 22 years old of the Burton hotel, 1420 North Clark street. All three men have police records.

REVEALS FINDING OF KEY TO SHORTHAND OF ANCIENT GREEKS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—One of the most important discoveries relating to the ancients since the finding of the Rosetta stone in 1799 is a key to the shorthand of ancient Greece. This was brought to light by H. J. M. Milne, assistant keeper of the department of manuscripts of the British museum. The Egypt Exploration society is publishing the key in book form Saturday. Milne's work, which will permit the reading of literary and political treasures hitherto undecipherable, is called simply "Greek Shorthand Manuals." It is edited from papyri and waxed tablets in the British museum and from papyri in the possession of the Egypt Exploration society.

G. O. P. CONGRESS CANDIDATE HAS BRUSH WITH LAW

Warren E. Wright of Jacksonville, Ill., defeated Republican nominee for congress in the 20th district in the election of Nov. 6, was arrested last night and locked up in a cell at the detective bureau.

Mr. Wright was seized in his room at the Great Northern hotel by Sergt. John J. Hanrahan after an anonymous caller had informed the police a car with bloodstains on the running board was in a garage at 20 Quincy street. The license number was traced to Mr. Wright, who said he did not know how the stains got on the car.

After he reached the detective bureau and protested against the treatment he was accorded Deputy Chief of Detectives Walter Storms informed him he was under arrest for passing a worthless check to the Morrison hotel two years ago.

Mr. Wright said that he had written the check for $180 on a bank that closed before the hotel could obtain the cash. He added that he had paid a portion of the amount and intended to pay the rest. The police were unable to serve the warant for his arrest, as it was locked up in the police bureau of information and statistics, which was closed for the night. At the Morrison hotel it was said Leonard Hicks, manager, who was the only official familiar with the case, is in New York.

Find Skeleton Near Home of Dr. Wynekoop

Frankfort, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The finding of a human skeleton in a swamp near the summer home of Dr. Alice Wynekoop, who now is serving a 25 year term in the Illinois women's prison for murder, today furnished Coroner F. J. Larue and the Michigan state police with a possible murder mystery.

The bones, which included only those of the upper half of the torso, were discovered by Raymond Schneider and Harry Herion, woodcutters, in an old wooden packing case that bore the name of the H. K. Mulford company, Chicago. There was no other name on the box.

Send Bones For Tests.

Dr. Larue said that the bones were to be sent to the University of Michigan for examination.

"It is impossible to tell the sex of the person," he said. "It is my guess that the skeleton has been in the box perhaps 15 years. The teeth indicate that the person was about 30 years old, and other indications cause me to believe that he or she was about 5 feet 2 inches tall. We cannot tell if death was due to violence. It is at least peculiar that only a part of the skeleton was buried in the box."

Dr. Wynekoop, it was reported, has owned the summer home, which is near the Point Betsey lighthouse, for a quarter of a century. She has not been here for some years, however, nor have other members of the family.

SOURCE OF BOX TRACED.

Dr. Alice Wynekoop, veteran physician, near whose summer home in Frankfort, Mich., a skeleton was found yesterday, was convicted of the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop. She is now in the women's prison at Dwight, Ill.

The H. K. Mulford company, the name of which was on the box containing the skeleton, has been purchased by the Sharpe and Dohme company, manufacturers of biological supplies, but the old firm name is still in use for certain types of products.

I. C. McLaughlin, branch manager of Sharpe and Dohme, said that it would be impossible to tell without much more specific information from Michigan the name of the person to whom the box was originally consigned.

JAMES' ONLY HOPE IS THAT HIS MEDICAL PROFESSOR SEES THIS

James Pierce, 20 years old, 1133 Grant street, Evanston, was a very gloomy medical student last night. Indications pointed to his flunking an examination this morning at the University of Illinois medical school. Pierce's only hope, he admitted, was that his professor might read this story and be roused to compassion.

Pierce is the son of D. A. Pierce, an engineer for the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. His plight is due to a robbery. Returning after a few minutes' absence to his automobile parked in front of the school at 1853 Polk street, Pierce found thieves had broken in and stolen a $100 compound microscope and ninety rare histology slides valued at $350.

Pierce planned to "bone" overnight on the slides for his examination. Also of importance to the student is the fact that the slides and microscope were not his. They belong to the school.

CHARGES WOMAN RUINS FURNITURE; ASKS INJUNCTION

Just why a certain Nellie McFarland should wish to break all the furniture of John F. Modler, 129 North Sacramento boulevard, was not very clear last night. Nevertheless, Modler filed suit yesterday in Superior court seeking an injunction to restrain her from molesting him and breaking any more of his furniture. In his suit, Modler, who says he is a bachelor, charges that Miss McFarland has already broken into his summer home at Fox lake and into his home in the city and broken such pieces of furniture as chairs, radios, lamps, and tables. Attorney K. McCallion Smith, who filed the suit, said it was all a mystery to him.

ENGLISH HOUSE PASSES BAN ON RACE LOTTERIES

LONDON, Nov. 13—(AP)—The government's betting and lotteries bill, which forbids sale of tickets and publication of any news about lotteries and sweepstakes, was given third and final reading by the house of commons today.

The vote was 206 to 38. The bill will go to the house of lords, which may endorse, amend or reject it.

The measure makes it illegal to print, sell, or distribute lottery tickets, or to publish in a newspaper or otherwise any description of a lottery or list of prize winners.

Body of Child Feared to Be Missing Girl's

BULLETIN.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 14 (Wednesday).—(AP)—Similarity between dental work of missing Dorothy Ann Distelhurst and that of a child whose body was discovered in a shallow grave today was reported tonight. A definite check was delayed until tomorrow. Dr. Leonard Pogue announced he had filled a second baby molar for Dorothy Ann in about the same place where there was a filling in one of the teeth of the body.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The finding today of the body of a girl, buried in a shallow grave on the grounds of the Tuberculosis hospital, started a theory at once that the kidnaping of Dorothy Ann Distelhurst had been solved.

As investigation progressed, however, doubt arose and tonight it was little more than a surmise that the body was that of the girl who vanished Sept. 19 while on her way home from a kindergarten.

The body, found by two Negro workmen digging in a flower bed in the hospital grounds, just outside of the city limits, had been in the ground about three weeks, it was estimated by Dr. R. O. Tucker, superintendent of the hospital.

Seems Like Older Child.

That made identification difficult. Dr. Herman Spitz, acting coroner's physician, said the body weighed about 75 pounds and appeared to be that of a child about nine years old. Dorothy was 6.

Pat Beard, a friend of Alfred Distelhurst and his family, however, said the body was "about the right size to be Dorothy." He declared that the color of the hair is "very close." He works with Distelhurst in a local publishing house. Mrs. Dave Rice, Dorothy's kindergarten teacher, may be asked to see the body, if others fail at an identification. Beard is trying to find a brother of Mrs. Distelhurst, Lonie Hamilton, to learn if Dorothy had any dental work done that would aid in the identification.

The coroner's physician's examination showed the body to be 51 inches long, and to have weighed about 75 pounds. Dorothy was four feet tall and weighed 55 pounds. The doctor said he could not be absolutely sure even that the body was that of a girl.

Father to Return.

New York, Nov. 14 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Alfred E. Distelhurst announced early today he would leave for Nashville, Tenn., on the first available train, after receiving a telephonic report that the body of a girl found there yesterday was similar to his 6 year old daughter, Dorothy Ann, missing two months.

Distelhurst said that as a result of his conversation with Pat Beard, a friend of the family in Nashville, he had given up hope that his daughter was held by kidnapers in New York. The father has been here since last Wednesday waiting word from persons he believed to be the abductors.

Distelhurst said Beard told him the body of a girl found in a shallow grave at a hospital near Nashville "generally checked" with his daughter, but that positive identification could not be made until later today.

HOLC ABOUT TO SHUT DOORS; IS OUT OF FUNDS

700,000 Applicants Face Refusals.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The 3 billion dollar Home Owners' Loan corporation today became the first of the Roosevelt easy money agencies to close its doors and prepare to go out of active business.

Because all of its vast store of money is either spent or earmarked, the HOLC voted today virtually to close down. It announced that it will receive no more applications for aid from homeowners who are having difficulty with mortgages on their houses.

This action by the directors of the HOLC means an end of the federal refinancing of distressed urban mortgages. Since midsummer of 1933 the HOLC has been taking over city mortgages and now holds liens on 650,000 homes.

More Applications Than Cash.

"In view of the fact that applications for loans now on hand are far in excess of the present resources of the corporation," said its official announcement, "the receipt of additional applications will be suspended until further notice."

Actually the HOLC has 1 billion 200 million dollars left out of its 3 billions, the directors revealed. All this money, however, is expected to be used up on 400,000 loan applications which are now pending before the HOLC. Therefore no new applications will be accepted.

More than 700,000 persons seeking loans amounting to 2 billion 650 million dollars will have been turned down by the HOLC either because of the lack of funds or because their loans were not eligible, John H. Fahey, chairman of the HOLC, revealed today.

Get 1,760,000 Applications.

He said the corporation had received 1,760,000 applications aggregating 5 billion 650 millions, of which the HOLC can fulfill only 1,050,000 aggregating 3 billion dollars. Fahey said he believed most of the applications left out were ineligible.

"In round figures the HOLC has already paid out 2 billion dollars to cover the mortgages on about 650,000 small homes," Chairman Fahey revealed. "By February or March the balance of the funds now at the disposal of the corporation will be disbursed. About 400,000 more loans will be made in this process, with the result that in a few weeks a total of 3 billions will have been distributed."

"Under these circumstances," the formal statement issued by the whole HOLC board went on to explain, "the board feels that it is unfair to applicants and to the mortgage lending institutions to continue acceptance of applications on the supposition that they may ultimately be considered."

Urges Private Lending.

Private lending institutions, both Fahey and the board argued, should take up the task which the HOLC is dropping. Fahey also insisted that most mortgage difficulties should be ironed out between the homeowner and the mortgage holder, and pointed out that recently there has been a decline in the applications for aid received by the HOLC.

Fahey explained that most of the HOLC's 3 billion dollars will go into the hands of large mortgage financing companies, thereby adding to their liquid assets. The HOLC operates by buying up distressed mortgages with cash or HOLC bonds.

President Roosevelt has indicated that he will ask for no more HOLC funds. The shutting down today, therefore, may be final unless a move should develop in congress, despite the President's tacit opposition, to resume the mortgage refinancing.

43,000 ON FILE HERE.

Officials of the Illinois HOLC said yesterday that they have on file applications for loans from 43,000 property owners. It is expected that about one-third of them will be rejected.

How many of the remaining home owners, approximately 29,000, will receive loans depends on two factors in Washington, the speed with which the state's applicants can get their requests acted on, and the possibility that more HOLC money will be appropriated by congress. To date the Illinois HOLC has lent $131,038,583 to 37,900 property holders, the average loan being $3,643.

SOCIAL PROGRAM TODAY

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Social ills of the nation and what ought to be done about them will come under extensive discussion here tomorrow at a national conference on economic security.

Many leaders in social welfare, unemployment relief, public health, and related activities will be given a chance to say what they think should be the government's part in relieving the plights of America's unfortunates.

High features of the conference, it is expected, are the addresses to be made by President Roosevelt and his secretary of labor, Miss Francs Perkins.

Delegates Meet President.

The President will receive all the delegates, perhaps two hundred in number, at the White House. Miss Perkins will speak on a program with Secretary of Commerce Roper at a dinner tomorrow evening. Relief Administrator Hopkins is scheduled to deliver an address at a luncheon.

While it is not expected these New Dealers will disclose in detail what the administration intends to ask of congress in the way of social legislation, it is hoped by some of the delegates that a general understanding of intention will be disclosed. Conservative leaders in social problems are fearful, it is known, that the New Dealers intend to lead the government into radical controls over philanthropies which the conservative believe are much better left to private initiative as in generations past.

Dr. F. D. Graham Chairman.

The conference will be opened at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning with an address by Dr. Frank D. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, who is chairman of an advisory council appointed by the President to aid in the formulation of a social insurance program.

Round table discussions will then be held in five groups on the subjects of unemployment insurance, old age pensions, child welfare, provision of employment and medical care.

ICKES ORDERS WORK TO STOP ON PARKER DAM

Movement of Guardsmen Halted by Governor.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Gov. B. B. Moeur today received a telegram from Secretary of the Interior Ickes that orders have been issued to stop construction at the Parker dam site until the rights of the states involved have been determined.

Gov. Moeur immediately ordered Arizona's National Guardsmen, en route to the martial law zone at the dam, to stop in Parker until further orders.

Gov. Moeur said he intends to issue the order recalling the troops tomorrow but added, however, he had not definitly decided on rescinding the martial law proclamation.

Indications appeared that the battle over the benefits of the $12,000,000 project would proceed on a legal instead of a military basis.

Four upper basin states in the Colorado river compact filed protests with Ickes against Arizona's demands for power and water from the project and from Boulder dam, now under construction.

The difficulty arose in the building of a dam to supply water to southern California metropolitan areas and power to the general area.

Arizona recently demanded of the government a contract giving that state half the power to be generated and 2,800,000 acre feet of water from Boulder dam. The other six states involved in the Colorado river compact opposed this as inequitable.

OFFICIAL COUNT PERILS WINNER IN LAKE COUNTY

With charges of fraud and irregularity being made by both sides, the official canvass of votes in Lake county completed its fourth day yesterday, with County Clerk Lew A. Hendee forging ahead for the first time in his fight to retain that office.

At the completion of forty-seven precincts of the seventy-five in the county, Hendee was leading his Democratic opponent, Russ Alford of Waukegan, by 144 votes. The first returns had showed Alford winner by 190 votes.

Alford immediately threatened a vote contest, charging that in one precinct, Deerfield No. 2, where Hendee made his greatest gain, the canvassing board had allowed every other Democratic candidate 309 straight tickets, while he was allowed but 115. Hendee is a member of the board.

In the race for sherif, Lawrence A. Doolittle, Republican, and former sherif, maintained his 138 vote margin over the Democrat, Bart Tyrrell. Tyrrell has also threatened a contest, and backers of Doolittle say they will contest if their candidate loses.

D. A. REED URGES UNITY WITH OLD LINE DEMOCRATS

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Senator David A. Reed, making his first speech since his defeat for re-election last week by Joseph F. Guffey, told Republican women of Pennsylvania tonight it is essential that Democrats and Republicans "of common sense" unite in the future.

"We have been separated too long by artificial barriers from those who think as we do," he said. "There is a vast body of sane, conservative Democrats who are aghast at what is being done today in the name of their party. We must make it possible for them to unite with us.

"In doing this it may be necessary to lose some people who call themselves Republicans merely for the sake of expediency. We are willing to slough off these maverick Republicans if in exchange we have union with sane thinking Democrats."

County Recorder Smith's Wife Has Major Operation

Mrs. Clayton F. Smith, wife of the county recorder, underwent an operation in the University hospital yesterday for removal of a kidney stone. She was taken to the hospital Monday from her home at 2703 Logan boulevard. The operation was performed by Dr. Karl A. Meyer, with Dr. Frederick Tice and Dr. Harry Culver as consultants. Mrs. Smith had withheld knowledge of the seriousness of her ailment from her husband during his recent political campaign. Her condition was declared satisfactory.

ALDERMEN DELAY LA GUARDIA PLANS FOR NEW TAXATION

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—There was a further obstacle today in Mayor F. H. La Guardia's move to draw up a relief tax program that will satisfy the city's bankers. Believing tax measures should originate in the aldermanic council, the mayor conferred for more than an hour with aldermanic leaders. They prefer to have La Guardia frame the tax measures. The meeting ended without agreement on a program.

The aldermen and La Guardia agreed some form of tax must be adopted as a guarantee for a loan estimated by Controler McGoldrick at between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 for relief purposes. While the board of aldermen's committee on local laws meets tomorrow to consider tax proposals, the city has only a week in which to draw up its program, if it would avoid borrowing a $1,000,000 or so at a time.

BATTERY DEALER GLAD BLUE EAGLE HAS FLOWN AWAY

The Blue Eagle was "an expensive bird to feed," and George Hess, secretary and treasurer of the Franklin Storage Battery company, 2901 West Jackson boulevard, said yesterday that he was glad to receive a telegram from the NRA compliance division at Washington depriving the firm of the right to display the emblem. The company has been in business here for 15 years and complies with the hour and wage provisions of the code.

The NRA charged the concern with violation of two code provisions forbidding consignment sales to dealers and giving guarantees on its batteries for a period longer than 90 days. Mr. Hess cheerfully admitted the charges were correct.

"We have always put out a superior product," he said, "and therefore are able to honestly guarantee it for periods ranging from six to eighteen months, according to price. Everybody is for this 100 per cent except our competitors, who pushed the persecution under the code.

"We applied for relief, made expensive trips and went to endless trouble, but got nowhere. We are overjoyed to be relieved of the Blue Eagle. We never wanted it anyway."

BUS VIOLENCE PLOT TRIAL IS SET FOR NOV. 26

Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court yesterday set Nov. 26 for the trial of twenty-six men on charges of conspiracy growing out of violence in the strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company. The date is the same as that set for the trial of seventeen men on charges of murder growing out of the deaths of James Kelly, bus dispatcher, who was shot and beaten to death, and Mrs. Mary Kennard of the Hyde Park hotel, who died shortly after she was struck with a steel ball thrown through a bus window.

Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the union that called the bus strike, and William Taber and Joseph Kehoe, officials of the street car union, are under indictment in all three cases.

Austin Hennessey, 42 years old, 4108 Wilcox street, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of malicious mischief growing out of bus strike violence and was fined $100 by Municipal Judge Cecil C. Smith. Hennessey was arrested for throwing a piece of concrete against the side of a bus at Jackson boulevard and Kilpatrick avenue on Aug. 25.

IRENEE DU PONT ASSAILS NRA, CITES JOBLESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Charging that two years of trying to enforce the NRA has left the country with 10,000,000 unemployed, Irenee du Pont, Delaware industrialist, today declared that unless the American people "want to surrender more of their liberties to burocrats at Washington, they must immediately demand enforcement of the American constitution in all its provisions."

Du Pont, who came to Los Angeles with John J. Raskob and E. F. Hutton in the interests of the American Liberty league's expansion on the Pacific coast, was principal speaker at a meeting of southern California business and industrial leaders at California club tonight.

"When the National Industrial Recovery act was passed its purpose was to provide industrial recovery and through industrial recovery eliminate unemployment," he said.

CALL TIGHE IN FINAL PARLEY TO UNIONIZE STEEL

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The veteran union leader, Michael F. Tighe, was called tonight to Washington by President William A. Green of the American Federation of Labor for what steel circles believe will be a final conference on plans for a concerted drive to unionize 400,000 steel workers.

The 76 year old president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers said he "frankly has no knowledge" of what the conference will deal with but that he didn't expect it would be "very pleasant work" for him.

He had reference to the open secret that A. F. of L. leaders have long been dissatisfied with the progress made by the Amalgamated in organizing its industry and that it plans to direct a new drive which was authorized by the recent San Francisco convention.

$3,665,000 SCHOOL WARANTS FIND A READY MARKET

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced the sale yesterday of $3,665,000 worth of 1934 tax anticipation warants, $3,000,000 to banks and $665,000 to private investors. The cash will be used for pay roll purposes and is approximately enough for the salaries of all teachers and other school employés for the month of November.

McCahey said that with the financial rehabilitation of the school board, which is now living within its budget, school securities are again being snapped up by investors as gilt edged offerings.

The school board needs to sell an additional $4,336,000 worth of warants in order to finance pay rolls up to the end of the year. The board has ample borrowing power to take care of the salaries, according to McCahey.

MELLON ATTACKS FEDERAL CLAIM FOR BACK TAXES

Recalls His Clearance by U. S. Grand Jury.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Andrew W. Mellon, wealthy former secretary of the treasury, today bitterly assailed Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, charging that the attorney general had instigated an "arbitrary and capricious" attack on him.

Cummings ordered Mellon prosecuted for alleged income tax frauds even after agents of the internal revenue bureau and of his own department had told him that thorough investigations revealed no grounds for action, according to the charges made by Mellon today.

U. S. Claims Over 3 Millions.

Mellon made his attack on Cummings in filing an answer before the board of tax appeals to the government income tax case against him. The government is charging Mellon defrauded the government of $2,050,000 in taxes on his 1931 income, and therefore is subject to an additional $1,025,000 penalty, a total of $3,075,000.

Mellon not only is denying vehemently all charges of fraud, but is charging that the tax on his 1931 income, which was $647,559, was $140,000 too large.

Agents of the justice department "advised the attorney general," according to Mellon's charges, "that there was no basis for action against the petitioner [Mellon] on charges of filing a false or fraudulent income tax return for the year 1931."

Says Agents Denied Frauds.

"The representatives of the attorney general were also advised by officials of the bureau of internal revenue," Mellon added, "that no charge of fraud had been made against the petitioner in any of the reports of the examiners of the bureau of internal revenue, and that in their opinion, there was no basis for such a charge."

Mellon explained that internal revenue agents spent from January to early summer last year checking his 1931 tax return. They gave him a clean bill of health, Mellon declares. Subsequently, Cummings sent his own agents to reopen the case, and they, too, according to Mellon, found no fraud evidence. Nevertheless, the case against him was launched.

Tells of Renewed Attack.

"The attorney general on March 11," Mellon said, continuing his attack, "without any previous notice of any kind to the petitioner, without any explanation whatever to the petitioner of the grounds for the charges, and without granting the petitioner a hearing, announced publicly that he was referring the petitioner's 1931 income tax return to the United States attorney at Pittsburgh, Pa., for presentation to a federal grand jury on charges of income tax evasion."

Mellon cited the refusal of a grand jury at that city to indict him. Charges made by the government that he used his special knowledge of income tax laws to fraudulently dodge taxes were bitterly denounced by Mellon as "impertinent, scandalous, and improper."

The four stock transactions which the government claims Mellon used to defraud the tax collector, were staunchly defended by Mellon as bona fide.

MELLON ANNOUNCES PLAN GIVING HIS ART COLLECTION TO PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Andrew W. Mellon announced today that his art collection eventually would belong to the public. With the announcement came the first confirmation from the former secretary of the treasury of the oft repeated report that he has purchased pictures from the soviet government.

As Mr. Mellon's statement outlined his intentions, the pictures are already the property of the public, for he has vested title to them in a board of trustees at whose discretion the disposal of the pictures will be when Mr. Mellon dies. Though the trustees now are the owners of the pictures for the public, the trust is so arranged that Mr. Mellon has enjoyment of the treasures until the time of his death.

While Mr. Mellon's collection is not so enormous as some other famous American collections, it is remarkable for its high quality. Mr. Mellon has been reported to be the buyer of half the masterpieces in the Hermitage in Leningrad, but although he has admitted that some of them are in his possession, he is unwilling to make public a list.

PRINTER CHARGES PHONE BOOK LEVY AND DEFIES NRA

Protesting that the graphic arts code authority is using the "telephone book method" in deciding how much to assess printers for code expenses, E. C. Zimmerman of Zimmerman Brothers and company, 4020 South Michigan avenue, yesterday defied the NRA to collect the bills. Zimmerman has thrown two bills for $78 each into the waste basket, he said.

"The code authority sends us two bills, addressing one to this company and another one to the Franklin Shop which now only exists as a name," Zimmerman declared. "Apparently they are using the telephone book method of assessment which was employed by county assessors in evaluating personal property. No one ever visited our plant.

"They 'estimated' our pay roll at $18,000, which is just nine times its actual amount, and expect us to pay code expenses on that basis. When the resultant bill is ignored as too fantastic for consideration, they threaten to institute legal proceedings. I suppose we are in the alphabet soup now, but we will continue to throw these bills into the waste basket."

FIRST PRINTERS' CASE DEADLOCKS ARBITERS' BOARD

The newspaper industrial board, appointed by President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh Johnson, former head of the national recovery administration, opened hearings in the Palmer house yesterday on the second major dispute arising under the code provisions of the national industrial recovery act. The four labor and four publishers' representatives reached a deadlock on the first case, that involving members of the typographical union of Wichita, Kas., and publishers of the Wichita Eagle and Beacon.

The case yesterday was referred to Judge Fred C. Gause of Indianapolis, former chief justice of the Indiana Supreme court, who was appointed impartial arbiter. According to Merrill Lord, Chicago, one of the publishers' representatives, indications are that accord will be reached on several of the pending cases this afternoon.

Before the board are twenty-eight labor disputes.

HAMILTON FISH BARES ORDER TO VOTE NEW DEAL

Command Sent to Relief Workers, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The scandal over the use of relief funds for political purposes in the election last Tuesday grew apace today.

It developed that during the recent campaign the unemployed in one New York county were told by state relief officials: "Your very existence is at stake. Vote the straight Democratic ticket on election day and save your job." This is according to a letter uncovered by Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.].

A photostatic copy of the letter, which Representative Fish claimed was signed by 11 New York relief officials, was dispatched to Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with a demand that the 11 signers and "those higher up who instigated" the epistle be prosecuted.

Follows Borah Evidence.

Representative Fish's exposure came shortly after Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], had turned over to the chief examiner of the relief administrator specific evidence to show the use of relief money for political purposes elsewhere in the country.

In his letter to Hopkins, Representative Fish said, in part:

"I take this opportunity to call your attention to a most flagrant and brazen attempt to intimidate the needy voters receiving federal relief in Putnam county, N. Y., which is in my congressional district.

Cites Campaign Letter.

"An amazing campaign letter was sent out to the unemployed and needy voters in my own county signed by 11 federal relief workers which stated, in part:

"'Your very existence is at stake. You can save a job for yourself and make jobs for your relatives and friends only by going to the polls on Nov. 6 and supporting all the Democratic candidates . . . All Republican candidates are against the Democratic program, which has helped you, and which will help you more. Vote the straight Democratic ticket on election day and save your job.'

"In all my political experience of some 20 years, I have never known of such a contemptible or un-American act, which amounts to coercion, duress, and intimidation of the voters receiving federal relief. Political corruption is bad enough to contend with, but intimidation of destitute and needy Americans and the playing of partisan politics with human misery through use of government relief is a political fraud of the grossest character and can not be condoned."

Mrs. Dorothy A. Saltiel Sues Druggist for Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy A. Saltiel filed suit for separate maintenance in the Circuit court yesterday against her husband, Henry C., owner of a drug store at 458 West North avenue and brother of State Representative Elect Edward P. Saltiel and of William D. Saltiel, former city prosecutor. The bill, drawn by Attorney Harry X. Cole, charges cruelty. Judge Philip J. Finnegan issued an injunction restraining Saltiel from selling his store or disposing of $12,000 in the North Avenue Safe Deposit vaults. The Saltiels were married June 22, 1926, and separated last Nov. 1, the bill says.

TEXAS GOVERNOR O.K.'S U. S. POWER BILL FOR COLORADO IN TEXAS

Austin, Tex., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson Tuesday approved into law the bill creating the Colorado river authority a public agency to take over and complete Buchanan hydroelectric dam in the Texas Colorado river under a $4,500,000 public works loan, already allotted. The law, effective Feb. 9, will launch the state in the public development of hydroelectric power in competition with the utilities, and designed to control and lower utility rates.

IOWAN GUESSES MILEAGE OF TOY TRAINS AT FAIR

Herman Kiel, 71 years old, of Sioux City, Ia., father of Dr. Lee H. Kiel of the Sherman hotel, estimated within one-tenth mile the distance traveled by the three miniature railway trains in the Illinois Central system exhibit at the 1934 A Century of Progress, according to an announcement yesterday. Mr. Kiel estimated that the trains traveled 8,042,831 miles, while the actual mileage was 8,042,947.

Of the 28,247 persons who registered estimates during 159 days of the Fair, eleven came within four miles of the actual distance traveled by the little passenger, fast freight, and freight trains. Besides Mr. Kiel those to receive awards from the Illinois Central are:

MRS. VANDERBILT ENDS HER STORY TO REWIN GLORIA

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt finished her testimony today in the Supreme court. It was her tenth day on the witness stand behind closed doors, defending her character and her fitness to recover her 10 year old child, Gloria, from Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, with whom the child has lived during the last two years. Mrs. Vanderbilt left the court supported by her twin sister, Lady Furness, and a trained nurse.

"I'm glad the ordeal is over," Mrs. Vanderbilt said. "I am very tired."

Little Gloria will inherit several million now in a trust fund left by her father, the late Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

Several more witnesses must be heard before Justice John F. Carew decides whether the child is to return to her mother or to remain with Mrs Whitney, her paternal aunt.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's older sister, Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, as a witness today, according to Justice Carew, testified that their sister Gloria had "never done anything wrong in her whole life."

Our girls are clean! When they get through washing them, they are shiny clean; as good to look at as a bun . . . which is another reason why your food at a B/G tastes so good.

BALLISTICS TEST LINKS FUGITIVE'S GUN TO SLAYING

Ask Return of Two from Wisconsin.

After debating for some time over delicate points in surgery, ballistics, and law, a coroner's jury yesterday recommended that two men now under arrest in Fond du Lac, Wis., be brought back to Chicago and charged with the murder of William Leichtfeld Jr., 2414 North Kimball avenue.

The men accused are Ernest M. Weber, who was paroled from the Joliet penitentiary last July, and Stephen Nash. They are being held in Wisconsin for a hotel holdup in Ripon.

From the coroner's jury decisions were asked on: [1] Was Leichtfeld's death due to a wound inflicted by a robber or from others inflicted by a police squad who, mistaking him for a robber, also fired on and struck him in front of his haberdashery at 4433 Fullerton avenue on Oct. 20, and [2] was a pistol in the possession of Nash the one that sped the bandit bullet?

Battles Fleeing Robbers.

Leichtfeld and his father were held up by three men in the store and robbed of $70. As the robbers left young Leichtfeld seized a pistol and followed. He fired. The fugitives shot back at him.

While the exchange of lead was in progress Robert Doll, 4744 Nevada street, and Elmer Anderson, 6600 Montrose avenue, drove up in an automobile. Seeing Leichtfeld on the sidewalk, waving his pistol, Doll leaped out and grappled with him, striving to take the weapon.

As the two men struggled Policemen Daniel Masterson and Fred Haerle of the Cragin station, who had heard the shooting, arrived in a squad car. Masterson, shotgun in hand, plunged into the fray. Assuming that the man with the pistol, was a bandit, he took quick air and fired.

Too Much Shooting; He Runs.

Doll, who had gotten into more shooting than he had bargained for, lost his courage and tried to flee. Haerle, assuming that he was a bandit, shot him in the abdomen. It was said at the time that Leichtfeld had believed Doll and the policemen as well were robbers. However, Leichtfeld died on Nov. 7.

The real robbers fled from the scene on foot, leaving behind a car that had been stolen the day before from Nathan Cooper, 4445 North Racine avenue. Cooper told the police he suspected that Weber, who had been paroled to him by the state, was the auto thief.

When he and Nash were seized in Wisconsin, the latter had a .32 caliber pistol. Leichtfeld's pistol wound in the abdomen, which was not discovered until he had been taken to a hospital, was made by that size bullet. The ballistics tests, it was reported, showed that the bullet had been fired from the Nash gun.

PLEA TO DOUBLE ALIMONY IS FILED BY MRS. MEEKER

Pleading that living costs have increased and she is too ill to find employment, Mrs. Ruth Campbell Meeker, divorced second wife of Lawrence A. Meeker, society figure and insurance man, sought by petition in the Circuit court yesterday to have her $50 monthly allmony doubled.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan authorized Mrs. Meeker's attorney, Theodore Tieken, to apply for a subpena duces tecum for the records of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, by which Meeker is employed. The court made the alimony petition returnable Dec. 21.

Mrs. Meeker says in her bill that her former husband was earning only $300 a year when they were divorced Sept. 14, 1933, but that as an insurance salesman he now earns more than $4,500 a year. She points to his club memberships as evidence of his present affluence. She also relates that he and his third wife are living in an expensive apartment on Astor street.

54 BEGGARS GET SENTENCES; 200 CAPTIVES FREED

Waiting for Street Car, Many Say.

A total of 254 defendants, arrested during the week-end in the police drive against panhandlers, filed yesterday before Municipal Judge Robert Jerome Dunne and told their stories.

A number of the defendants, Judge Dunne learned, had been "waiting for a street car" when the policeman pounced upon them. A great many others were "picking up papers for the boys in the shelter" when they ran afoul the law.

Two hundred won discharges when they promised to leave Chicago or gave other effective pledges or defenses. The rest were led away to serve fines of $5 to $100 in the Bridewell.

Lost Fortune, Says One.

Eldest among the defendants was Robert Collins, 85 years old, 1037 Monroe street. He won a discharge when he explained that he was waiting for "someone to drop a newspaper."

"I lost my wealth in the depression," Collins explained.

"The depression of 1893," Collins replied.

The youngest defendant, Tony Stern, 21 years old, of Buffalo, obtained a sentence of 60 days with the explanation that begging "was bad" and "he needed a rest."

A Builder Inside Own Walls.

Joseph Borso, 49 years old, was arrested when he picked up a slightly used cigaret stub in the loop.

"I used to be a bricklayer," he told the judge.

"What did you ever build?" Judge Dunne inquired.

"This here place—the detective bureau—and the Palmer house," Borso replied. He was sent to the Bridewell to work out a $10 fine.

Two Al Smiths appeared among the defendants, and the second, who gave his address as 222 South Morgan street, brought a comment from the judge. He won his freedom with the comment, "I don't wear a brown derby—and I don't beg, your honor."

George Brennan, 38 years old, was "arrested an hour after I got in town as I was planning to leave."

"O. K.," Judge Dunne told him, "but don't make a touch on the way out of the building."

FALLS OFF HAYMOW; DIES.

Ludlow, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—James F. Kirk, 61, farmer, died today as a result of injuries received when he fell from a haymow last Friday.

FARMER WITH TRUCK RAMS ZEPHYR TRAIN AT RAILWAY CROSSING

Greenwood, Neb., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Burlington's new streamlined, high speed train, the Zephyr, was hit by a truck driven by Paul Armstrong, Franklin, Neb., farmer, at a crossing here tonight. No one was injured, however, and the Zephyr was only 15 minutes late into Lincoln.

The truck, witnesses said, struck the train behind the engine and was almost completely turned around by the impact.

The Zephyr, placed in service Sunday between Kansas City, Omaha, and Lincoln, was going approximately 30 or 35 miles an hour, the train crew said. It was bound for Lincoln. The side of the train was scarred by the crash and the front of the truck was damaged.

FOG KILLS THREE IN BRITAIN; HALTS TRANSPORTATION

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A thick fog which cost three lives during the day tonight had spread generally throughout Britain, paralyzing transportation in some sections.

A train killed two railway guards who were unloading race horses near Derby while a motorcyclist died after a collision at Kettering. The scheduled Derby meeting was postponed because all trains between Glasgow and London were running late.

Six fishing vessels collided off Lowestoft and fog held ships at Liverpool, while the Caledonia from New York was forced to wait at Greenock before proceeding to Glasgow. Shipping in the Briston channel, on the Mersey river and the River Clyde, did not move. Boats for Dublin and Belfast were held up.

OUSTED STATE POLICE ACCUSE THEIR SUPERIOR

Fling Back His Charges of "Shakedown."

Suspended on Monday by their immediate superior on charges of "shaking down" truck drivers, three state highway policemen yesterday accused him of doing the same thing to trucking companies. Their charges were made in the court of Justice of the Peace W. A. Keiser at Geneva, where a truck driver was on trial for allegedly operating his vehicle with a 500 pound overload on one axle.

The superior is Sergt. Charles A. Stanton, in charge of the Elgin station of the state police, a nephew of William J. Stratton, defeated Republican candidate for state treasurer at the recent election.

The three suspended policemen are William Morley of Antioch, a member of the Democratic central committee in Lake county; Irvin Moody of Wauconda, also a member of the Lake county Democratic committee, and Stanley Dady, 908 Glenwood avenue, Waukegan.

All Four in Court.

Sergt. Stanton and the three policemen appeared yesterday in the court of Justice Keiser for a jury hearing of the case of Edward Wilkins, a driver for the Keeshin Motor Express company, Canal and Fulton streets. Also present was Lawrence Taylor of Springfield, chief of the state highway force.

The truck driver was arrested on Sept. 25 in Roosevelt road, in Kane county, by four policemen of the state force. Attorney Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, who represented the driver and the Keeshin company, declared in his opening statement to the jury that the arrest was made because John L. Keeshin, owner of the company, refused to be "shaken down."

Keeshin testified that the scales used by the police who tested the truck were faulty. The four arresting policemen and Chief Taylor testified, however, that the scales were tested often by experts.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty and Justice Keiser imposed a fine of $10. Keeshin said he would appeal.

Morley, Moody, Dady Testify.

Before the testimony was completed the defense called the three suspended policemen from Lake county to the stand. The jury was sent from the room while they testified. Justice Keiser later ruled their testimony out of the evidence, but it was taken down by court stenographers. Justice Keiser upheld Assistant State's Attorney Almore H. Tescke of Kane county who contended that while the statements of Policemen Morley, Moody, and Dady tended to involve Sergt. Stanton, they were not material to the case on trial.

Dady related that on Sept. 15 Sergt. Stanton, who was preparing to go on vacation, called Dady, Morley, and Moody to his home at Ingleside and sent them to collect $50 from each of four Chicago trucking companies.

"We got the $200 and took it back to the sergeant," said Dady. Attorney Braun contended the contributions were made to avert prosecution for violations of the motor vehicle law.

The companies, Dady said, were the Glendenning Transit, the American Transit, the Britton Motor Service, and the Werner Transit.

Tell of Another Case.

Morley and Moody corroborated the testimony of Dady. They also told of the case of the Olson Transportation Co. of Green Bay, four of whose drivers were given tickets by them for overloading.

"While the cases were pending," testified Morley, "Sergt. Stanton called me to his office, gave me the original tickets and said: 'Hold these. I want to make a deal with them.' He then had the cases continued until Nov. 20."

In addition to assailing the accuracy of the police scales Keeshin said that ten days before the arrest of his driver, he refused a loan of $1,500 to Stanton. Out of court Stanton declared that it was he who refused Keeshin's offer to "help pay off a mortgage."

Affidavits in the Keeshin case and similar ones affecting seven other Chicago companies were turned over yesterday by Attorney Braun to Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Cook county Criminal court who announced he would make an investigation. Judge Sullivan said he had also received a letter from a resident of Clinton, Ia., who complained of having to pay an Illinois highway policeman $5 when he was stopped for going "a little too fast."

LAKE STEAMER AGROUND; COAST GUARD SENDS AID

The Chicago coast guard radio station was notified last night that the steamer William Reiss of the Reiss line of Sheboygan, Wis., had gone aground south of the entrance of Sheboygan harbor. The cutter Wolcott from Milwaukee was ordered to the scene. It was said the vessel, loaded with 7,000 tons of coal, was in no immediate danger, although the wind was high.

At Ashtabula, O., coast guardsmen were called to aid in bringing into port a lumber barge that was almost swamped by high waves. A 600 foot boat belonging to the Ford Motor company was reported aground in the Detroit river. Another report, to the effect that the steamer Poplar Bay was missing, caused a search by coast guards. The Poplar Bay was found waiting out the storm in the lee of Mackinac island.

The official weather report indicated that winds on the upper lakes will diminish today. Chicago, the forecast stated, will have generally fair, cold weather today and increasing cloudiness tomorrow. There were light sprinkles of rain and a few snow flurries last evening.

RECOGNIZES HIS SHOES ON FEET THAT KICKED HIM

Charles Lindquist, 2001 Prairie avenue, would know his shoes anywhere, no matter whose feet they enveloped. But he was particularly certain yesterday when he recognized the wearer as the person responsible for his battered nose, four broken ribs, broken toe, and nine stitches in his chin.

So he stepped into THE TRIBUNE want ad office at Madison and Dearborn streets and telephoned for a policeman, who arrested Alvin Price, 25 years old, 17 West Superior street, formerly of Nashville.

Lindquist related that Harold Malcolm, a friend he met while working at the World's Fair, brought Price to his room one night after the Exposition closed. After a few drinks, Lindquist declared, Malcolm suddenly organized a strongarm robbery which Price aided and abetted by slugging and kicking Lindquist. When the latter regained consciousness his clothing and money were gone. Price was charged with assault and robbery. Malcolm faces similar charges Nov. 27.

$88,000 Blaze Destroys Ohio College Building

Hiram, O., Nov. 14 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A furious midnight fire which swept through Hiram college's administration building left only the four walls standing early today and caused a loss estimated at $88,000. Hiram is about forty miles southeast of Cleveland. Three students were overcome by smoke and carried from the building shortly after the fire started when they rushed in with other undergraduates to carry college records to safety.

to support its own stock while selling it.

Chart No. 5, which formed a part of the government's presentation of the charge of "wash sales," was brought out again and the witness was asked to explain what the Utility Securities company was up to when it gave a buy order and a sell order for the same amount of stock on the same day. The chart, he said, did not make sense to him, as he could see no motive in his company undertaking any such transactions.

These were not necessarily wash sales, he said.

"Why not?" asked Prosecutor Salter.

"They might buy the stock in the morning and sell it in the afternoon."

"Is your hesitancy due to the fact that wash sales are a violation of the stock exchange rules?"

Defense Lawyer Objects.

"Wash sales are a violation of the rules," the witness said.

"What is the purpose of such transactions?" the prosecutor resumed.

'I don't see any. Our company did not issue orders to buy and sell at the same time.

"Have you fortified this from your records?"

"Yes, I think I have."

Assuming that the chart transactions were true, Mr. Scheel said he did not know about them and did not approve of them. Such transactions, he insisted, would have no bearing on average price levels. They might influence the market for a few hours or a day only.

Tells of Heavy Losses.

Mr. Scheel said he had lost heavily in stocks of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., the investment trust which was formed before Corporation Securities. He has a canceled check for $900,000 to show for that. His faith in Insull, however, remains unshaken.

Prosecutor Salter showed that many of Scheel's personal transactions represented quick turnover, sometimes with profits, but the witness denied that he was speculating in Insull stocks. The reason for the sales, he said, was that he was compelled to raise money to meet bank loans.

Q. [by Salter]—Isn't it a fact that in one transaction in 1931 you sold Corporation Securities and Insull Utility Investments stock, which originally cost you $230,000, for $310,000, a profit of $80,000? A.—I had acquired those securities some time back.

Q.—Didn't you have inside information that caused you to sell out the stocks at that time? A.—I absolutely did not.

He Denies Taking a Flyer.

Q.—You took quite a flyer in Corporation Securities stock units, didn't you? [This referred to Scheel's testimony on direct examination in which he told of buying and selling 5,300 of the units at various times in 1931 and 1932, losing money in all but one of the transactions. The units, put on the market at $75 each, consisted of one share of common stock and one of preferred.] A.—I wouldn't call it a flyer at the time.

Q.—Weren't you speculating? A.—No, I regarded it as a great opportunity.

Q.—You mean to insist you were not speculating? A.—I would call it trading, changing my position.

Q.—But you were selling the stock to the public as a sound investment? A.—That's right.

Denies Part in Dividend Plan.

He denied that he had been consulted when Corporation Securities announced in a circular in March, 1930, that its common stock would earn $1.42 a share that year.

On Dec. 16, 1931, he testified, he received an order to stop sale of Corporation Securities stock. Thereafter the only money received from the public was in contract payments. He did not know then that the company was insolvent, he said.

After the crash in April, 1932, he became manager of the La Salle Quincy corporation, which succeeded to the business of Corporation Securities and Insull Utility Investments. He has since devoted his time to untangling the affairs of thousands of stockholders in these corporations.

The Direct Examination.

Mr. Scheel's direct examination was conducted by Attorney Reeve. He said he was 44 years old. He was born in Chicago. After being graduated from high school he worked for several Insull operating companies, taking charge of the investment department of Commonwealth Edison when he was 29.

Utility Securities, originally owned by Commonwealth Edison, was later expanded into a marketing concern for most of the Insull group. Through Utility Securities "customer ownership" of the utilities was fostered by Insull by sale of stock of the operating companies and later the investment stocks were sold by it.

"We had a record of everybody having a profit in the operating companies' stock," Scheel asserted. "And there was never a dividend failure."

The man Insull was a "legend" to him, Scheel said, and he had worked for Commonwealth Edison ten years before they met. He then related a conversation with Insull when Insull Utility Investments was formed.

"Insull gave his friends an opportunity to buy the stock at $12 a share," he said, "and I thought the stock had far greater potentialities. I requested $100,000 worth for a personal investment. He told me that was a larger amount than he liked to give to one person but gave me 8,500 shares for that price on condition that I did not trade in them for two and a half years."

During 1928 and 1929 Scheel prospered in the market, trading in stocks outside the Insull group. He had $400,000 in August, 1929, and talked to Insull again.

"He told me of his friends who had just bought Utility Investments at $90," the witness said. "Among them were John Hertz, president of the Yellow Cab company, and Sidney Z. Mitchell, president of the Electric Bond and Share company.

He Buys 10,000 Shares.

"I went to see George Reynolds, the banker, obtained collateral and with it and my $400,000 cash bought 10,000 shares of the stock at $90 a share. It later went up to $149 a share."

"Did you take your cash profit?" Attorney Reeve asked.

"No," Scheel smiled sadly, "my idea was to stay in the Insull picture. I still have the canceled check for $900,000."

He listed his present debts to banks at between $300,000 and $400,000 with collateral approximating less than half this amount. His farm is part of the collateral.

"Are you a gentleman farmer?" Reeve inquired.

"No," was the reply. "I'm too rough for that."

Earlier in the day Prosecutor Salter cross-examined Edward J. Doyle, another of the defendants, who gave his direct testimony on Monday. Doyle, president of the Commonwealth Edison company, who was a director of Corporation Securities, denied any knowledge of maintenance of the market. He also denied that he had any "inside information" when he sold his Utility Investments holdings in 1931. He sustained a loss but escaped being wiped out.

Eight Character Witnesses.

Of the eight character witnesses of the day, three testified for Samuel Insull Jr. Besides Mr. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, they were Edison Dick, vice president of the A. B. Dick company, and Joel D. Hunter, superintendent of the United Charities of Chicago. Mr. Dick, like Mr. Hutchins, was a classmate of the younger Insull at Yale.

Witnesses for Defendant Charles R. Whitworth were Attorney James H. Winston, B. F. Lewis, securities salesman, and C. J. Phillips, a banker, receiver for the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company.

Silas Strawn, former president of the American Bar association, and James D. Cunningham, president of the Republic Flowmeter company, appeared for Defendant Waldo F. Tobey.

No character witnesses will be called for Samuel Insull, Attorney Thompson declared out of court.

MARTIN INSULL TRIAL IN STATE COURT IS DELAYED TO NOV. 26

State and defense have agreed to postpone the embezzlement trial of Martin Insull, brother of Samuel Insull, until Nov. 26, it was learned yesterday. The order will be entered this morning by Judge Cornelius Harrington in the Criminal court. The agreed delay was caused, court attachés said, by the trial of Samuel Insull in the federal court and negotiations between state and defense for stipulation as to part of the evidence to be presented by the state. The state hopes to use some of the evidence introduced by the government in Samuel Insull's trial.

MRS. McCREARY, SISTER-IN-LAW OF INSULL JR., DIES

Lung Embolism Is Fatal After Operation.

Mrs. Katharine Pierce McCreary, wife of Robert N. McCreary of Lake Forest, sister of the late Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr., died suddenly yesterday in St. Luke's hospital, where she underwent an abdominal operation ten days ago. She was 38 years old. A pulmonary embolism, or clot of blood in a lung, caused her death.

Mrs. Insull, who was 36 years old, died in St. Luke's last Feb. 11, nine months before her sister. Her death also was caused by a pulmonary embolism that followed an abdominal operation.

Taken to Hospital Nov. 4.

Mrs. McCreary, ill of an abdominal tumor, was taken to the hospital on Nov. 4 from her home at 397 North Washington road, Lake Forest. She was operated on immediately by Dr. H. O. Jones, and until yesterday her condition had been satisfactory. A few minutes before her death she was sitting up in bed.

The blood clot developed without warning and she died at 2:15 p. m. before any member of the family could be summoned. Members of the hospital staf notified her husband, who is vice president of the Traver corporation, 358 West Ontario street. Samuel Insull Jr. was also informed of the death and left the court room of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, where he is on trial with his father and 15 others, to go to the hospital.

Daughter of Coal Executive.

Mrs. McCreary was the daughter of Charles Ingals Pierce, who died on June 13, 1927. He was president of the Salina County Coal corporation, and was a descendant of a distinguished family of pioneers who settled in New England in 1628.

Mr. and Mrs. McCreary were married in Chicago on June 4, 1921. She had been president of the Junior league in Chicago, but after her marriage she did not take an active part in society. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Adelaide, 11 years old, and a son, Pierce, 8.

Funeral services will be held in Lake Forest, but arrangements will not be completed until today.

CONSULS RECALL ARMISTICE; ISSUE PLEA FOR PEACE

A plea for world peace was sounded in the flag-draped Colonial ballroom of the Drake hotel yesterday when twenty-three foreign consuls stationed in Chicago met with the North Central Kiwanis club and members of the American Legion at a luncheon in commemoration of the armistice.

Nations that were world war foes and two nations, Bolivia and Paraguay, now at war in the Gran Chaco area, joined in urging peace.

"There is no question about the stand of my country," said Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul and dean of the consular corps. "The sentiment for peace is strong and honest."

"I should like to call attention to my country," said Olaf Bernts, Norwegian consul. "It is a quiet, peaceful little spot, where there has been no war since 1814. Even the Swedish-Norwegian kingdom was divided without war."

"They fought, we were told, to make an end to war for all time," said Jaroslav F. Smetanka, consul for Czechoslovakia, "but in the sixteen years since the armistice we have not come near that goal."

NEGRO CAMPAIGN AID HOME AFTER ELECTION DRIVE FOR CHICAGOAN

Columbus, Miss., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Sylvester Harris was back on his farm near here today, glad his political campaigning is over and "more satisfied away from the noise in Chicago."

Harris, a Negro, whose farm was saved from foreclosure after he appealed by telephone to President Roosevelt, went to Chicago to speak in behalf of Arthur W. Mitchell, Negro Democrat, who was elected to the national house of representatives from the First Illinois district.

"Did some one write your speeches?" Sylvester was asked.

"Shucks, it wouldn't 'a done any good," he retorted, "'cause I can't read. I just got up and told them to quit talkin' about Abraham Lincoln and talk about President Roosevelt. Why, I told them Mr. Lincoln had been dead most 70 years and to think about who was President now."

Of Chicago Sylvester said: "Too much noise and too many folks."

STATE MORTGAGE LAW IS UPHELD BY IOWA HIGH COURT

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Iowa Supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the second Iowa mortgage moratorium law.

The case involved validity of a statute passed by the last legislature providing for a delay in mortgage foreclosure actions until March 1, 1935, in cases where a decree has been entered but no deed has been issued. The court previously had upheld the other mortgage act which provides for a continuance in cases where no decree has yet been entered.

Today's case was an appeal from the Keokuk District court and arrayed the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company against W. M. and Elsie L. Clingan. The company had foreclosed the mortgage and the property had been sold on execution. Before the deed was issued, however, the Clingans applied for continuance of the case until March 1, 1935. Judge Frank Bechly dismissed the application and the Clingans appealed.

Margaret Lindsay, Iowa Movie Star, Seriously Ill

JAILED AS JEWEL THIEF.

Raymond Nelson, 34 years old, 2433 Leland avenue, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge J. William Brooks for the theft of jewelry from Miss Bessie Post, 23 years old, 408 West 72d street.

KINGFISH JAMS DICTATOR BILLS THROUGH MILL

Final Passage Scheduled for Today.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long set what many regarded as a legislative speed record today when he rushed 44 bills through the ways and means committee in an hour and 58 minutes.

A few hours later the house suspended its rules and passed the bills to third reading for final passage tomorrow. There was not even a sight of opposition.

After acting on the bills, the house adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow, the same time the senate is scheduled to convene. It is predicted the house at that time will pass all the bills and send them immediately to the senate for action.

Long allowed none of these bills to be read and allowed no vote on them in the committee. His method was to tell what the bill contained, vote "no" for one representative, and then announce the bill favorably reported.

Seeks to Crush Foe.

Every one of the 44 bills adds to his power and smashes the so-called New Orleans ring.

Under provisions of these bills Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, his political foe, will be shorn of authority and crushed politically.

After the bills were passed by the committee Long said: "Now we've got everything we want in Louisiana. This is Utopia. We'll share the wealth, save the poor, and smash the city gang."

The measures meeting the approval of Long's legislators provide for the state's control of every board in every parish and city in Louisiana. The governor will have complete charge of all police and fire departments and will exercise absolute supervision over all elections.

A board named by the governor also will pass on admissions to practice law in Louisiana. Long also had ratified a plan declaring a two year debt moratorium, the legality of all applications to be passed on by his state bank examiner.

Provides Utilities Rule.

The public service commission also will take over all supervision of public utilities in the state, fixing the rates for light, power, heat and transportation.

After the ways and means committee adjourned, having allowed Long to throttle all debate, the Kingfish said: "Now I'll control every board and every job and every business insofar as a state can control it in New Orleans except the community chest and the Red Cross, and nobody wants to boss them."

"If I Were President."

Then he turned to his empire of Utopia. As he emerged from his throneroom he said, "If I became President of the United States I'd guarantee a fortune of $5,000, and more if needed, to every family. I'd have all debts postponed and trimmed down if the debtors couldn't pay them."

Long had a lot of other things, such as the regulation of crops and the distribution of food, on his mind, but just then somebody mentioned "Biff Jones," coach of the Louisiana State university football team. As he walked toward Gov. Allen's office the Kingfish shouted: "They can't stop Abe Mickal from being a state senator, because I have decreed it, and a senator he is."

Cornelius Huston rose to the limits of his 6 feet 3 last evening and protested vigorously as he was pushed into a cell at the Central police station.

"What kind of town is this and what kind of soft people are ye?" he demanded. "Here I am, 82 years old, and this is the first time that ever I was jailed for nothing more than cracking a skull with a good ash stick. Is this the way to treat a white haired old man?"

Huston, who is a peddler of razors, was seized at Madison and La Salle streets as he was "laying the ash" on the head of B. W. Mosey, 65 years old, a rival salesman. He was formally charged with assault and battery and Mosey, who claimed that he was attacked when he protested the older man was edging in on his territory, was booked for disorderly conduct.

"Back in Donegal, where I come from," asserted Huston, "we don't even count an ashen shillalah unless it's grown over with lumps. Mosey is like the rest of ye. The young fellow can't take it."

WILD DRIVERS AND THOUGHTLESS PEDESTRIANS DON'T WORRY THE STREET CAR RIDERS

Viewed from an Airplane

Peering down on Chicago from an airplane, any hour of the day, one can see a veritable maze of street cars hurrying everywhere . . . not on a few arterial streets, as in most cities, but on all kinds of streets, big and little.

It is no wonder that 80 per cent of all passengers using Chicago transportation service are riding the Chicago Surface Lines.

Its low 7 cent fare, free transfers, and convenient service are superior to what can be had from any other local transportation agency.

The Chicago Surface Lines is the largest street railway system in the world, and a home institution. Chicago capital built it; practically all the money collected in fares is spent in Chicago.

COURTNEY BOOM VIEWED AS KEY TO HORNER'S FATE

Downstate Has Eye on One Post.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—One subject, the apparent certainty that State's Attorney Courtney will be the organization choice for United States senator in the next national election, continued today to occupy the attention at the Democratic powwow here to the exclusion of all other subjects.

The specific reason for the continued high interest in this matter concerned another office, the governorship. It has been pointed out that if the nominee for the senatorship hails from Cook county, downstate will lay claim to the other big place which now is held by a Chicago man, Henry Horner. It also is pointed out that the senatorial seat at stake is the one occupied by a Cook county man, James Hamilton Lewis, and that for Cook county to cling to the governorship would mean giving both the senatorships to downstate.

Two Sections Alternate.

It has been the unwritten law that the two sections alternate in selecting nominees for the senatorship. With William H. Dieterich of Beardstown holding over for another four years in one of them, it is Cook county's turn next time. It is argued now that if Cook county's great voting strength should effect the nomination of a ticket headed by Courtney for senator and Horner for governor, downstate would go Republican sufficiently to make the situation extremely dangerous to both nominees. Such a thing is considered out of the question politically.

Gov. Horner is here and the development concerning the senatorship is believed to have made his position a difficult one, but he has shown no signs of displeasure. He has played cards with Courtney since the news was told to him but there was not a sign of displeasure on his part in spite of the rapidly growing conviction that his heart is set on a second term at Springfield. He is proud of his record there and privately has scoffed at suggestions that in preference to remaining in the governorship he would accept appointment to the United States District or Circuit court.

Conjecture Over Lewis.

So far as can be learned he has not cherished even secretly a desire for the senatorship. His intimates say that his only thought and hope so far as public life for the next few years is concerned is continuation of his work at Springfield. They also say that he refuses to believe that when a showdown comes Courtney will be the organization selection for the Lewis seat.

There also is considerable conjecture here about the attitude of Senator Lewis toward the Courtney boom. He never has disclosed any intention except that of running again in 1936, but the Courtney spokesmen say their candidate will run even if it means a primary battle with Senator Lewis.

One angle of the situation in reference to Senator Lewis' influence at Washington concerns that former Republican from Illinois, Secretary of the Interior Ickes. It is felt among the leaders who talk of such subjects among themselves quietly that neither Senator Lewis nor Senator Dieterich has been able to sway Ickes in important matters concerning Chicago.

Resent Ickes' "Invasion."

Specifically there is resentment at this time of a reported demand for Secretary Ickes concerning the new makeup of the Chicago drainage board. It is said on unquestionable authority that the secretary insists that Trustee Ross A. Woodhull be made not only president of the board but also chairman of the all important finance committee.

Ickes is said to base this demand on his claim to the right to supervise all the financial affairs of the district because of the loan to it of government funds. Here it is contended his position constitutes an invasion of local government that is unjustifiable, that federal supervision need constitute nothing more than a watchful eye on the affairs of the board, without the hand picking of its officials.

KILLS GIRL WIFE ON STREET, THEN SLAYS HIMSELF

Medora, Ind., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Writing a death note on a plain little handkerchief, the first gift ever given him by the girl-wife with whom he was not allowed to live, Muriel Hunsucker, 25, shot her dead on the street here this afternoon and then committed suicide.

She was 16 and her name was Dorothy, an honor student in the local high school. The pretty child-bride was killed just across the street from the school, to which she was returning after lunch.

A portion of the death note written on the handkerchief was addressed to Mrs. Louis Carr, mother of Dorothy, who lived in Buffalo, N. Y., until just a few years ago. Young Hunsucker blamed Mrs. Carr for keeping his wife from him, after their secret marriage was discovered last month. They had been married in Louisville, Ky., in September, 1933.

"This is the first thing Dorothy ever gave me, and I am returning it," Hunsucker wrote on the handkerchief, found in his right breast pocket.

Below he wrote:

"To her mother: You made a mistake but it is too late now. I can never forgive you but I love Dorothy. Please take warning from this because I love her and can't have her. We will die together this Nov. 13, 1934."

LAWYER ASKS FOR PARDON FOR RUSSEL, EX-STATE TREASURER

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—President Franklin Roosevelt will be asked to pardon Andrew Russel of Jacksonville, former state treasurer and auditor of public accounts. Russel was sentenced to an 18 month term on the federal detention farm at Milan, Mich., for conspiracy that led to the failure of Ayres National bank in Jacksonville two years ago.

Russel's attorney, C. J. Doyle of Springfield, conferred here today with Judge Charles G. Briggle. Doyle said a cerebral hemorrhage had left Russel, nearly 79, unable to speak coherently. Russel, he said, has been in the hospital practically all of the time since he was taken to the institution last July.

Russel's physical condition will be the basis of the plea for executive clemency. Doyle said he believed the fact that Russel received a minimum sentence and has no previous record would be in his favor.

Doyle said physicians' statements have been taken and only those of Judge Briggle and District Attorney Frank K. Lemon are needed.

After the bank closed, charges of misapplication of the bank's funds were made against Russel, who was vice president, and Millard F. Dunlap, who was president. Dunlap is serving two terms, one of two years and the other of 18 months, in Leavenworth prison.

URGES CHILDREN BE KEPT OUT OF OLD BUILDINGS

Parents were cautioned yesterday to keep their children away from vacant buildings to guard against deaths such as that of Bruno Sak, 14 years old, 1651 West Huron street, killed in the collapse of a structure at 615 North Paulina street Monday evening.

The warning was issued by Building Commissioner Richard E. Schmidt shortly after a coroner's jury had decided the Sak boy's death was accidental. It was disclosed at the inquest that the building had not been condemned, but that the occupants had moved voluntarily last Friday. After that firewood thieves had weakened the building supports, Mr. Schmidt said.

Mr. Schmidt declared there are 3,000 condemned buildings in the city and that it would require 9,000 policemen to guard them against the intrusion of children. Demolition of these buildings is often delayed because of receiverships and pending tax suits, he said. He pointed out that through lack of funds the city is unable to wreck any but the most dangerous structures. The commissioner said 233 such buildings were demolished between July 6 and Nov. 10.

JOHNSON KEEPS G. O. P. JOB, BUT LOSES POWERS

Executive Group of Five Reported Authorized.

The battle among Republican state central committeemen to oust Chairman Justus L. Johnson of Aurora on charges of exercising a too despotic rule in party affairs ended last night in something better than a draw for the chairman.

Johnson retained his title, at the conclusion of seven hours of hot argument in a smoky little room in the Hamilton club, but, henceforth, a majority was said to have decided, his financial acts must be approved by a managing committee of five.

As official explanation of all that happened during this long period of acrimony which, at times, rose to such a pitch as to be audible in adjoining corridors, the following mild statement was issued:

"The Republican state central committee met today to consider plans covering the activities of the committee in the success of the Republican party in the next election. Twenty one of twenty five members attended.

Finds Occasion for Cheer.

"The committee, instead of being downcast, was quite jubilant over the accomplishment of electing more Republicans to county offices than at any time since 1928.

"To carry on the activities until 1936, a managing committee was elected, composed of the following: Thomas J. Houston, Chicago, chairman; S. Timothy Washington, Chicago; Roy E. Larsen, Galesburg; William R. Allen, Peoria, and John H. Searing, Carbondale."

Nothing official was announced of the fact that at the height of the quarrel anti-Johnson forces cast a majority of votes against tabling a motion which called for his ouster. Each member's voting strength in committee meetings equals the number of Republican votes tallied in his district in the April primaries. The roll yesterday showed: for Johnson, 338,918; against Johnson, 445,265.

Although Johnson's friends argued that a majority vote was properly a majority of the total Republican vote in the state, or more than 486,000, his enemies declared it to be only a majority of those cast in the meeting. If they had decided to press that point and a direct motion to depose the chairman had been put, he could have been declared out. Had that happened, it was the plan of his enemies to elect Committeeman Searing in Johnson's place.

But the direct motion was never put. Johnson was asked to leave the committee to its own deliberations at that point and he paced the hall for the next two hours, in company with his attorney, George E. Q. Johnson, former federal judge.

Committeeman Roy R. Barnes of Bushnell took the chair in Johnson's absence and the wrangle proceeded. Urging the chairman's ouster were the ten Chicago committeemen who had supported John F. Tyrrell's motion to depose him. Moving to table it had been Myron E. Mills of Jacksonville. All downstaters, save Searing, were reported to have voted for Johnson.

Compromise for Appearances.

As the smoke grew thicker in the small room, three electric fans were brought in to dispel the clouds and at about the same time it was reported that the anti-Johnson faction was receding a little from its stand. The insurgents were said to be of a mind that such censure of the chairman as his ouster would indicate would do little to help the party in the state. Finally R. R. Bookwalter of Danville suggested the managing committee idea as a good means to impose some restraint on the chairman, and after more debate a resolution to create the committee was drawn.

The resolution was not made public, but it was reported to empower the committee to approve contributions and supervise expenditures. During the recent campaign, Johnson handled these matters alone and thus aroused the ire of a number of committeemen. However, since the committee is most active during election campaigns and the present body's life extends only until the 1936 primaries, in which the committee as a whole is not expected to take much of a part, neither collections nor expenditures are expected to be high.

The last official act was to swear all members to secrecy and authorize the official announcement.

HUNTED NEARLY YEAR IN COAST SLAYING, PAIR SURRENDERS

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Two men sought for almost a year by San Francisco police on a charge of murdering Sam Daugherty, reputed New York and Philadelphia gangster, walked into the hall of justice today and surrendered.

The pair, Ben Greengrass and Jack Kirchner of Los Angeles, appeared with an attorney, John Taffee, who informed police: "Both men are innocent. You have no case against them."

Greengrass and Kirchner promptly were booked on the murder charge. Daugherty was found slain beside a highway on the outskirts of San Francisco.

Arrest Man and Woman on Bogus Check Charge

David Williams, 32 years old, and Mrs. Grace Schnorf, 30, both of 1519 East 62nd street, were arrested last evening by Policeman Joseph Lynch of the Hyde Park police on a charge of passing a worthless check to a fruit merchant at 1300 East 55th street. The police said they had complaints from more than fifty persons who accused the couple.

FORST ELECTED EMPLOYER FOR PARK DISTRICT

Stephen D. Forst was elected superintendent of employment and secretary of the civil service board of the Chicago park district at a meeting of the commissioners yesterday. Robert J. Dunham, president of the district, will serve as chairman of the civil service board and Commissioner Harry Joseph will be the third member.

Mr. Forst had been a civil service employé and assistant superintendent of employment for the south park system since 1930. Mr. Dunham announced that the board will take up its duties at once. Employés of the 22 superseded park districts will be placed under the jurisdiction of the board.

The park commissioners voted to advertise for bids to rehabilitate the field house at Almira Simons park, which was a part of the old northwest park district. The structure was partly destroyed by fire and its rebuilding is expected to cost approximately $26,000.

TNT PROSECUTOR GIVEN ONE MORE CHANCE BY JUDGE

Prove Charges, Court Warns State.

Prosecutors of the racket conspiracy charges against the Trucking and Transport exchange [the TNT] spent an uncomfortable day in the Criminal court of Judge William V. Brothers yesterday.

Throughout the session the state's attorneys were under fire from Judge Brothers, who demanded that the prosecution produce evidence to sustain charges of conspiracy to fix prices and enforce a boycott, made in the indictment against the 15 business men and labor union leaders who are on trial.

Michael Ready, 4728 Greenwood avenue, head of a coal, paving and excavating firm bearing his name, presented as one of the state's main witnesses, was the one whose testimony brought the first verbal barrage on the prosecutors.

Joins During Strike.

Ready testified in substance that he joined the Associated Contractors' association, one of the alleged TNT affiliates, when he had a strike at his coal yard in 1930. He went to see John Bransfield, paving and excavating contractor and one of the officials of the association.

"I went to Bransfield at the association headquarters because I was tied up," testified Ready. "Bransfield said if I would join the association he would see if he could straighten the matter out. He said he didn't know what he could do, if anything, but said he would try and get in touch with Marcus Looney, official of the union."

Ready testified he joined the association paying the $1,000 initiation fee. The strike was called off in a day or two, he said. [Both the men he named are defendants.]

At the conclusion of Ready's testimony Attorney Benedict J. Short, chief of the defense counsel, made a motion to strike his evidence from the record on the ground that it did not come under any count of the indictment.

Calls Hand of Prosecution.

The judge ordered the prosecution to show how Ready's testimony was applicable. The reply was that it came under the second count in the indictment, which charges a boycott of employers' hiring of workers in the black dirt industry.

"We simply have reached the point, gentlemen, where we are going to get some evidence, if there is any, under the indictment if we can," said the judge. "The defense can concede Mr. Ready's testimony, and it doesn't mean anything under the indictment."

Prosecutors Donald Thompson, Thomas Bugan and Robert Donigan took turns at arguing. They said that the evidence showed "threats and intimidation" to drive Ready into the Contractors' association. The judge stopped them short.

Calls Testimony Worthless.

"There is not a syllable of evidence to that effect in Mr. Ready's testimony," said the judge. "You are trying to read something into the evidence which has not been testified to."

Prosecutor Thompson started to say something about drawing a "fair inference" from the testimony to that effect.

"You cannot convict men in this court on inference," said the judge. "It is no use to take up my time unless you can produce positive evidence of a conspiracy. I can not see any conspiracy in this evidence."

The judge finally agreed to reserve a final ruling to give the state a chance to produce two other witnesses to connect up Ready's testimony.

The state met another rebuff just before court adjourned when Judge Brothers refused to allow Lieut. John Howe to testify that he arrested two of the minor defendants with a group of hoodlums in the offices of the so-called Crime Inc., from where it is charged the racketeers' activities were directed. In view of a Supreme court decision, which held the police raid was illegal the judge ruled it out of evidence.

Falls from Chair to Bed and Strangles to Death

Onarga, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Charles Wilson, 54, was strangled to death last night when he fell forward from a chair across an iron bed, his neck resting so that breathing was impossible. Coroner Hataling gave an accidental death verdict.

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMING HOUSE AFTER STOVE BLAST

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Four small children were burned to death this afternoon when a kerosene stove exploded in their home in Inkster, 12 miles west of here.

The children were alone at the time of the explosion. The house had only one door, and the flames rapidly cut them off from the exit.

Mrs. Betty Wendt, 25, the mother, noticed the fire from the home of a neighbor, where she had gone. She rushed to the burning house and neighbors restrained her from entering it.

The children were Charles, 5; Henrietta, 4; George, 2; and Ruth, 3 months. Their father is Gus Wendt, former motor company employé.

FINDS "STRINGS" TO RAIL REBATES ON CHARITY COAL

IERC Official Seeking Change in Pro-Ration.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday he intends to see what can be done about changing the present proration of the charity coal business among various mining districts so that $100,000 may be saved in freight rates. The arrangement calls for the hauling of 62.4 per cent of Cook county's 1,500,000 tons from the most distant mines, those in southern Illinois.

Several months ago the commission announced that the railroads had agreed to give freight rebates of 20 per cent on charity coal, substantially reducing the higher prices being paid under the NRA codes. Now it is learned that several "strings" are attached to the railroads' offer, which virtually will wipe out any actual rebate on southern Illinois coal and decrease the amount rebated in other cases.

Requires Terminal Charge.

The "strings" tied to the rebate are provisions requiring that a fixed terminal charge of 30 cents a ton be paid on the relief coal, and that the 20 per cent be applied only to that portion of the freight rate which exceeds one half cent a mile for each ton.

Thus, in the case of southern Illinois, the minimum of $1.60 must be paid on the basis of a 320 mile haul, the distance used for rate making purposes. The commission must also pay 30 cents for the terminal charge, making $1.90. The public pays $1.95 a ton. The 20 per cent rebate on the difference is only 1 cent.

Rebates on coal hauled from other Illinois mining districts would be: Springfield district, 27 cents a ton; Fulton county and Middlegrove, 25 cents; Peoria, 23 cents; Atkinson, 22 cents; Danville, 19 cents; northern Illinois, 18 cents; Wilmington, 16 cents; Centralia, 9 cents, and Belleville, 4 cents.

Burden Higher Than in 1933.

Mr. Reynolds said he had not known before how the arrangement with the railroads would work out in dollars and cents. He declared that an investigation would be made to determine whether much of the southern Illinois coal could be consumed at points where the freight rates also would offer opportunity for application of the rebate.

Regardless of freight rebates, the commission, by its unprotesting acceptance of prices fixed by the NRA stands to pay $2,000,000 more for its coal during the approaching winter than it would on the basis of prices paid under competitive bids in 1933.

HAUPTMANN LAWYER ATTACKS LADDER AND FOOTPRINT THEORIES

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Lloyd Fisher, an associate defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, charged today New Jersey deliberately is withholding or distorting evidence.

"If the state," he said, "would publish the true report of the examination of the kidnap ladder by the state's wood expert it would show Hauptmann was not the builder. Hauptmann could not have built the ladder for reasons which are obvious in the expert's report, bearing in mind that Hauptmann is a skilled carpenter."

Fisher added an examination of the grounds at the Lindbergh Hopewell estate revealed the footprints of three persons outside the home after the kidnaping. One of them was a nervous man, Fisher said.

Two sets of footprints, Fisher said, had been discovered in St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, where the $50,000 ransom money was handed over by Dr. John F. Condon.

"If the state is truthful it would say that none of the five sets of footprints match Hauptmann's," Fisher said.

STOVE BLAST HURTS TWO.

2 PLEAD GUILTY TO RELIEF FRAUD; AWAIT SENTENCE

Frank Scaglione, grocer at 3531 Harrison street, and Martin Anklan, a former employé in the auditor's office of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to defraud the relief commission. Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court announced that he would sentence the defendants on Friday.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin, Scaglione and Anklan conspired with Hector Pena and Matthew Mertz, both former relief employés, to defraud the commission of $12,000 through forged grocery orders. Pena is now a fugitive, while Mertz has been fined $100 and sentenced to one year in jail.

Louis Monkevich, 47 years old, 929 West 33d street, was fined $20 by Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne yesterday and was ordered to make restitution of $147 obtained from the relief commission. Testimony showed that Monkevich's wife had between $500 and $600 in a building and loan association while the couple were on the relief rolls.

Girl in "Iron Lung" Gains Ground Against Paralysis

Pearl Faust, 16 years old, of 3721 North Lavergne avenue, may win her fight against infantile paralysis, physicians at the Cook county hospital said yesterday. The girl, a senior at Carl Schurz High school, has spent much of the last three weeks in a Drinker respirator because her lung muscles were unable to function. She has been improving steadily and is now spending more time out of the "iron lung." She is the only child of William Faust, a salesman.

Masterpiece of Oriental Rug Weaving

One of the world's most famous rugs, the Ardebil mosque carpet now treasured in the South Kensington Museum of London, was the inspiration for one of Pushman's precious semi-antique Kerman rugs. With its intricate mingling of vines and blossoms and delicate arabesque traceries, this beautiful rug at Pushman's is perfectly in the spirit of the rare 16th century Persian masterpiece, woven by Maksoud for the tomb of Sheikh Ismael.

Its exquisite colour harmonies are thoroughly in the famous Ardebil tradition—the typically lovely shades of rose, soft blue and gold on a mellow ivory ground, with deep blue central medallion and corner motifs. And the weave is exceedingly fine. Its size is 19.2x12.3 . . . and the price is $1,500.

U. OF C. SHRINE VIVIDLY DEPICTS LIFE OF LINCOLN

Relics Arranged in New Harper Library Room.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

In the true Lincoln spirit of friendliness and simplicity the University of Chicago's vast collection of Lincolniana, and the shrine room containing it, will be dedicated this evening.

Not university presidents and professors, not historians and researchers, but the craftsmen who prepared the stately room overlooking the Midway for the display of its thousands of dollars' worth of treasures, will bestow the touch of consecration upon a collection which makes Chicago one of five great seats of Lincoln study in the United States.

Sixty Artisans to be Guests.

Sixty carpenters, cabinetmakers, plasterers, glaziers, painters, metal workers, and electricians, and their families, will be the guests of the university and will receive its congratulations on the workmanlike completion of their task. They will assemble in the shrine room on the second floor of Harper library at 7 o'clock and in the course of the evening will listen to an informal talk on the best beloved of our Presidents by McKendree Llewellyn Raney, head of the university's libraries.

Tomorrow evening the university organization known as The Friends of the Library, of which John S. Miller is president and Mr. Raney secretary and treasurer, will be given an opportunity to view the shrine room. Thereafter it will be open to the public from 2 to 5 o'clock p. m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, and from 9 to 12 o'clock a. m. on Saturdays. Admission on Sundays is soon to be arranged.

A Lincoln Preference.

In explaining why the workmen are given precedence in the ceremonies which mark the completion of a great task, Dr. Raney said:

"We think Mr. Lincoln would have liked it that way."

Under Dr. Raney's direction no conventional museum has been created, but a historical panorama of Lincoln's life and times. From boyhood to apotheosis his career is vividly set forth in portraits, prints, photographs, proclamations, documents in his own handwriting and in the handwriting of others, and in nearly 4,000 books and pamphlets.

Every case and every shelf containing these treasures either unfolds the drama in some great act in Lincoln's life or imparts a little comedy at once intimate and endearing.

Tell a Vivid Story.

All the displays are arranged with a scrupulous eye to chronology, with the result that, while a scholar is delighted by the emphasis on sequences and contrasts, a child can readily follow the story.

For example, how close to Lincoln the father will a laboriously scrawled letter by Willie Lincoln bring a child. That letter lies in a glass case which the child can easily examine. Willie, then nine years old, and his father were on a visit in Chicago in June, 1859, and Willie sat down to write his friend Henry Riemann in Springfield about the visit.

Text of the Boy's Letter.

Thus the human little document chatters to you from the glass case in the shrine room after three-quarters of a century:

Chicago, Ill.
June the six 1859

Dear Henry

This town is a very beautiful place. Me and father went to two theatres the other night. Me and father have a nice little room to ourselves. We have two little pitcher on a washstand. The smallest one for me the largest one for father. We have two little towels on a top of both pitchers. The smallest one for me, the largest one for father.

We have two little beds in the room. The smallest one for me, the largest one for father.

We have two little wash basins. The smallest one for me, the largest one for father. The weather is very very fine here in this town. Was through Exhibition on wednesday before last.

Your Truly

WILLIE LINCOLN

Willie—his full name was William Wallace Lincoln—died in the White House on Feb. 20, 1862, at the age of twelve. He was the third of Mr. Lincoln's four sons. Long after the civil war there hung in thousands of American homes copies of an engraving entitled "Abraham Lincoln and His Family." By the time it was made Willie was gone, but the engraving shows a portrait of him hanging on the wall of the room in which the living members of the family were assembled.

Two Vivid Memorials.

That old engraving and the letter in the new shrine room are the most vivid memorials we have of a child whose death nearly broke the hearts of his parents.

"She was not a model mother," wrote the scrupulous Barton, most careful of Lincoln's biographers, of Willie's mother—"she was too nervous, too impetuous; her chidings and caresses depended too much on her own moods. . . . But she loved her children passionately."

Portraits of Mr. Lincoln in the shrine room show him from the age of 37 to his death at the age of 56. The most important of them is a portrait painted from life in the winter of 1860 by George Frederick Wright after Lincoln has been elected to the presidency but was still living in Springfield. Fifteen painters were on the scene and they studied, sketched and painted their subject during the morning hours when he was opening his mail and receiving visitors in the hall of representatives in the state capitol—now the Sangamon county courthouse.

Friends Aid in Selection.

When the fifteen portraits were completed Lincoln called in William Butler and his family, in whose home he had lived for ten years before his marriage, and asked them to help him select the best. All agreed upon the Wright portrait and Lincoln presented it to the Butlers. In that family it remained until 1911 when it was purchased by the late Edward W. Payne, a Springfield banker. From his estate the University of Chicago purchased it for $5,000.

"Wright's high proficiency," said Dr. Raney, lay in his ability to produce a perfect likeness and in his adroit management of flesh tints. In both respects this portrait is a fine example of his work. His success in flesh tints had its origin in a method he learned in Rome. He would make several preliminary studies of his subject in two tints of burnt sepia and, having photographed the studies, he would choose the one that came out most clearly. It became the basis of the portrait and he would overlay it with his permanent colors. Through the permanent colors the sepia crept, this giving the finished portrait the living flesh tone.

"There long has been an argument as to whether Mr. Lincoln's eyes were gray or blue. Wright's portrait settles that question. As you approach it from a distance the eyes seem gray but close inspection shows them to be blue."

Portrait Hangs in Shrine.

This portrait hangs on the east wall of the room and through the room's grilled doorway it instantly commands the eyes of visitors coming up the outer corridor. Deftly arranged lights shine down upon the painting. Thus distance and lights produce a shrine-like effect that is highly dramatic without seeming too studied. In a glass case beneath the portrait Leonard Volk's famous bronzes of Lincoln's head and hands repose. The sense of a room dominated by an altar is complete and deeply affecting. During hours when the room is not open to the public the illuminated portrait and the bronze head and hands still are visible through the grilled doorway to persons passing along the corridor. It is the university's purpose to keep the lights burning during all hours when any part of Harper library is open.

Famous Collections bought.

The university's Lincoln collection represents purchases from the Barton collection, the Osborn Oldroyd collection, and the Alexander Hannah collection. Those rich sources make it one of the five great Lincoln collections in this country. The other four are the collections of the Library of Congress, of Brown university, of the Huntington library in California, and of the Lincoln National Life Insurance company in Fort Wayne, Ind. In some respects ours is without a peer, and, as to arrangement, its special charm lies in the dramatic presentation of the thousands of volumes, documents and portraits. It is not for the joy of scholars alone but for the plain people whom Lincoln loved and understood so well.

WET AND DRY ISSUE STIRS UP CITIZENS OF QUIET HINSDALE

The quiet suburb of Hinsdale has found itself embroiled in a heated wet and dry issue due to the conflicting rulings of two judges and the village board and the enterprise of three tradesmen.

At a referendum last April Hinsdale voted two to one to ban the sale of liquor. Attacking the referendum on the question of validity of the petition of citizens by which it was called, three store owners appealed to the Du Page County court. After ruling out a number of names on the petition, the court found it did not have sufficient signers and declared the referendum void.

The tradesmen, S. Cleiness, Elmer E. Otto, and Paul Belluomini, attempted to sell liquor, but were prevented by the village trustees, acting through the police, whose stand was that Hinsdale should be kept dry by virtue of the voters' opinion. The three merchants sought an injunction against the village officials from the Circuit court at Wheaton, but it was denied yesterday by Judge Max F. Allaben. What the next move would be was doubtful, but the police said they would follow the dictates of the village board.

WIFE OF PRESIDENT REACHES ST. LOUIS TO OPEN RELIEF DRIVE

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived in St. Louis late tonight to aid in the formal opening tomorrow of the United Relief campaign in St. Louis.

The President's wife slipped into the city unannounced and was met at Union station by Allan T. Burns, New York, executive secretary of the mobilization for human needs movement, and his secretary, Miss Florence Seder.

CLOTHING AFIRE, BLIND WOMAN, 76, BURNS TO DEATH

Mrs. Mary McIntosh, 76 years old and blind, was fatally burned last night in her home at 7349 University avenue. Her flat, on the first floor, is heated by stoves and her clothing caught fire as she was putting coal in one in the living room.

Her screams attracted the attention of Eugene Smith, 56 years old, a roomer. He wrapped a blanket around Mrs. McIntosh and extinguished the flames. She died early today at the Jackson Park hospital. Smith's hands were severely burned and he was treated at the hospital.

BEGIN LANDSCAPE WORK AT HOMES OF RELIEF WARDS

A project to landscape the homes of relief "clients" in Kane county has been approved by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, it was disclosed yesterday. It was predicted that these homes would have the brightest gardens in their communities when warm weather rolls around again.

Under John A. Gustafson, Batavia florist, five landscape gardeners have been culled from the direct relief rolls and employed on a work relief basis to supervise the project. It was said that the "clients" are expected to do the actual labor involved in beautifying their gardens, however. Mr. Gustafson is the paid director of subsistence gardens in the county.

The seeds, bulbs, and shrubbery to be used in the project will be donated by local garden clubs and interested citizens, it was said.

Robber Keeps His Word and Victim Gets Car Back

A robber who held up Carl C. Sittler of 8034 Champlain avenue last night at 62d street and Drexel avenue got $18 and Mr. Sittler's car. As he started away he gave the victim $1 for car fare and told him he would find the car in the vicinity a little later. Mr. Sittler didn't believe it, but when he went back after two hours the car was there.

Office Prowlers Flee as Dentist Opens Fire

Dr. Samuel Perlman, dentist, was in his office on the second floor at 3834 Lawrence avenue last night when three youths attempted to break in a door, supposedly with the intention of stealing gold. The doctor picked up a pistol, emerged from another door, and ordered the trio to surrender. They fled instead and Dr. Perlman emptied his pistol. He reported to the police his belief he had wounded at least one man.

CAPITAL LEADS SISTER CITIES IN TOTAL OF CRIMES

It's Ahead of Pittsburgh and New Orleans.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The city of Washington, governed by and for New Dealers, enjoys the dubious distinction of leading eight sister cities of approximately the same size in crime. That was disclosed today in an analysis by the department of justice of crime in ten cities hovering about the half million population mark.

Washington takes first place in robbery, grand larceny and petty larceny and is second in murder, burglary and auto thefts. In the first nine months of the year on this basis the capital leads in general crime. Cincinnati, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Newark, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Buffalo, and Milwaukee follow in the order named.

What Figures Reveal.

In the first nine months of the year the total number of crimes was 8,927, a slight increase over the corresponding period in 1933 which has a total of 8,887 crimes. In 1934 there was a decrease in murder, robbery, burglary and auto theft, but an increase in grand and petty larceny.

The analysis by the department of justice was made public in the height of a civic war on crime. The district bar association and civic groups are clamoring for a reorganization of the district's police department to halt a crime wave and end gambling in the city. The outpouring of civic indignation followed the recent slaying of an innocent bystander in a gang feud.

Comparative Murder Rate.

With a murder rate of 10.8 per 100,000 population Washington is behind Cincinnati with a rate of 12.9. The murder rate of other cities in the population group is as follows: New Orleans, 10.1; Minneapolis, 4.1; Newark, 3.6; Pittsburgh, 2.5; San Francisco, 2.3; Buffalo, 2.2, and Milwaukee, .4.

The Washington auto theft rate of 480.8 is behind that of Minneapolis of 490.4, and the burglary rate of 393.2 is behind that of Newark with 691.5. Washington leads in burglary at 99.7, grand larceny at 169.8, and petty larceny at 679.9 per 100,000 of population.

3 BANDITS ROB LIQUOR DEALER AND GET $5,000

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 13—[Special.]—Three armed bandits who held up a whisky distributing house, seized about $5,000 and fled after kidnaping five persons were sought in Kentucky and Tennessee tonight.

Two bandits entered the R. J. Lamb company at Fulton, Ky., south of here, early today, assuming the rôle of customers. Suddenly one of them whipped out a gun, forced four employés to put their hands on a counter and close their eyes. Then the third robber entered the place and ransacked a safe. While he was doing so a Negro porter entered with sandwiches. He was made to join the other victims.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Winter Schedule to Begin

November 13, 1934.

AFTER today a new schedule on these farm stories will be inaugurated. Now that winter is at hand and the entire program of activity on the experimental farm has been changed in keeping with the season, stories about the farm will appear only on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of each week beginning next Sunday, Nov. 18.

On Sundays I am going to review all the farm activities and the interesting and typical little episodes of farm life that have been recorded during the previous week. On Monday and Tuesday Frank Ridgway, agricultural editor of THE TRIBUNE, will give readers news of the farm.

The 117 Hereford steers are now in their feed lot near the big silo. . . . 50 tons of alfalfa hay in the barn. . . . around 75 tons of soy bean hay in the loft . . . between 500 and 600 tons of silage in the silos . . . 70 acres of corn [for dry fodder] in the shock . . . all the test plots cleaned up and plowed . . . deserted fields everywhere on the farm, many having changed their brown color for black where traversed by the plow . . . fall plowing over . . . repairs on the big barn near Herman's house completed . . . Clarence Thurow's new cistern ready so that it can collect a water supply from the fall rains and the coming snows. . . .

Most of the activity of the farm now centers around the barnyards where stock must be fed and cared for. You have only to see these things on the farm to realize that winter's snows cannot be far ahead, and that the never ending cycle of country life has entered upon a new phase.

As Clarence Thurow, farm manager, said yesterday, when we looked out across the fields, that this summer had so many interesting experiments in them:

"We close one season and then we turn over the page and there we are faced with our winter program of work and next year's plans. There is a lot of work to be done this winter but there are also many pleasures and many compensations in farm life between the time that our plows are brought in from the fields and the arrival of spring."

Clarence has gone on another buying trip down state to find ten black Angus heifers for the experimental farm. When these animals arrive the list of "boarders" to be fed and cared for this winter will be nearly complete and the winter schedule of feeding stock will be under way in full swing.

At the head of the list of boarders getting food and lodging during the winter months is Silver Victor, the handsome and bluebloodied Shorthorn bull. This pure white fellow is going to need a lot of soap, brushes and chalk this winter to keep him snowy as the fields.

75 PERILED WHEN ORPHANAGE FIRE FOLLOWS BLAST

Explosion Occurs at Recess.

Centralia, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The lives of 75 orphan children were imperiled today when an explosion, supposedly of a furnace, and rapidly spreading flames destroyed the main building of the Hudelson orphanage, a Baptist institution at Irvington, seven miles south of here.

Quick action by officials of the home prevented injury to the children, who were at play about the building in the school yard when the blast occurred. Fortunately the children had left the building for recess a few minutes before the explosion, otherwise many of them might have been killed.

The fire was completely out of control by the time fire equipment from Centralia reached the scene.

Fanned by a strong wind, the leaping flames spread to the buildings of nearby farmers and destroyed them. However, firemen prevented the blaze from reaching the dormitory of the orphanage or a third building owned by the institution.

Elliott Roosevelt's Ex-Wife Undergoes an Operation

Bryn Mawr, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Donner Roosevelt, former wife of the President's son, Elliott Roosevelt, underwent a successful operation for appendicitis in Bryn Mawr hospital today. Dr. Arthur E. Billings performed the operation and said later that Mrs. Roosevelt's condition was satisfactory.

FARMERS TO GET $1.90 FOR MILK SOLD IN OCTOBER

Dairy farmers will receive $1.90 a hundred or 4.08 cents a quart for milk delivered to Chicago distributors and sold in bottles or as cream during the month of October, Frank C. Baker, federal administrator for the Chicago milk market area, announced last night. The price to farmers is .10 cents a hundred less than they were paid in July.

Last month farmers delivered 135,689,138 pounds of milk to Chicago, and will receive for it approximately two and a half million dollars. They delivered nearly eight and a half million pounds more milk in October than in September. For sixteen and a half million pounds of surplus milk they will receive 95 cents a hundred.

The decrease of 25 cents a hundred pounds for milk, effective Nov. 1, under orders of the Agricultural Adjustment administration officials in Washington, will not be reflected in the dairy farmers' October milk checks.

The Tri-City local of the Pure Milk association, made up of farmers living in Geneva, Batavia, and St. Charles, Ill., yesterday forwarded to the AAA in Washington a protest on the recent cut in the price of class A milk to producers from $2.25 to $2 a hundred pounds. The protest declared that the price of milk with the $2 top averages but $1.54 because of the low price paid for surplus.

Mrs. Bernardine Slade Files Reno Divorce Suit

SCIENTIST HERE DOUBTS FINDING OF HEAVY ATOM

Studies Italian's Data on New "Element 93."

Calculations of a Chicago industrial chemist who has continued his investigations in pure science more or less as a hobby have cast some doubt upon the recent announcement that an Italian scientist was able to create artificially a new chemical element, heavier than any known to exist naturally.

Dr. William D. Harkins, professor of chemistry at the University of Chicago, is one of the pioneers in the bombardment of atoms by which modern science is able to accomplish on an infinitesimal scale the transmutation of metals which was the dream of the old alchemists. Dr. Harkins told yesterday of the work which has been done in this field by a colleague, Dr. Aristid von Grosse.

Dr. von Grosse formerly worked in Germany on the chemistry of the radioactive elements. When he came to Chicago as chemist for an oil company, he continued his research work as a visiting assistant professor at the University of Chicago.

Heavier Elements Suspected.

The announcement of the discovery of the new element, No. 93 in the periodic classification of the elements, was made last June at Rome by Dr. Enrico Fermi, young Italian physicist. Until, he made his announcement chemists had thought that only 92 elements, or different kinds of substances, existed, although they suspected that others might exist under tremendous heat and pressure inside the stars.

Atoms of the same element vary in their characteristics. For instance, "heavy hydrogen" recently was discovered. It combines with oxygen to form "heavy water." Such different forms of the same element are called isotopes. There are, for example, ten isotopes of tin.

Atoms consist of protons and electrons. The single negatively charged electron of the hydrogen atom revolves about the solitary positively charge proton as the earth revolves about the sun. The proton has 1,845 times the mass of the electron.

The Periodic Table.

The present heaviest known element, uranium, has a mass 238 times that of hydrogen and its nucleus has the highest positive charge of any element, 92. It is, accordingly, No. 92 in the periodic table. Apparently all but 92 of the 238 protons in an uranium atom have each an electron to neutralize the positive charge. If there is an element 93, it has a positive charge of 93.

Dr. Fermi in Italy made his substance by bombarding uranium with neutrons. A neutron consists of a positive proton and a negative electron bound together like a baseball with a buskshot under the cover. Its electron does not revolve about the proton. The charge is neutralized.

Dr. Fermi believes the neutron struck the nucleus of the uranium atom, forming a new, unstable atom with a mass of 239, instead of uranium's normal 238. He thinks the resultant unstable atom threw off a single negative electron.

Differ on Effect of Reaction.

The loss of this electron, the Italian theorizes, made no material difference in the atom's mass, but by neutralizing one less positive proton in its nucleus, gave it a nuclear charge of 93 instead of uranium's 92, and, therefore, by definition, created a new element.

Dr. von Grosse agrees on the formation of the first unstable uranium atom by bombardment with the neutron. Then, however, he believes that instead of throwing off an electron, the atom throws off an alpha particle, or helium nucleus, consisting of four protons and two electrons. This would leave an atom with a mass of 235 protons, but a nuclear charge of only 90 positive units, which would be an unstable isotope of thorium, another radioactive substance.

This unstable atom, he believes, would immediately throw off an electron, increasing its nuclear charge to 91, but decreasing its weight no further. The resulting atom would be an isotope of protoactinium, with a greater mass than the previously known form, but the same nuclear charge.

JUNIOR JENKS

HELLO, MOLLY! WHAT'S THE MATTER--?
I'M WORRIED TO DEATH ABOUT JUNIOR. HE SIMPLY WON'T EAT A THING THESE DAYS-- AND HE'S LOSING WEIGHT SO FAST THAT ALL THE NEIGHBORS ARE ASKING IF HE'S SICK!
JUST LOOK! HE HASN'T GAINED AN OUNCE IN WEEKS— IS SIMPLY SKIN AND BONES. AND THE TEACHER SAYS HE'S SO NERVOUS IN SCHOOL HE CAN HARDLY SIT STILL A MINUTE. I DECLARE, I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO.
BUT MOLLY--THERE'S SOMETHING SIMPLY WONDERFUL CALLED OVALTINE THAT JUST FITS CASES LIKE JUNIOR'S EXACTLY. --IT TELLS ALL ABOUT IT IN THIS MAGAZINE AD RIGHT HERE.
SEE! THEY SAY IT'S SIMPLY SURPRISING THE WAY IT HELPS POOR EATERS EAT!
WELL--I'LL CERTAINLY GET A CAN TODAY!
If Your Child Is A "Fussy Eater"
OVALTINE, PLEASE!
GEE, MOM, THIS OVALTINE'S THE SLICKEST THING I EVER TASTED.
AND BEST OF ALL-- YOU CAN HAVE ALL YOU WANT BECAUSE IT WILL HELP TO BUILD YOU UP AND MAKE YOU HUSKY, TOO!
LATER
COULD I HAVE SOME MORE MOM?
WHY OF COURSE, DEAR. BUT 2 HELPINGS OF CARROTS— GOODNESS! YOU'LL EAT US OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME!
STILL LATER
ISN'T IT WONDERFUL? I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE MY EYES WHEN I SEE HOW MUCH IT'S GAINED THE LAST FEW WEEKS-- THANKS TO OVALTINE!

Mothers! Here's How Ovaltine Helps "Fussy Eaters" Eat

—Often Adding A Pound A Week In Weight

WHEN a child "won't eat" there are two important things you can do to help. First, give him food that is very easy to digest. Second, give him food that is rich in appetite-producing Vitamin B.

It is for these, amongst other virtues, that Ovaltine is gaining world recognition as an important food for child building. For Ovaltine is not only rich in Vitamin B—but is processed so that it digests very quickly—even at times when digestion is impaired.

These features are tremendously important. For specialists will tell you that a poor eater is usually a child with poor or slow digestion. The stomach doesn't empty soon enough to produce the feeling of hunger for the next meal. That's why he shuns his regular food such as vegetables and milk.

But once appetite is stimulated in a scientific way—the old objection to every-day foods gradually disappears. Very frequently he even relishes vegetables and other foods to which he formerly objected . . . and weight is often added at the rate of a pound a week or more.

So, for the sake of your child, try Ovaltine. You can get it at any drug or grocery store—and results may surprise you!

PAY WIFE OR GO TO JAIL AGAIN, ENGINEER TOLD

His $2,000 School Salary Tied Up for Alimony.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Frank J. McAdams, 53 years old, chief engineer of the Englewood High school, is in danger of being returned to "alimony row" in the county jail for the same $3,000 arrears for which he was locked up for seven weeks last spring.

Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort, during a hearing on the case yesterday, asked McAdams to turn over $276 to his wife, Mrs. Eva Sullivan McAdams, of 2860 East 76th street, to whom he owes the alimony on a separate maintenance decree. McAdams said he would not pay her that amount unless she released $2,000 salary owed him by the board of education which she has tied up through an injunction.

Judge Desort said, at first, that McAdams would have to pay or go to jail. Instead of ordering the commitment at once, however, he made efforts to bring about some understanding between the couple.

A Chance to Think It Over.

After numerous conferences with Mrs. McAdams, who is white haired and handsome, and the scholarly appearing engineer who is also white haired, Judge Desort late in the day told them to think it over and return at 10 o'clock this morning.

"I don't want him to go to jail," Mrs. McAdams said later. "But he really wants to go, so the newspapers will print his picture.

"I didn't want him to go to jail last spring. But what could I do? He refused to pay, and the judge sent him there. I am sure he will be disappointed if he doesn't get to go this time. He will not settle, I am sure. He enjoys being a martyr."

Mrs. McAdams said her husband had paid her about $5,447, and that he owed her $3,000. She had received no payment from him since June 18, she said. At that time she received half of his accrued salary, she said, but added that she was so nervous she did not remember the amount.

In Courts for Three Years.

The McAdams case has been in the courts since October, 1931, when she filed the separate maintenance suit on a desertion charge. She was granted temporary alimony of $300 a month by Judge Harry B. Miller, and was awarded a separate maintenance decree by Superior Judge James J. Kelly March 31, 1933, who fixed alimony at $200 a month.

"I have no intention of divorcing Mr. McAdams," the wife said firmly in reply to a question following the hearing yesterday. "I take this stand purely for his own protection. In this way I have some control over him and can prevent his doing foolish things."

In Court Fifty Times.

Mr. McAdams estimated that he has been in court more than 50 times since Mrs. McAdams first filed suit against him. He said he left his wife in June, 1928, that he had supported her voluntarily, that he was paid up on current alimony and owed only on the temporary alimony of $300 a month granted in 1931. He claims he owes only $700.

"We were married 30 years," said McAdams, "and we have three grown children, the finest in the world, I naturally want to support her. I am willing to give her one-third of what I make, but I only earn $4,400 a year now. She prefers to hold me to separate maintenance and refuses to divorce me because she thinks she can get more money out of me this way."

Their children, Mr. McAdams said, are: James, 22, a senior at Purdue university; Evelyn, 24, employed as a private secretary, and Frank, 27, a clerk in State's Attorney Courtney's office.

Jail an Interesting Place.

Mr. McAdams said he found jail an interesting place, that it was his first experience with "the seamy side of life" and that he enjoyed studying human nature there.

McAdams was one of five men whom Judge Desort threatened to jail yesterday for failure to pay alimony or support money for children. Three paid before commitment papers were signed. Maurice Price, of Chicago Heights, was sent to jail for failure to pay $90 in alimony arrears to his former wife, Anna, who remarried three weeks ago, for the support of a child. He had been ordered to pay $5 a week.

COOKING SCHOOL ATTRACTS 6,000; TURN MANY AWAY

Continues 3 Days at Guyon's Ballroom.

Before some 6,000 enthusiastic housewives who jammed Guyon's Paradise ballroom literally to overflowing, the west side sessions of THE TRIBUNE'S cooking school opened yesterday.

Long before the doors were opened, a crowd gathered before 128 North Pulaski road [Crawford avenue], and when the filling of the ballroom made it necessary to close the doors in accordance with fire regulations against overcrowding, several hundred women still were seeking admittance. Further sessions are to be held in the ballroom at 12:30 p. m. today, tomorrow, and Friday.

Songs and dancing acts had the crowd in a holiday spirit before the stage curtains were flung back to disclose the spotlessly white kitchen where Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, culinary expert, prepared a variety of delicious foods, explaining her recipes as she went along.

Noted Singers on Program.

Phil Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE acted as master of ceremonies, and first introduced Carl Craven, noted choral director who, with Leon Benditsky at the piano, led the crowd in community singing.

Geoffrey O'Hara, composer, was next on the program and sang half a dozen variations of his popular wartime ballad "K-K-K-Katy." Joel Ray, concert and radio baritone, sang "Without a Song" and "The Sunshine of Your Smile."

Capt. Tim Healy of the Ivory Stamp Club of the Air, then spoke on the origin of the Red Cross stamp.

A dancing program by pupils of the Ideal Dance studios, directed by Miss May Blossom MacDonald, appeared next, to be followed by the Doring Sisters, famous harmony team of W-G-N.

Everything was ready, then, for the cookery itself, and Miss Mary Meade, cooking editor of THE TRIBUNE, introduced Mrs. Chitwood.

Delicacies Pop into Being.

In rapid succession, accompanied always by Mrs. Chitwood's verbal directions, there blossomed in the stage kitchen a cracker and jam pudding, a prize devil's food cake, a veal loaf, ginger ale salad, pineapple cheese tart, bran nut bread, and other works of art calculated to sharpen the appetite.

Before the opening of the show a huge prize package with a variety of kitchen supplies was opened, and the various articles passed out to fortunate housewives in the audience.

At today's session of the school, the headline entertainer will be Sophie Tucker. Others to appear will be Art Millet, W-G-N staf announcer; and Lum and Abner, W-G-N artists. The Cathryne Bennett Songbirds' quartet will furnish music, and Dr. Harlan Tarbell, "mystery scientist," will give a demonstration.

BLAMES HUSBAND'S TROMBONE FOR RIFT IN MARRIAGE; SUES

The artistry of Joseph Lear on the slide trombone was a fatal lure for other women, his wife, Mrs. Lydia Lear, 4501 Malden avenue, charged yesterday in her cross bill to divorce the orchestra player.

Lear, through his attorney, Irving Roth, had asked a divorce on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Lear countered with a cross claim on the same grounds, filed by Attorney Norman Becker.

"Sure, we quarreled," Mrs. Lear told Circuit Judge Rudolph F. Desort, "but it was only because Joe was surrounded by giddy women who saw him playing the trombone in a restaurant."

Judge Desort granted Mrs. Lear $130 a month temporary alimony, pending hearing of the two suits. The Lears were married in May, 1916, and separated last Oct. 15.

Clarence Frank, Broker, Is Sued for a Divorce

Clarence M. Frank, broker and member of the Chicago Board of Trade, is being sued for divorce by his wife, Kathryn, 701 North Michigan avenue, on grounds of cruelty and habitual drunkenness it was learned yesterday. The decree is awaiting the signature of Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

PRINCESS BERTHA, W. D. SIEBERN ELOPE, MARRIED

She's Descendant of U. S. Grant.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Princess Bertha Cantacuzene great-granddaughter of President U. S. Grant and a grandniece of the late Bertha Honore Palmer [Mrs. Potter Palmer], was on her way here today to inform her mother of her elopement and marriage early Sunday to William Durrell Siebern, wealthy Cincinnati clubman.

The marriage was solemnized at 3 a. m. Sunday at Jeffersonville, Ind., a "Gretna Green" just across the Ohio river from Louisville, Ky., where the princess had been visiting.

Surprise to Friends.

It was somewhat unexpected, inasmuch as the princess was engaged to marry Donald Mackintosh, a clerk in the Sarasota, Fla., bank of her father, Prince Cantacuzene, a Russian nobleman of the czarist regime. However, Mackintosh revealed today that their plans to be married on March 27 were terminated about ten days ago. They then decided, he said, "each had many things to which the other could not agree."

In Cincinnati, the bridegroom said he and the princess originally intended to be married some time this winter. They decided, however, on the elopement last Saturday night while at a party in Louisville. He explained that they wanted to surprise their friends.

After the marriage, Siebern returned to the Cincinati home of his widowed mother. His bride started for Washington to carry the news to her mother. Siebern will meet his wife in Washington tomorrow. He said they plan to live in Toronto. He will enter the banking business there.

Likes Her Son-in-Law.

The bride's mother, Princess Julia Cantacuzene, waited in her Connecticut avenue apartment to hear details of the elopement from her daughter. She described her new son-in-law as a "very nice man" and an old friend of her daughter and the latter's divorced husband, Bruce Smith, of Louisville.

A few weeks ago Princess Julia went to Florida and obtained a divorce from Prince Cantacuzene. She took back her American citizenship and the name of her father, Maj. Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, son of the late President Grant.

ALIMONY CHARGE DENIED IN PLEA BY J. W. STEVENS

James W. Stevens, 81 years old, former insurance and hotel executive, denied yesterday that he owes his divorced wife $8,400 in unpaid alimony. The denial was made in his answer filed in the Superior court, to the petition of Jessie Louise Stevens that he be cited for contempt.

In his answer, drawn by Attorney George F. Callaghan, Stevens admits he was divorced from the plaintiff March 31, 1903, and that he had been ordered to pay $500 a month alimony so long as Ernest J. Stevens, their son, lived with his mother. After the son left the payments were cut to $400 a month, and Stevens admits he has paid no alimony since Feb. 1, 1933.

However, Stevens pleads, from 1920 to 1933 he paid his former wife a total of $95,550, which is $32,350 more than she would have received at the monthly rate. Despite his alimony arrears Stevens says in his bill, his wife has received $24,750 more than the total to which the alimony order entitled her.

Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti will hear the case today. Stevens lives at 1216 Lake Shore drive and his former wife resides in the old Stevens mansion at 4118 South Park way.

TRAGEDY COMES TO BLIND WIFE AS SHE PRAYS

Mrs. Lucy Willett, 76 years old and blind, was kneeling in prayer yesterday when Policeman Rudolph Krisan called at her home at 1926 South Albany avenue. She explained that she was praying for the recovery of her husband, Lawrence, 73 years old and also blind, who fell and fractured his leg on Nov. 1.

Policeman Krisan explained his mission. He had come to tell her that her husband had died a few hours before in the County hospital.

"Lawrence and I were married twenty-four years ago after we met in a home for the blind," Mrs. Willett told the policeman. "After we were married he worked in the broom factory at the home. Ten years ago he had to quit because of rheumatism. We had been living on the dollar a day we each received as pension. He's gone, but I can live on my dollar a day for a while yet."

RUSSIA DRAFTS WOMEN TO BUILD SIBERIA RAILWAY

Thousands Wield Primitive Tools on Gigantic Job.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NOVO-SIBIRSK, Capital of Western Siberia, Nov. 1.—[By courier and mail.]—There is nothing more obvious than the military nature of the so-called "shock" methods which the soviet authorities are using in the double tracking of the Trans-Siberian railway. The job is a tremendous one, almost comparable to the original construction between 1891 and 1900, but one wonders whether the forced labor methods used today differ greatly from the methods used in the days of the czar.

The graft and inefficiency which accompanied the original construction has been fully exposed in a booklet published by the soviet government. It says that the contractors supplied light rails when they were paid for heavy ones; that they built cheap frame stations instead of brick buildings; that they built wooden bridges in place of steel ones; that the entire railway practically had to be rebuilt at heavy expense because of the actions of the "swindling contractors." It is also charged that thousands of laborers employed on the original construction perished in the Siberian forests of marsh fever, famine, and typhoid.

How the Reds Do It.

The object of this booklet was to prove that present socialistic methods of construction are superior to those used in the dark days of the preceding administration.

There apparently is no questioning the fact that the government is getting better materials today, for all bridges are of steel-concrete construction, and the new rails are coming from the modern rolling mills in the Kuznetsk district southeast of this city. The ties come from the same forests, which have not been pushed back many yards from the embankment in all these years.

As to the methods used, there has been little, if any, improvement from the days when the "swindling" contractors exploited private labor under the czar. True, the contractors have been eliminated and the work is now being handled directly by the government. But it is still a primitive pick and shovel and wheelbarrow job with men, and in many instances also women, working up to their knees in mud, and for a considerable portion of the way also in snow and slush.

Clothing is scanty and in many instances the writer observed men and women working barefooted in mud that did not appear much above the freezing point. It was necessary for me to wear an overcoat when emerging from the train for a stroll on the station platforms.

Few Labor Saving Devices.

Only in a few instances did one observe labor saving devices, such as conveyors, power propelled dirt moving machinery, or even dump cars being used. The wheelbarrows in use from one end of the line to the other were constructed of light pine boards with cast iron wheels not over 6 or 8 inches in diameter. They resembled toy barrows that children use in wheeling sand at the seashore, except they were somewhat larger, more primitively constructed, and were unpainted.

Aside from the almost complete lack of labor saving devices, another reason for the lack of interest in the welfare of this type of labor is that a large percentage of these workers are classed as "criminals." Not criminals in the sense that this word is understood in the United States. Some of them may be genuine criminals, but most of them, one imagines, have sinned politically or economically—in other words, they have acted contrary to the tenets of the so-called proletarian dictatorship.

The number "employed" in this manner, with armed guards almost always in evidence, is very large—one hears numbers mentioned all the way from 100,000 to 800,000.

Job Nearly Completed.

But while the government is proceeding on the theory that the end justifies the means, there is no questioning the fact that the job is proceeding; that it soon will be completed with the exception of the more difficult sections in the mountains about Lake Baikal.

Here a tremendous amount of blasting of granite to widen cuts and probably the construction of new tunnels is necessary. In many instances the engineers apparently have found it easier to construct an entirely new line, located several hundred yards distant from the old embankments, rather than attempt the widening of deep cuts and embankments originally constructed for one track.

Since a considerable portion of the work is of what the Russians term "shock" variety, another word for forced labor, for which the laborer probably receives little more than food, shelter, and clothing, the chances are that it is being performed at a minimum of expense to the government.

But the double tracking of the Trans-Siberian railway, while facilitating transport, will not make it a modern railway in the American sense. In the first place, the rails, even on the sections where the second line has been completed, are too light and will not stand the strain of the heavy traffic they will have to bear in the industrialization of this vast region, not to mention the possibilities of a war with Japan.

None of the trains, not even the international express, can be classed as superstreamlined "zephyrs."

Like a Camping Expedition.

For most of the passengers the trip resembles a camping expedition, for, excepting the first and second classes, practically every one carries his own bedding and simple cooking and eating utensils. The tourist who crosses the entire country from Vladivostok through Moscow to Negoreloye, on the Polish border, must travel about 6,400 miles.

Much of the territory is as primitive as the early American settlers found the Mississippi valley and the west. The towns along the railway might have been transported from the American west which existed between a half and three-quarters of a century ago. The towns have no modern water works, or sewage systems, or buildings with elevators, while sanitation is of Victorian character. There are no roads; only mere tracks through forests or across the prairies, which become bottomless mudholes in the wet season.

It is the country of infinite possibilities for peaceful agricultural and industrial development — or for war. Just now the indications point toward war.

DOUBLE TRACKING

Map shows where Russia is rushing completion of the job of double tracking the trans-Siberian railway. The Reds are using forced labor, including women, and the job is being done with primitive tools.

GERMANY HITS AT MIDDLEMEN IN WAR UPON PRICES

Decrees Dictatorship Over All Business Pacts.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—To beat back the tide of rising prices, Price Commissioner Goedeler today issued a decree which puts the hitherto all powerful cartels under his control and makes him arbiter over the life of both individual and merchant.

The decree provides that any agreement by business syndicates fixing or affecting prices is subject to his approval. The same applies to the marketing of new trade mark articles through which otherwise governmental price regulation might be circumvented.

Strikes at Middlemen.

The decree further provides that the "way of merchandise from producer to consumer cannot be slowed up or made more difficult or more expensive through the intervention of economically superfluous middlemen." What middlemen are economically superfluous is not explained, but the determination is left to the price commissioner.

Meanwhile police raids on stores, principally butchers and bakers, accused of exceeding regulation prices or supplying less meat and bread are becoming items of the daily news grist. In almost every city many stores are being closed and in some cases their proprietors put in public pillory through the press.

Classed as Public Enemies.

Price boosters and hoarders have become new public enemies of the Nazi state and are denounced as "traitors" or "stabbers in the back." Finance Minister Schwerin von Krosigk called hoarders in a speech yesterday "old women of both sexes." The minister of justice has instructed all prosecutors to be particularly severe on them.

The Essen Nazional Gestund, which is close to Premier Goering of Prussia, inveighs against the textile industry and lists numerous price increases up to 25 and 50 per cent. Such increases, it says, provide a basis for "fear psychosis" of the people and call for drastic action.

Cantonese Claim Capture of 30,000 Chinese Reds

HONGKONG, Nov. 13. — (AP) — Cantonese troops claimed today to have captured 30,000 communists and to have ended a threat against the city of Shiuchow. The insurgents have been migrating westward from Fukien to Kwangsi province, where they planned to establish a soviet government.

HAPSBURG RULE IN AUSTRIA SEEN AS FAR DISTANT

Chancellor Refutes Restoration Talk.

VIENNA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg declared decisively at a luncheon of Anglo-American newspapermen today that there will be no monarchist restoration in Austria, at least not in the immediate future.

"You who have lived in Austria," said the chancellor, "have acquired some Austrian patience, but even this patience would not be sufficient to hold out until a possible change in our form of state occurs."

Wants Larger Army.

An increase in the size of the Austrian army would be welcomed by the country "both as a means of reducing unemployment among the youth of the land and for its great educational value," Dr. Schuschnigg said. The Austrian army is limited by the peace treaties to 30,000 troops.

Asked if an election was in prospect, the chancellor answered that the Austrian constitution provides for the election only of a president, while parliament is based on the corporative principle. This means that the various corporations elect representatives from their ranks to various state councils.

Will Visit Rome.

The chancellor denied that any negotiations were under way to normalize relations between Germany and Austria.

"However, we are doing our best to avoid anything which would increase the present tension," he said. "We ask only that Austria be let alone. Those who leave Austria alone will always find her a good neighbor."

Chancellor Schuschnigg, following Dollfuss' policy of cultivating closer relations with Italy, will visit Premier Mussolini in Rome at the end of the week. He will be accompanied by Egon Berger-Waldenegg, foreign minister.

'OPEN OIL DOOR' SHUT STILL MORE BY MANCHUKUO

HSINKING, Manchukuo, Nov. 14 [Wednesday]. — (AP) — While English and American diplomats were marking time today in the oil controversy, Japanese officials connected with the Manchukuo government moved steadily toward the institution of a monopoly.

They apparently had disregarded completely the claims of foreign oil companies that they were being unjustly ousted from a profitable market in violation of existing treaties and the open door principle.

The government of Manchukuo formally promulgated its petroleum monopoly regulations, giving the government control of all import, export, and manufacture of oil products and providing that the date upon which the monopoly is to become effective be fixed by the finance minister.

U. S. SEEKS PACT TO CONTROL WAR MATERIAL TRAFIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced today the United States is now working among the nations of the world for an immediate international agreement to control war munitions manufacture and trafic. He expressed the hope that a separate protocol regulating war material might be signed in the spring.

The effort to obtain such an agreement, it was emphasized, is entirely separate from the preliminary naval conversations now going on in London to determine the fate of the Washington and London naval agreements. The trafic negotiations are to be pushed without awaiting general agreement on disarmament.

Hold Hope of Disarmament.

At the same time the state department made it clear that the divorcing of munitions regulation from the general agreement is not an implied admission of the abandonment of hope of international disarmament accord. It is the state department's position that trafic control can be achieved more rapidly and should not lag to the conclusion of a general program.

Secretary Hull, on his return to his desk after a three weeks' vacation in South Carolina, said the government has been interested for some time in the international control of trafic in munitions. He disclosed that Hugh Wilson, representative at the London conversations, has sounded out the Japanese ambassador in London on Japan's willingness to "go along" with such a treaty.

Seek Separate Protocols.

Other nations also are being "sounded out," Secretary Hull said, in the hope that a separate protocol may be agreed upon.

It was reported that the agreement is broader than that drafted at Geneva in 1925, which was dictated largely by the United States. The 1925 agreement provided for the licensing of exports and imports of arms with the filing of yearly reports to the league of nations.

The contemplated agreement also would set up a similar licensing and publicity for manufacturing of munitions. Each country, according to the new program, is to license its own manufacturers and prevent them from making munitions unless they have orders. The licenses and orders are to be made public at regular intervals.

Present It to Bureau.

The new American program is to be presented to the bureau of the general disarmament conference, which is the "steering" committee of the conference, at its next meeting, Nov. 21. The bureau is expected to refer the program to the committee on manufacture and control of arms.

With a favorable report of the committee it is hoped that the major armament countries will sign a protocol in time to speed similar action by the senate. The major arms countries, in addition to the United States, are Great Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Sweden, Japan, and Italy.

HITLER'S WILL IS BOTH JUSTICE AND LAW, NAZI LAWYERS TOLD

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Prussia today warned an audience of lawyers at the session of the Nazi Academy for German Justice that "exaggerated law must not be allowed to interfere with the sense of justice of the people."

He explained Germany is now a "following" led by Chancellor Hitler and suggested justice is Hitler's will and law is a mere temporary form of justice. Goering took as an example of justice the shootings of June 30 this year, pointing out that these events were historically "perhaps the greatest example of just action."

"How," demanded the premier, "could any one attempt to present this action as if unbridled tyranny had triumphed? The word of the leader has settled this question for the German people. In this hour he was alone, the highest and only judge of the German nation."

FINED FOR TICKET FRAUD.

For obtaining money under false pretenses by selling $300 worth of tickets for a dance for city health deparment employes that was never held, William Spencer, 30 years old, 230 North Sacramento avenue, was fined $25 by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday.

You can place a want ad in the Tribune at any time during the day or night. Working under ideal conditions, a large staf of courteous, specially trained Want Ad-Visers handle every call without delay. All equipment in the Tribune want ad phone room is the most modern. There is a special switchboard which can handle 68 calls at one time. The room is sound-proofed and so are the glass-enclosed booths in which Tribune Want Ad-Visers work. The room is also air-conditioned.

When you want to use want ads for any purpose, remember to call a Tribune Want Ad-Viser.

IT IS CONVENIENT AND PLEASANT TO PHONE YOUR WANT ADS TO THE TRIBUNE

If your name is in the phone book, you can charge your want ad in the Tribune. If you prefer, or if you have no phone, a Tribune man will call on you promptly.

"It is the 'talk' of clinics everywhere... this new, quicker-acting Yeast"

reports DR. R. E. LEE
(Director of Fleischmann Health Research)

DR. H. STEVENIN, world gland authority, states: "In tests by me and associates, 'XR' Yeast relieved constipation, etc., very rapidly."
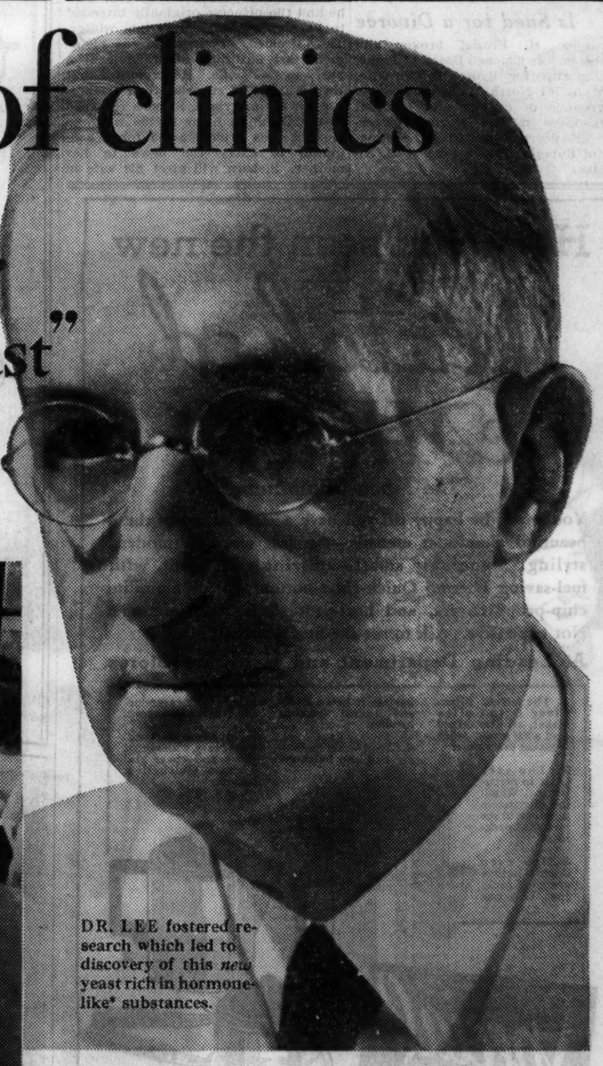
STOMACH JUICE
PANCREATIC JUICE
INTESTINAL JUICE

"Astonishing!" "Results in 2-3 days in many cases"—report doctors

Heads of 25 clinics throughout America and Europe report: "Amazing results!" "Patients felt better, often, in 2 to 3 days." Constipation and related troubles corrected very soon.

Hormone-like* substances in "XR" Yeast, by speeding your digestive juices and muscles, actually "normalize" you.



DR. LEE fostered research which led to discovery of this new yeast rich in hormone-like* substances.

Constipation, Poor Digestion and associated Skin Ailments and Poor Energy corrected twice as fast. (New Vitamin "A" helps combat Colds, too!)

Clinics—doctors—men and women everywhere are astonished by this new yeast! Read these questions and answers about it, by Dr. Lee:—

Is it really a better Yeast?

Yes—a new "strain"—stronger, quicker acting in the body. It was discovered by a leading American medical authority.

How does it correct Constipation, etc., sooner?

By greatly speeding up your digestive juices and muscles. Most bowel and stomach troubles result from the slowing down of these juices and muscles. *Hormone-like substances (body "activators") in this new yeast stimulate both astonishingly.

Thus your food is better "churned"—digested—hastened through you. Indigestion and constipation should stop very soon.

Should you gain Appetite, Energy?

Yes! As your system is "normalized," your appetite picks up—meals do you more "good." You notice you've more energy!

How about Skin Troubles, Headaches?

Both are due, in most cases, to poisons from intestines, and so should disappear promptly as "XR" Yeast cleanses you, purifies your blood. The skin gains "tone," freshness. Headaches often cease, entirely.

Will it help retard "Old Age"?

Often. A great cause of premature aging is the slowing up of digestive secretions occurring most rapidly after age 40. "XR" Yeast corrects this condition very soon.

How does it combat Colds?

By "clarifying" your system and supplying "anti-infective" Vitamin A (newly added). It also contains the needed Vitamins B, D and G . . . four vitamins!

• • •

START TODAY to eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's "XR" Yeast daily—plain, or dissolved in one third of a glass of water, preferably half an hour before meals. Continue after noting quick results, till you're well! Get a supply today!

"I'd had indigestion, headaches for years," writes Mrs. Charles Jacobs, Washington, Conn., "until I tried Fleischmann's Yeast—some time ago. Then this fall my headaches returned. So I started again—this time with 'XR' Yeast. My logy feeling disappeared in three days. No headaches since."

(As good as ever for baking!)

BRITISH PREPARE EVERY FACTORY TO BE WAR PLANT

Nation Rushes Work on Death Dealing Devices.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Great Britain's defense system is being revolutionized, with Milford Haven, in Pembrokeshire, as the new strategic point. A private underground cable is being laid from the admiralty building in Whitehall to Milford Haven.

This is only the first step towards the establishment of Milford Haven as Britain's chief naval base. Woolwich arsenal will also be moved there, and a T. N. T. factory is being built nearby.

Prepare to Convert Factories.

The government is also conducting a survey of every important industrial firm in the land to find out how quickly its services can be enlisted in event of war. Government chemists have invented processes which will enable almost every factory in Great Britain to be transformed immediately for the production of war materials.

The production of rayon can be converted now to the production of dynamite, using glycerine from soap factories. The process of sugar refining can be transformed into the manufacture of poison gas. Benzine, used for dyeing and painting, can be used for the preparation of mustard gas. Brome, used for photographic plates, can be employed for tear gas. Chlorine, an ingredient of many disinfectants, can be used for phosgene, while toluene, cresol, and phenol, made for pharmacy, can be utilized for explosives.

The explosive plant in Ayrshire, one of the largest in the world, is rapidly being extended. In the laboratories of most universities and learned societies work is "farmed out" by the government to scientists who are sworn to secrecy.

Invent "Invisible Smoke."

At the air ministry's experimental station at Farnborough, Hants, experts are trying to perfect a new weapon against air raiders. This is known to them as "invisible smoke." A shell charged with the mixture is fired from an anti-aircraft gun and disperses a huge cloud of particles over the sky. These, when "breathed in" by airplane engines, choke them almost instantly.

Experiments in the wireless control of airplanes are being conducted at Farnborough. The object is to direct a pilotless plane and release bombs by wireless from a base.

Britain is now more thoroughly equipped than any nation in the world for the high speed production of munitions on a mammoth scale. Already it exports more arms than any other country in the world.

PARAGUAY PUTS TO LEAGUE TASK OF STOPPING WAR

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Paraguay sent another note to the League of Nations tonight putting it squarely up to that body to stop the Chaco war by using its powers under article XI of the league covenant.

The note from Asuncion, second within two days, said the league must either use its powers to safeguard peace "or suffer a grave loss of prestige."

[Article XI of the covenant provides that "any war or threat of war . . . is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole league, and the league shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations.]

Paraguay argued that league precedents proved her contention that the first step toward ending a war was to end hostilities. The note was regarded as a last minute move to halt the fighting with Bolivia and as inferentially attacking the Bolivian thesis that settlement of territorial claims must be simultaneous with the discontinuance of hostilities.

CHICAGO-TOKIO RADIO SERVICE TO OPEN TODAY

The first all radio telegraph service between Chicago and Tokio, Japan, will be inaugurated by the Mackay Radio and Telegraph company this morning at 10 o'clock. The initial messages will be sent by Mayor Kelly and Kenji Nakauchi, acting Japenese consul, from operating rooms at 166 West Van Buren street.

Under the new system messages by Mackay radio will be sent to its radio station in San Francisco from any of the eleven states served by the company, and then rebroadcast to the Imperial Japanese radio station in Tokio. Heretofore messages were sent to San Francisco by wire and then rebroadcast. The Radio Corporation of America has used such a service for fourteen years.

James M. Strong, district manager of Mackay, said that the increasing volume of messages exchanged between the United States and Japan has waranted the new system.

NAZIS, VATICAN NEAR CLASH OVER STERILIZATION

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A new conflict between the German government and the holy see seemed likely today when the government news bureau announced semi-officially that Profs. Carl Eschweiler and Johannes Baron "now as before are holding their jobs" with the Roman Catholic academy at Braunsberg, East Prussia.

Saturday the Berlin press was informed that the two had been removed upon orders from Rome because they had rendered an official opinion that sterilization was not incompatible with the doctrins of the Catholic church.

A high Catholic official made the announcement, it was learned today. Authoritative sources, however, pointed out that while the Vatican may disavow professors at the Catholic institute of learning, actual suspension must be ordered by the minister of culture.

FEATURE EXHIBIT OF WORLD'S FAIR TO CONTINUE

Forever is a long, long time. But Chicago's World's Fair has closed forever. Closed in a blaze of glory... but closed forever.

THE MILLIONS who came and marvelled cannot come again. The Hall of Science, the automobile exhibits, the Streets of Paris, all are gone. The World's Fair Wonder Bakery is gone. But you who remain in Chicago can still enjoy this delightful part of Chicago's greatest show.

Now—today and every day, right here in Chicago, the famous slo-baked Wonder Bread is baked in the exact manner that thrilled the visiting millions at the World's Fair Wonder Bakery.

For millions came and saw how Wonder Bread was baked. Millions went away knowing that they had seen one of the marvels of the age. And millions decided that no other bread would ever be served in their homes.

Chicago's World's Fair has helped spread the story of slo-baked Wonder Bread. And Wonder Bread in some small measure has helped to swell Chicago's fame.

Fortunate people—you who remain in Chicago—for you can serve your families every day the finest of all breads . . . Wonder Bread. Baked in Chicago, by Chicago people, this famous bread awaits you at your grocer's. If you missed the World's Fair Bakery, come any day and see how Wonder Bread is baked in any one of Chicago's three Wonder Bakeries.

Serve the only bread baked at Chicago's World's Fair. Serve it and see why it is used in more homes than any other bread in America. You will find the reason is simple. Slo-baked Wonder Bread is the best bread modern science knows how to bake.

The Happy Wonder Bakers

CONTINENTAL BAKING COMPANY
(Incorporated)

Hundreds of teachers brought thousands of children to the World's Fair Wonder Bakery to see how good bread is baked. 85,000 children saw this sight in one single day. Food experts tell us that every child in the country should have seen it.

Grocers, thousands of them, have told us how glad they are to tell their customers that Wonder Bread is best because they have seen it baked at the World's Fair Wonder Bakery. They know it is always baked the same, day after day, in each Wonder Bakery.

Thousands of mothers find comfort in knowing that their grocers still have the same good bread—prepared in the same spick-and-span surroundings they saw with their own eyes at the World's Fair Wonder Bakery. Many of these mothers have written us to say they will never serve any bread but Wonder Bread.

SIBERIA UNDER THE COMMISSARS.

The current series of dispatches from Mr. John Powell of THE TRIBUNE'S foreign news service are of more than ordinary interest. Mr. Powell has been writing of soviet activities in Siberia, through which he has just passed. Essentially it is a story of military preparations for the defense and perhaps the extension of Russia's Asiatic empire.

He learns, no doubt, that the Russian revolution has wrought few fundamental changes in Siberian policy. The czar drove a single track railroad across Siberia for strategic purposes. The commissars are double tracking the line and constructing additional strategic routes. The czars encouraged investment in the development of Siberian resources and the commissars are seeking the same goal in a slightly different way. Half of the new investment in coal mines in the present five year plan for all of Russia will be spent in Siberia. Nearly half the new steel plants will be located there. More than two-thirds of the investment in nonferrous minerals, more than a third of the investment in heavy industry, a third of the investment in chemical plants, and more than a fourth of the investment in light industry go to the same area. Almost all of the new equipment is capable of rapid conversion to war duty.

The meaning of all this outlay is clear when it is remembered that Siberia accounts for only a few million in a population estimated at 160,000,000 for all of soviet Russia. The Russian people as a whole are in great need of consumers' goods, but their enforced savings are not being used to give them what they want and need but in strengthening the military position in Siberia. The czars had the same objective, but were somewhat less ruthless in their efforts to reach it.

The difference, however, is one of degree and not of kind. The czars populated Siberia with convicts, including tens of thousands of political prisoners. The commissars have taken over this policy with little change except that the number of exiles is larger and their condition of life more painful. Mr. Powell has provided a vivid picture of the locked and barred freight cars containing white slaves sentenced to years of forced labor for the crime of engaging in trade or owning a farm.

It is curious that neither under the czars nor the commissars has Russia encouraged free enterprise in Siberia. It is another evidence of the extent to which the commissars are bound by Russian tradition and blinded by dogma. If there is any lesson to be learned from the settlement of the American continent it is that the quickest and surest way to occupy, subdue, and hold a wilderness is to permit men to own the land and its fruits. As it is, men must be driven in chains into Siberia. Few will go willingly because they know they must endure the hardships of the frontier without a chance of reaping any of its exceptional rewards. Had we followed the same formula in this country there would be few art galleries and bathtubs in Kansas.

REJUVENATION.

Ponce de Leon was not the only one to search for a fountain of youth. Most men and women as they get along wish they could recover the joys of youth, and in recent years there has been much interest in rumors of surgical operations for the rejuvenation of the aged. One Viennese surgeon has been credited by the lay public with remarkable successes in this field of experiment, but professional opinion has not supported the reports. Now comes an American surgeon of standing who upon the strength of his experimentation and that of several other investigators of repute reports to the International Medical assembly of the Interstate Post-Graduate Assembly of North America that the transplanting of the parathyroid gland of one person to another has been successfully accomplished in several instances. This, he believes, has opened up a new field of medical advance, but he announces that the transference of monkey glands, in which laymen have been especially interested, is not practicable. Transplantation cannot be accomplished at the expense of the lower animal. Human cooperation will not be so easily obtained and quantity rejuvenation of the human machine is not likely soon to follow in the wake of quantity production of the man-made.

But would bodily restoration be desirable? Many of us, perhaps, would like to live our youth over again. There is a charm in the first experience of living which no maturity retains. But bodily rejuvenation would not restore it. If we were to return to youth we must also recover the past, especially the people who were a part of it. But the past is gone and sudden bodily restoration would only leave us exiles in a new age. Some of us, no doubt, are hardy of soul enough to go on, but not many. The late Dr. Metchnikoff offered a more prudent and satisfactory prospect in promising through the increase of scientific knowledge, and wise living in the light of it, a gradual running down of the human machine without physical pain and a final passing from the scene without regret. The loss of human relationships is the hardest part of living and science cannot save us from it.

BEYOND THE NRA, DR. TUGWELL.

The federal trade commission is ready with a report on the federal incorporation or licensing of business, after an investigation authorized by congress. The commission has taken testimony and gathered evidence, reporting, it is said, many conclusions and opinions from other sources and few, if any, of its own. The final judgment is with congress and the direction the new congress will take is yet to be fully developed.

Dr. Tugwell, the basic philosopher of the New Deal, was sent abroad for the period of the campaign, apparently to withdraw him temporarily from circulation, but he is returning and he still remains the chief and most lucid expounder of policies which have either been put into effect or have been tentatively approached. In his study of government and industry Dr. Tugwell anticipates that some federal authority, probably the federal trade commission itself, should be empowered to issue certificates of convenience and necessity to industrial organizations which show the affiliation of a prescribed percentage of the productive facilities of any single industry.

Dr. Tugwell recognizes that federal incorporation would become involved in numerous problems, not the least of which would be constitutional, but believes that the scheme of certification would get all the advantages of federal chartering and sidestep the problems.

The federal licensing system is, of course, not an end in itself but only a means to an end, and in the Tugwell policy the subsequent steps would be taken in a makeover of control of capital and production. Although he does not proceed with the certainty of Upton Sinclair's EPIC and although he weighs this and that, he is most hopeful of a system in which the federal government would allocate capital to industry upon a survey of productive needs and in which direction of production would be largely in the hands of boards of technicians and possibly of skilled labor.

"The controling body, it is conceived, would have powers of investigation and review of [business] association policies with respect to security issues and prices," he says. "It would need to require common accounting systems, simplification of security issues, and the maintenance by industry of fair prices, adequate wages, and decent working conditions; and, what is equally important, it could impose arrangements for patent pooling and for conservation of efficiency."

Dr. Tugwell's ideas of government in farming are many of them in operation now under the AAA, which is the instrument of his theory of balanced production. Although he was placed in the agricultural department, the work nearer his thought and heart is the adjustment of industry under government control to the balancing of production and consumption, of needs and supplies. The authority with which he has worked out his agricultural doctrines makes it impossible to ignore the possibilities or probabilities of government action along the line of his industrial plans. It may be that he has outlined the successor to the NRA and has indicated the direction of government purpose. And it is to be remembered that Dr. Tugwell is not Karl Marx in a library but an official highly esteemed in the government of the United States. A congressional discussion of the federal licensing scheme should be expected to develop more of his ideas for American industry in the future.

LAKE SUGGESTION FROM A MOUNTAIN CHISELER.

Gutzon Borglum, the mountain chiseler, said in a Chicago talk to business men that if the city had seen its opportunities and been imaginative enough to make use of them it would not have built the lake shore away from the city but would have built the city out into the lake. Then we would have had a Venetian lake shore instead of one pushed so far away from the buildings.

The Chicago idea has been to keep the lake shore as free as possible for recreation purposes and not to go Venetian. Something might have been done with grand canals and stately commercial palaces, no doubt, but the picture does not quite please the fancy, even when conjured up at its best. It is only a little more pleasing in contemplation than is the idea or the fact of improving noble mountain crags by chiseling human countenances in them, even if these be the countenances of heroes and patriots.

Editorial of the Day

THE TAXATION SPECTER.

[Sioux City Journal.]

As millions of voters went to the polls vast numbers of them may have felt that the gaunt specter of taxation walked beside them. They will know more about that when the next congress convenes and, under the compulsion of necessity, proceeds to devise ways and means for raising more revenue. The specter then will be something more than a wraith. It will materialize, and it is reasonable to suggest that it will scare the daylights out of a good many nonsuperstitious American citizens.

Taxes will have to be far heavier than they are now. That has been foreseen from the beginning of the New Deal administration.

The forecast is for heavier taxes and also for new levies. Some of the present taxes are now so high that to burden commodities with higher levies discourages consumption and defeats tax purposes. Consequently it will be necessary for congress to look in other directions for revenue sources, creating new ones.

It is suspected that congress will increase the federal income tax rate until a real burden is felt by millions of citizens in the lower brackets. The wage earner and the salaried worker may as well prepare now to face the payment of income taxes two, or three, or four times as large as any they previously have paid. By the time the Roosevelt administration ends, assuming that the orgy of spending is to continue, Uncle Sam may be confiscating income as many European governments have done for years.

Once let the average man give up one-sixth or one-fifth of his income—and that is not beyond the realm of possibility—and there will be millions who will not feel that the New Deal has been so delightful. But—1936 is coming and that is a presidential election year.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT'S PREDICTED that a Number 1 tom turkey will cost this Thanksgiving not less than 31 cents the pound. This hurts at first when you think about it, gosh! then a nice sixteen pound turkey is going to set us back $4.96, and the oyster stuffing or chestnuts and the cranberry sauce and the brandy for the mince pie and the fruit cake and the cocktails will run the cost up to around ten bucks and then some. But wait! if we keep staring that thirty-one cents a pound tom turkey in the face we'll just keep on feeling that there's no justice. But fix your mind entirely on the fact that these United States, of whom you are which, spent last year more than eleven thousand million dollars! Eleven thousand million dollars! And after you get used to thinking about eleven thousand million dollars the four bucks and ninety-six cents you will have to pay for a tom turkey is just nothing whatever. Ha, ha, it is to laugh. Let's buy a forty pound turkey.

WHAT'S THE USE! Newspapers all around the country and people at dinner tables and on the buses still speak of the weird attempt made by Sinclair Lewis to be governor of California. If I were Upton Sinclair I would keep on running for governor or senator or President until people stopped mixing me up with Sinclair Lewis. But no! the day after he was elected President of the United States the hostess at a dinner would look down the table and say, "Isn't it wonderful that Sinclair Lewis is now our President!" Teaching humans to get things right is much harder than training Towser to roll over and play dead if you said to him, "What would you do, Towser, if you found out you were a Republican (or Democrat, just as you felt about it)?

POSSESSION TAKEN.

The petaled years, soft-fallen from the rose of love,
Are fragrant in the bindings of these books
That line my walls:
Tall crystal goblets hold the lees of joy
That brimmed them to the full
The bubbles flung in fragile iridescence down the winds
That bore the freightage of young dreams.

Pictures and marbles are the flotsam gifts
From stoutly-timbered ships
Whose final clearance papers were sealed orders
For a long anchorage in an unknown port.

Whose ashes filled the graves of still-born hopes.

From the golden candelabra on the mantel shelf
Soft-flaming candles, dialing mad hours,
Have shed their haloing light
On faces now remembered with a rush of tears
Stopped in their falling by the dykes of time.

Within these quiet rooms friends come and go,
Seeming to find here intervals of rest
For further war against life's savagery,
And in a world teeming with robot sensitivities

Paid for in full, a quitclaim now I hold
On everything that makes this peace my own;
Wrapped in a blissful solitude of work and dreams
I am content and say
The price was not too high.

THE RAILROAD PEOPLE joyfully declare that with the new fast streamlined trains they are going to bring back business to the rails and put a crimp in traveling by bus and auto. Maybe so, but what about the hitch-hikers? How sad it will be next summer to see wistful faced hitch-hikers standing on a country crossroad wiggling their thumbs at the streamlined trains. They'll pick up no rides, but that won't discourage 'em any. A professional hitch-hiker will stand for days rooted in one spot wiggling his thumb at everything that comes past. It will be weeks or maybe months before they get the idea that streamlined trains don't give one toot of their whistle or horn or whatever they've got for a hitch-hiker wiggling his thumb. Heavens! maybe the hitch-hikers will have to do a little hiking as well as hitching. Oh, too bad! Too bad! And oh the pity of it!

AND IT WON'T DO a bit of good now to say that if this or that poem or wheeze is in the Linebook of 1934 then you'll use it exclusively for your Christmas cards this year. Sorry, but yesterday Bob Stonesifer moved the cold, pallid forms over to a big table and Vic Barta tied the galleys up with strings and solemn faced workers carried them out and put them in a truck and away they went to the printer. We wish everything that everybody wanted in the new Linebook was there, but, after all, as Hank Tobias used to say with such feeling, "Sixty-four dam pages is just sixty-four dam pages, and we haint got no rubber type." The only thing to do is to wait for Friday, Dec. 7. Then comes it! And if you want to be sure you're going to get a copy—there'll be only one printing—it might be well to make contact with the Tribune Public Service Office, No. 1 South Dearborn street, right away and leave an order. As usual, 10 cents on the hoof, 13 cents by mail.

HOUSES.

Since life is just a passing show
And nothing lingers long,
I'll take the fancies of the days
And build a house of song;

Then, when the curtain drops at last
To say the show is done,
I'll still maintain my little house—
Or build another one.

ALKALOSIS.

As was pointed out in the article of yesterday it is necessary that the acid-alkali relation within the body be maintained in proper balance. Our temperature limits may serve as an illustration.

Most of us know that for good health the temperature of the body must be kept at what has been found to be an approximately normal level—namely: 98.6 degrees F. The body endeavors to hold this temperature within a very narrow range. If from any cause the temperature of the body rises there is an increase in the rate of oxygen consumption, the heart beats more rapidly, the rate of breathing increases, and there is a marked loss of water. A temperature of six or seven degrees above normal can be resisted by body tissues for a short time only.

The reaction of the blood is slightly more alkaline than pure water. We can increase the alkali in the blood as much as .2 or .3 above normal by rapid breathing that is kept up for ten or fifteen minutes. On the other hand, the alkali can be lowered through the production of lactic acid in the muscles following a short period of active exercise. An increase in either alkali or acid is followed by symptoms that, if long continued, are incompatible with the normal functioning of the body and sometimes with the continuance of life.

In contrast with acidosis, alkalosis is a condition of the blood and other body fluids in which, as we say, the pendulum has swung to the alkaline side. In such a situation alkalis may have accumulated in the body through the administration of too much sodium bicarbonate, given as medicine or contained in food. Occasionally sodium citrate, a popular laxative, may be only partially oxidized, leaving the alkaline portion within the body. Sometimes through vomiting there is a rapid loss of hydrochloric acid from the stomach, thus depriving the body of a needed neutralizing substance.

Physicians may observe symptoms of alkalosis in those who have been taking the alkaline treatment for gastric or duodenal ulcer. Inasmuch as the treatment requires the administration of large quantities of alkali, these patients are usually carefully watched for the first appearance of overdosing.

The symptoms of alkalosis are marked restlessness, excitability, tingling sensations in various parts of the body, cramps, and numbness. The latter manifestations are usually noted first in the extremities and the face. At times there is marked tremor of the eyelids and in extreme cases there may be convulsions. An examination of the urine will disclose a strong alkaline reaction.

In the treatment of alkalosis, as in acidosis, sodium chloride [common salt] serves as a remedy of great value. In extreme cases this may be injected slowly in proper solution into the patient's veins. When the condition is due to the administration of alkaline salts, treatment as a rule is unnecessary other than stopping the use of alkalis. When it is due to a loss of hydrochloric acid, as may occur in persistent vomiting or intestinal obstruction, the acid may be restored by giving salt solution.

We are constantly learning new facts about the many intricate chemical operations that take place within the body, and some of the most fascinating have to do with the delicate interchange of acid and alkali. The reaction of the blood, protected by many safeguards, is maintained at an almost exact level in health. Most physicians have observed how quickly symptoms of either acidosis or alkalosis may develop, with accompanying signs of severe illness and even danger to life should this level be seriously disturbed. Fortunately either condition is in most instances quickly and easily remedied. Early recognition, therefore, is of the highest importance.

HEART BLOCK.

J. E. T. writes: I have a peculiar condition very hard to explain. At the point where one lapses from a doze into solid sleep I sometimes apparently cease to breathe. For the time being everything in me seems to stop functioning, including the heart. I jump out of this sleep involuntarily, and sometimes give a good yell. I feel exactly as if I were dying, and at times have even called to some one to say good-by. This condition lasts only about 15 seconds. Then everything seems normal again, outside of the fact that my breathing is short and rapid and the pulse speeds up. Complete composure returns in apparently five minutes, and I go back to sleep.

This does not happen when I am awake, even though I am lying down, but may occur at any time I close my eyes and doze, as it did the other day in the barber chair. It is a most disagreeable sensation, and although I have been examined by competent physicians I get no satisfaction. They claim it is merely caused by the mind and must be corrected mentally. How can this be done when the condition occurs only when the mind is partially asleep? I am 29 years old, in good health, and passed an insurance examination some weeks ago.

REPLY.

You have given a very accurate description of the symptoms that occur when the normal impulse between the auricle and the ventricle of the heart is interfered with. You have what may be called a temporary, momentary heart block. The impulse causing the heartbeat fails to reach the lower chamber [ventricle]. This usually lasts but a fraction of a second.

The reason physicians have not been able to find this is because it does not occur during the examination, but only as you describe. It has nothing whatever to do with your mind. By some experts it is considered to be of nervous origin; that is, having a possible connection with the vagus [tenth] nerve. By others it is believed to be a stomach reflex, having some relation to overfilling or dilatation of the stomach. As a precautionary measure rather light meals should be eaten—perhaps four or five small meals a day. Attacks are more frequent when the person is tired; hence, overfatigue should be avoided.

Most young people outgrow this condition. You could not die in an attack if you wanted to. I know a famous football coach who has had this same difficulty, and it worried him a great deal until it was explained.

VALID DELIVERY.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. Smith has eighty acres of land [which is mortgaged] which he wishes to deed to his son. However, for various reasons, he does not want his son to have the deed recorded. 1. Is such an unrecorded deed legally good? Mr. Smith says that if he should die all his son would have to do is to take the deed to be recorded and the property would legally belong to the son [taking the mortgage into consideration, of course]. 2. Is this correct? 3. How long may one hold an unrecorded deed and expect it to give a clear title to the property upon recording, supposing that there are no other claims, etc.? 4. Is this considered a satisfactory way of deeding property, assuming that there are good reasons for not recording the deed? M. I. O.

1. Yes, if the grantee can prove that the deed was validly delivered during the grantor's lifetime, but such proof might be difficult.
2. No, we advise against using such an unrecorded deed as a substitute for a will.
3. Depends on all of the facts tending to prove or disprove delivery during the grantor's lifetime.
4. No.

PROBATE AND GUARDIANSHIP.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died eight years ago and my mother died three weeks ago. My brother will be 21 in February and I'll be 17 next month. My mother left us a home clear of bills. My aunts and uncles want us to get out of the place and want to put us in with strangers. We have friends we could go to, but the relatives won't allow us to. I would like to know if they have a right to send us out of our house? Do we have to secure a guardian and can we pick the person we want? A. V.

If your parents left wills, the legal situation would depend largely on the wording. If there were no wills, probate proceedings and a guardianship would be technically necessary in order to produce a merchantable title to real estate, but the facts may be such as to make it practicable to dispense with such proceedings. We advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

DOWER RIGHTS.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A sells his friend B a lot, located in Michigan, to be paid for as convenient [by oral agreement]. Deed to the lot is to be given to B when fully paid for. B owes C a sum of money that is due, and offers to turn in that lots as part payment, to which C agrees. As the lot has now been fully paid for, B asks A to make the title out to C at once, so as to save one transfer and the cost thereof. A is willing to do this, provided it is lawful. His doubt arises from the fact that B's wife contemplates divorce. There are no papers of any kind drawn up, except receipts of the money paid B to A. 1. Is it all right for A to have the title made out to C on a written order from B? 2. Would C have a good title as far as the transfer is concerned, or would B's wife have a interest in it, in spite of the fact that the title has never been made out to B? C. M.

Section 71 [c], 19 Corpus Juris, page 479, is in part as follows: "If the purchase price had been fully paid by the husband prior to his death, and no conveyance had been made to him, his widow is entitled to dower in the lands so purchased. But if the husband has not complied with the terms of the executory contract, or if for any reason he would not have been entitled to a specific performance during his lifetime, it is generally held that the right of dower will not attach." According to reconstructions of this tower by the University of Berlin, based on extensive excavations and authentic measurements, the Tower of Babel was less than one-fourth as high as the Empire State building in New York. The tower was about 300 feet high and was equally large in each dimension at the base. These data were secured from the German Oriental society, which excavated the ruins of the Tower of Babel in the heart of Babylon.

SANTA CLAUS VS. McGUGIN.

Coffeyville, Kas., Nov. 10.—I was defeated for reelection. I was able to carry the agricultural sections of my district, but they put me down in the industrial sections. I received 49 per cent of the votes and was defeated by 2,200 votes. They went a long way with the expenditure of public money in the guise of relief to carry this district. They put in four meat canning factories in this district, employing about 600 people in each factory. They also put in two laundries employing several hundred people each. They were in operation about eight weeks before the election. Now within three days after the election all of them have been closed. They were carrying a total employment of between 2,500 and 3,000 people. Altogether they represented about 4,500 votes. I did not get a handful of them. These plants were operated on a purely political basis.

If we cannot divorce politics from relief there is no way that we can defeat the brain-trust Socialists who are pushing communism upon this country. The only possible way to break it up would be to awaken all Democrats so that conservative Democrats will not vote their ticket. So far as the election of last Tuesday is concerned the Republican party was running against two political parties, one the Democratic party and the other the Socialist party. The trouble is they were all lumped in under the Democratic label.

HAROLD MCGUGIN,
Representative, Third District, Kansas.

COLES COUNTY STAYS REPUBLICAN.

Charleston, Ill., Nov. 11.—They are trying to say the Republican party is dead. Not so here in Coles county. We elected the entire Republican county ticket this last election, and we are proud of it.

As long as Coles county stays on the map of Illinois the Republican party will not die. As long as there is life there is hope.

The first reason we won out is that we put good men on the ticket, men qualified for their jobs, men better qualified for the jobs than their opponents.

Then we all got out and worked for these men and we worked in harmony. Everybody did his work without a whimper. Our candidates attended all our meetings and rallies in a body.

Whether you put it in the paper or not, we're solid Republicans down here in Coles county and very much alive.

MUSIC LOVERS AT PLAY.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—As a lover of good music I get disgusted to read in your paper how society attends opera, especially "Four Saints in Three Acts." There were quite a number of the younger set who found the bar so attractive that they spent the entire second act there. If they think to make Chicago the biggest music center in the world they are badly mistaken and one cannot help to feel sorry for them. I believe most of them spent years for educations, even abroad, and should know better how to appreciate good music.

HUGO LEISTEN.

THE KING'S SON.

Ambia, Ind., Nov. 10.—The editorial "The King's Son Becomes a Peer," while unimportant, gives one the distressful impression that your editorial staf is careless of facts.

You assert that his majesty's younger sons are born commoners.

May I ask you to check in the law books and peerages the following statements: The children of the sovereign may not register as voters; may not sit, if elected, in the house of commons; may not marry without the consent of parliament or of the king in council, and then only foreign princesses or the daughters of dukes, marquesses, or earls; enjoy from birth the predicate of royal highness and the style of prince of Great Britain and Ireland and must sire and be sired accordingly and "they must be served upon bended knee, so great is the respect in these realms for the royal family." They may not be sworn in the courts of justice, but may state upon honor. When they marry, if above the age of 16 years, they are entitled of right, and not of grace, to be created royal dukes with precedence over all other dukes and lords of parliament, with military and naval A. D. C.'s, a chamberlain and household officers. To impugn their honor or chastity is high treason—a penalty which protects T. R. H.'s wives.

You say "legally an Englishman sits in the house of lords as a peer, or is eligible for that seat by heredity, he is a commoner." Englishmen hold Scottish and Irish peerages. They cannot sit in the house of lords, unless elected to it as a representative peer. Other Scottish peers cannot sit in either house of parliament; other Irish peers can sit only in the house of commons, if elected by the voters of an English or Scottish constituency [Lord Palmerston's case]; they are ineligible to Ulster constituencies. Lastly, all elder sons of peers of every peerage [English, Scottish, Irish, Great Britain and the United Kingdom] are commoners eligible to the house of commons, the exact opposite of what you say.

The prime minister is a constitutional officer with precedence next after the archbishop of Canterbury, the first subject of the realm. R. C.

SHE MISSED THE FAIR.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—People, please don't get me wrong. I don't envy this lady and her little daughter who went to the Fair every day; far from it. But I will say I meet a lot of people and am ashamed to say I was not near the Fair either year. Yes, I did want to go over many times. I cried myself to sleep because I could not afford to go.. I am the only support of my sick husband and three children, and have been for over five years. So you see after my outside work was done I spent my time cooking, cleaning, and washing for my family. I am thankful that I am able to do so.

Yes, my children went quite a few times and sure did enjoy it. The last day and night was the time I wanted to go so much, but could not. R. A. V.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

FRENCH REPUBLIC IN FINAL TEST, FLANDIN WARNS

New Premier Gets Great Vote of Confidence.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 13.—With the solemn warning that France is "carrying on the final test of parliamentary rule," Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin, youngest and tallest premier in years, went before the chamber of deputies this afternoon and won a thumping vote of confidence.

The vote was 423 to 118. It is sixteen votes more that Premier Gaston Doumergue, whom Premier Flandin succeeded last week, got at the height of his popularity when he took office after the February riots.

Communists and Socialists voted against the 45 year old Flandin, the Neo-Socialists, who are slightly less radical, abstained from voting and there was some defection among the right groups led by Louis Marin and Andre Tardieu. The Radical Socialists, the resignation of whose ministers ended the Doumergue government, voted solidly for the new cabinet. So did the center parties, showing the Flandin group has determined to be more moderate than Doumergue's.

Trouble Expected.

Trouble was expected outside the chamber from nationalist groups angry over the departure of Doumergue, and guards were reëforced, but no trouble occurred. Nor will it occur if Premier Flandin has his way, for he solemnly warned the right and left that republican France will not capitulate before any factions and will not surrender either "to the forces of revolution," meaning the left, or "forces of dictatorship," meaning the right. He threatened action against political bands.

The essence of his program, he said, is against dictatorship, which, he asserted, has failed in all other countries. Instead he wants a controled, organized régime of liberty.

To Protect French Worker.

In a session marked by great calm, thanks to the chastened mood of the deputies, who sighed with relief when Premier Flandin withdrew the menace of dissolution hanging over them for the last month, the premier promised to protect the French worker against foreigners, to work for peace at home and abroad and to continue the truce in government—but a truce with action.

He said that he would push constitutional reforms slowly, starting with making the premiership a real head man's job without portfolio, and would also restrict the right of public demonstrations as well as seize illegal arms.

The big majority given Flandin was largely due to his assurance that the chamber will last out its full time—though he qualified that promise with the understanding "if it behaves"—or until the spring of 1936. Observers expect the cabinet to last until after the Saar plebiscite on Jan. 13, which is the biggest danger now ahead in foreign affairs.

Canadian Students Asked to Define Attitude on War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13.—Students attending McGill university today were handed questionnaires seeking their attitude on war. They were asked to specify under what circumstances they would go to war, whether they would volunteer if the dominion entered into hostilities with a foreign power, or whether they would fight only if the country was invaded. Other Canadian universities are expected to conduct similar campaigns, such action being requested by the league of nations.

BRITAIN CLAMPS LID ON AMERICAN WAR DEBT ISSUE

MacDonald Refuses to Reopen Negotiations.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, today placed an effective quietus on any efforts to bring the war debts question up for reconsideration.

After MacDonald told the house of commons he planned to call no new conference to deal with the matter the lanky chancellor said the whole question of international debts was in abeyance at the present moment.

That statement, he said, applied equally to the international debts discussed at the Lausanne conference and to the war debts owed to the United States.

M. P. Questions MacDonald.

MacDonald was questioned from the floor as to whether he intended to redeem his promise to call another conference of the powers because the creditor nations had failed to obtain settlement of their obligations to the United States. He replied:

"I do not consider that circumstances calling for a new conference have arisen and it is not my intention to call such a conference."

At the same time he assured the commons that Europe need not fear finding itself "back on the Young plan."

William Mabane, Liberal leader, put the question to MacDonald, quoting MacDonald's declaration that "if no settlement could be obtained on their own debt by the creditor governments" he would call another conference.

Chamberlain told the house that he was "not at present in a position to make a statement" as to whether the government had decided the war debts owed the United States could not be satisfactorily settled, or whether the negotiations were still in progress.

U. S. Attitude Unchanged.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Word from Great Britain that the lid would be clamped on any efforts to revive the consideration of war debts brought an indirect echo in the capital today that the attitude of the American government on the subject remains unchanged.

American officials withheld all direct comment on Prime Minister MacDonald's statement that he would not issue a call for a conference on international debts.

Secretary of State Hull, just back from three weeks spent in Pinehurst, N. C., because of a stubborn case of laryngitis, conferred during the day with President Roosevelt on foreign affairs. There were strong intimations that the debt subject had been touched.

Leaving the White House, Hull had no comment on the question of war debts other than to reiterate that the feeling of the American government on the question was the same as ever.

Europe Must Move First.

Although Hull confined his remarks to that one brief observation, it was generally assumed he meant that, in keeping with President Roosevelt's views, any European debtor should make the first move if it desired in any way to modify its existing war debt agreement.

War debt principal and interest payments from European nations to this country fall due on Dec. 15.

BRITAIN SURPRISES U. S. AND JAPAN; CALLS NEW NAVAL MEETING

LONDON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A sudden British decision to confer tomorrow with American delegates to tri-power naval conversations here caused equal surprise among American and Japanese representatives tonight.

While it was presumed the British planned to discuss further their proposals for a compromise to end the existing deadlock, the Americans said they had received no hint as to the purpose of the meeting. The Japanese evinced like bewilderment.

Naval circles wondered whether the decision to discuss the compromise plan again with the Americans, who have opposed it, had anything to do with the meeting today at which Britain explained to representatives of her dominions and India just what she offered Japan last week in the way of compromise. The British proposals, it was understood, involved granting Japan equality on the high seas in principle but not in practice.

Holds My FALSE TEETH
Tighter and Longer

I've tried several kinds of powders to hold my false teeth. When I tried FASTEETH I found the one powder that does not thin out or wash away, but "stays put" all day. It gives a most pleasant feeling, a real sense of security and holds and holds and holds. Breath is always pleasant. If anyone with loose-fitting false teeth wants all-day comfort and a real stay there fit, insist upon FASTEETH at Walgreen's or any good drug store.

POLAND ACTS TO CUT DEBT LOAD OF 2,500,000 FARMS

Poor Peasant Helped by Conversion Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 13.—The Polish government has taken definite action to alleviate the distress of 2,000,000 small peasant proprietors and another 500,000 landowners ranging from owners of medium sized farms to nobles holding titles to estates which could easily swallow twenty average size American middle-west counties. The relief program began in 1932 when a law was passed decreasing interest on mortgages and again in 1933 when another law was enacted extending short term credits to farmers to three years.

Premier Leon Kozlowski, Poland's leading archeologist, who is now the defender of the Polish peasant, expects that the new laws will do much to lessen the agricultural crisis.

Makes 3 Stipulations.

The premier-professor was obliged to make many concessions to get his program adopted by the cabinet. Kozlowski had hoped to scale down the debts of the poor peasants 40 per cent immediately. But when Finance Minister Zawadski pointed out that a conversion of these debts into 50 year mortgages bearing 4½ per cent interest amounted to an eventual slash of 50 per cent Kozlowski gave in.

He stipulated three conditions, however, under which the peasants could seek to have their debts reduced by arbitration boards. First, where families have mortgaged their properties to finance the marriage of their daughters; second, where interest on the debt is considered usury; third, in cases where peasants paid extraordinarily high prices for land purchased from big landowners in 1928-'29 when prices were inflated.

Small Owners Benefit Most.

Further, under the new reforms, the small landowners will enjoy the most privileges while owners of medium sized farms will come second and big estate owners will have the least privileges in making new settlements. The last group has been opposing the reform in the hope of obtaining more concessions for themselves from the government. The government press has denounced Poland's large estate owners as the most selfish class in the country. Many of them placed large mortgages on their properties during prosperous times and have resisted all attempts to force them to divide portions of their estates among the land hungry peasants.

BELGIAN POLITICAL FACTIONS AGREE ON SOUND MONEY POLICY

BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Belgian political factions appeared to be united tonight in support of a "sound money" policy for the new government made necessary by the resignation earlier in the day of the cabinet of Count Charles de Broqueville.

The Catholic bloc of parliament, meeting after the cabinet's resignation, invited the new government to oppose devaluation of the franc. This action was in line with that taken earlier by the Liberal bloc, and thus both coalition groups were united against devaluation. Their stand appeared to allay to a considerable extent fears that Belgium might not remain on the gold standard.

Meanwhile, speculation was rife as to what the make-up of the new government would be. Political circles pointed out that since the cabinet's resignation was based merely on the withdrawal of two ministers who were not members of parliament, Van Zeeland and Ingenbleek, the door had been left open for King Leopold to reappoint Count de Broqueville.

A SURE WAY TO PREVENT WINTER TROUBLE FOR MOTORISTS OF CHICAGO AND THE CENTRAL STATES

Special Winter Grades of Germ Processed Oil Give Positive Starting, Improved Gasoline Mileage and Utmost Motor Protection!

Change now to the proper grade of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. You'll get:

1. Positive Starting. These new lighter grades permit your motor to reach higher "cranking speed." You save your battery. You choke less—waste no gasoline.

2. Definitely more miles per gallon of gasoline. These lighter grade oils flow freely and minimize friction.

3. Utmost Motor Protection. Other oils drain away, leaving parts unprotected when you start. Only Conoco Germ Processed Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming the "Hidden Quart that Never Drains Away." Every part is fully oiled from the first turn of the motor. It cuts down starting wear—saves repair bills!

Conoco dealers and stations have the new Winter Grades, namely, 10 W and 20 W—heavier grades, too—in refinery-sealed cans and in bulk. Consult the Conoco chart, fill with the proper grade—and stop worrying!

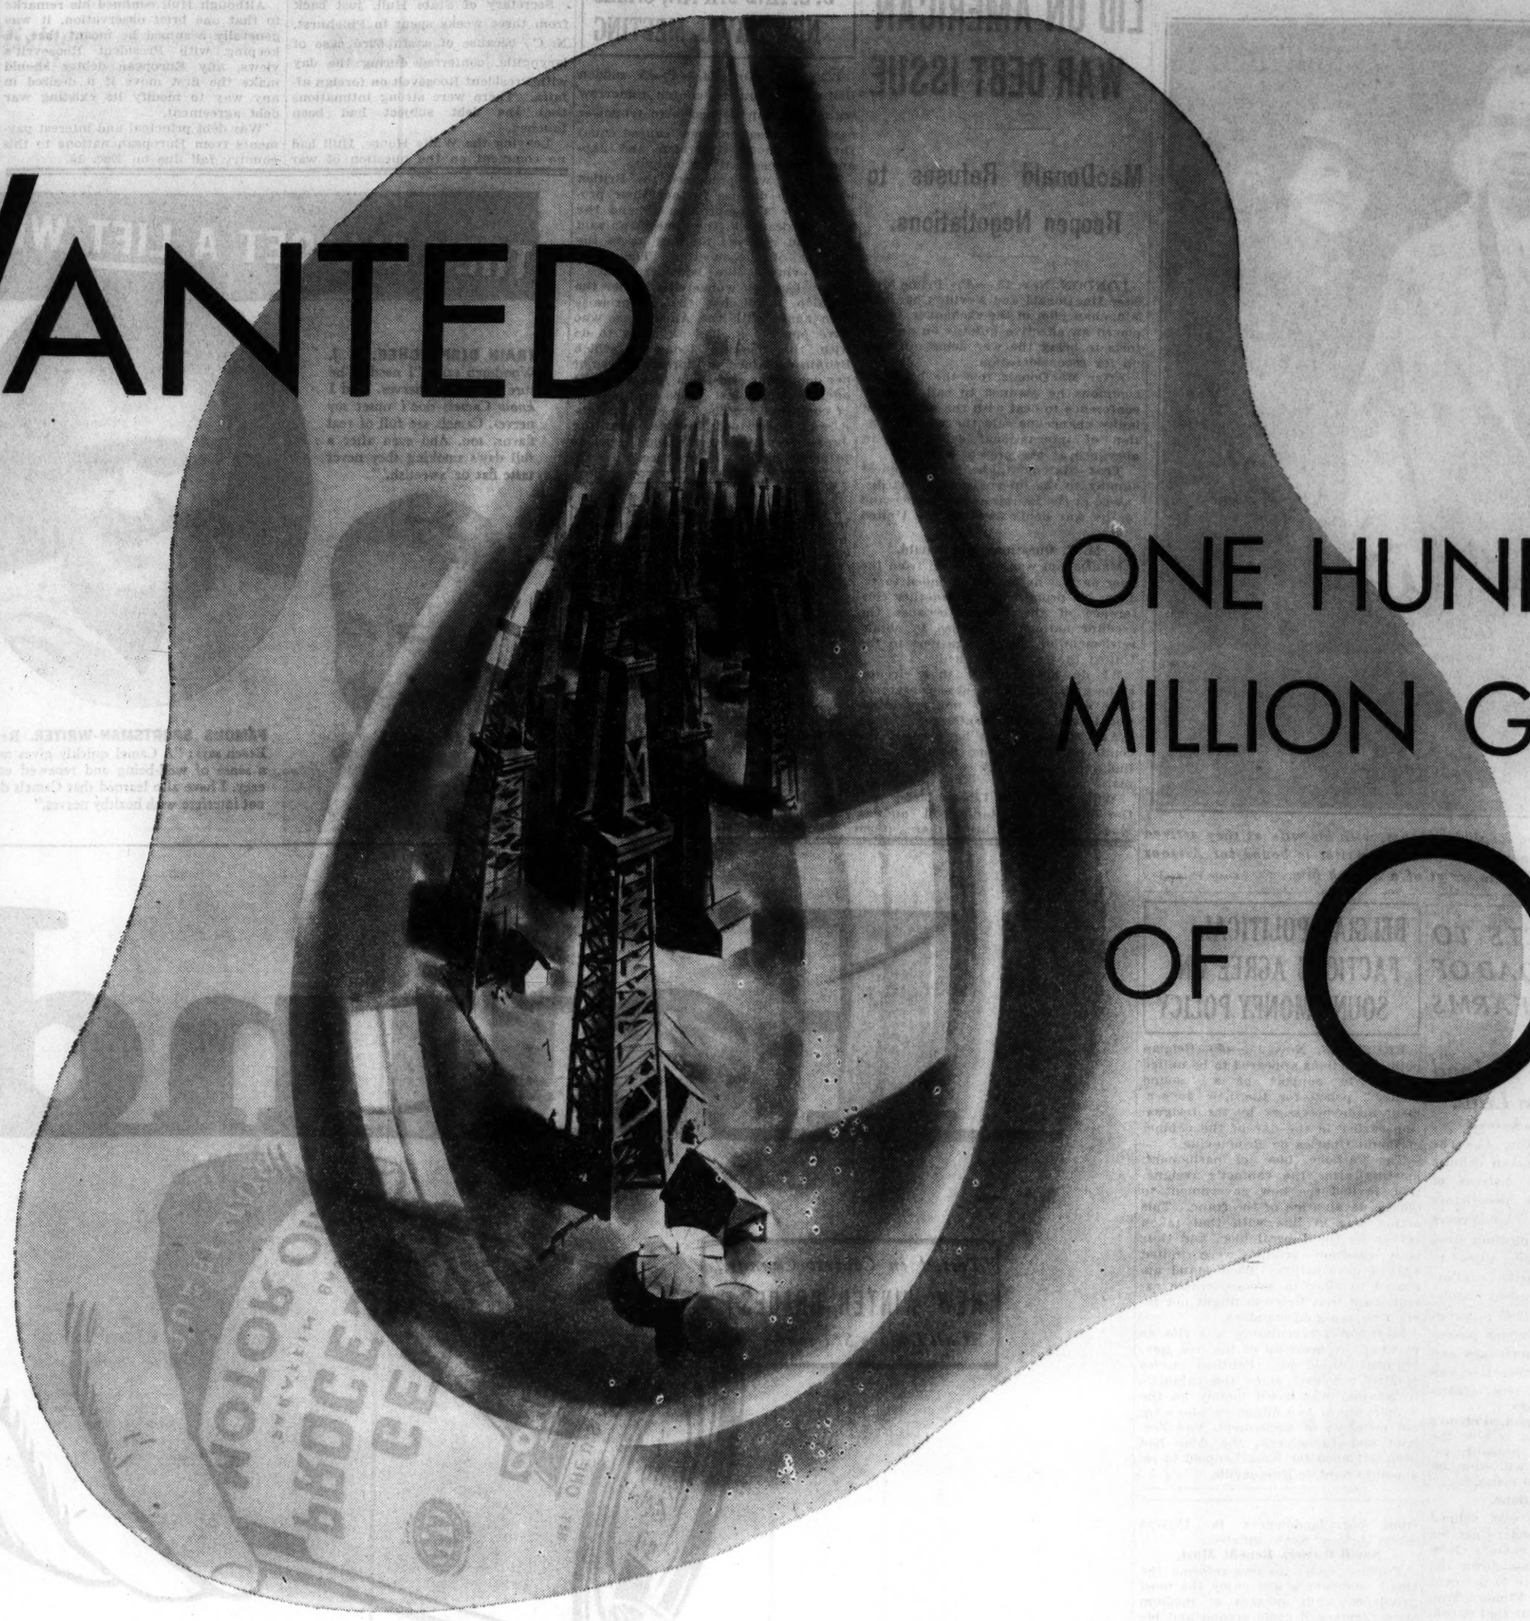
WANTED...



ONE HUNDRED MILLION GALLONS OF OIL!

...but EVERY DROP must be refined!

Oil for motors, oil for heat, oil for a dozen different needs. From everywhere comes a constant call for oil! But whether you're in the oil business and buy it by the gusher, or by the gallon for your household, you know that volume is worthless without quality. It must be refined!

Buying circulation for your newspaper advertising on the basis of quantity alone is also a wasteful procedure. To make your advertising pay you must have mass plus quality. You must reach thousands of people; but they must be able and willing to buy. Seems obvious, but perhaps that's why it's a point so often overlooked by busy men.

Analyze the newspapers you are using on your list. Who reads them? Are these people known for their open minds and responsive pocketbooks? And, if so, are there enough of such people to produce profitable results for your business?

For your information, the Herald Tribune is read each day by more than 320,000 families. On Sundays you can figure at least another hundred thousand more. Every day in the year these people prove their eagerness to buy the things they want and need — through results they bring for the hundreds of Herald Tribune advertisers, retail, national and classified, and through the unsolicited requests they send in direct to the editors. They ask for buying guidance in a steady voluminous stream of requests that so far this year has broken all previous records for sheer quantity. They are the kind of people who want to know what you have for sale because it may fit in with their scheme of living. NEW PROPELLER FOR AIRPLANES AUTOMATIC AID

Coupled to Engine It Acts as Governor.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—A new propeller which will perform for the airplane pilot the same function that an automatic gear shift—if that shift had an infinite number of gear ratios—would perform for the driver of an automobile, has been perfected by the Hamilton Standard Propeller company of East Hartford, it was learned here today.

In addition, the new propeller, coupled to the engine, becomes also a governor of the engine's revolutions.

Designed by Trophy Winners.

The new propeller is of the automatic shift infinite pitch type. Its designers call it the "constant speed" type propeller. It has been developed by the same engineers who in 1933 won the Collier trophy by their perfection of the two position controllable pitch propeller, which has for the last two years been used on the major airlines of the United States.

The engineers have been working with army, navy, and marine experts, and the first batch of the new propellers will be placed for test purposes on military craft.

A pilot has but one control mechanism in the cockpit when the new propellers have been fitted. This will be a revolution governor. With it he may determine the speed at which his motor will turn over, be it idling or under full throttle. All changes in the propeller pitch to allow this revolution speed to remain constant through take off, climb, or dive, will automatically be made by the propeller.

Sets Engine Speed Control.

For take off, the pilot will set the engine speed control for maximum revolutions. With the motor idling the propeller automatically will shift to an extremely fine pitch so that the small amount of power applied through the throttle will be sufficient to turn it over at a speed, for example, of 2,200 times per minute.

As the pilot opens his throttle and releases his brakes the pitch will change as the power increases, allowing the propeller to take a wider and wider "bite." As the airplane gets under way the propeller speed will remain contant but the pitch will become coarser and coarser, until maximum power in the motor and the optimum pitch are simultaneously reached.

With the airplane off the ground and into the climbing angle, the pitch automatically will change once more to the most efficient position.

When cruising height has been attained the pilot may set the engine speed control for the most efficient cruising revolutions at, following the same example, 1,900 r. p. m.

Pitch Becomes Coarser.

Toward the end of the flight the pilot utilizes his altitude to increase the forward speed of the airplane by placing the ship in a gentle glide, losing approximately 400 to 500 feet a minute. With ordinary propellers, unless the engine is throttled back, "over reviving" would follow. With the automatic pitch propeller, however, the pitch will become coarser until the "bite" is so big—the pitch so coarse—that the engine cannot increase its revolutions more than 1,900 per minute.

In landing the throttle is nearly closed but the propeller decreases its "bite" until the small amount of power still will turn it 1,900 times per minute, but without forward pull since the blade angles have been reduced.

TRIBUNE BENEFIT ASSOCIATION TO PAY OUT $158,116

Checks totaling $158,116 will be paid this year to CHICAGO TRIBUNE employés who are members of the Dearborn Mutual Benefit association, it was announced yesterday by Treasurer Fred C. Weber. The organization, operated as a Christmas savings club, has been in existence more than twenty-eight years. Its membership for 1934 was 1,528 men and women.

All employés of THE TRIBUNE are eligible for membership in the association and are paid interest on from one to ten shares. The members deposit 25 cents a week for each share purchased.

Eighteen members of the association died during 1934, and in each case the beneficiary was paid $750. Officers of the association are chosen from the members, all departments of THE TRIBUNE being represented on the board of directors.

WIFE TAKES HER LIFE.

Mrs. Cerella Billian, 37 years old, 5426 Monroe street, ended her life yesterday by running the engine of the family automobile in the closed garage behind her home. She had also slashed both wrists with a safety razor blade. She was ill.

ASK U. S. LOANS FOR LINK BRIDGE AND W. SIDE ROAD

Highway Department Plan Submitted.

BY HAL FOUST.

The completion of the outer link bridge and the construction of a west side elevated highway with federal funds have been recommended to Washington, D. C., by the Illinois highway department. The announcement was made yesterday by Charles E. De Leuw, assistant chief engineer in the state department.

The recommendations were forewarded to Washington in response to a request from Thomas McDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads. He asked for a list of projects in Illinois on which work might be started in 30, 60 and 90 days. Similar requests have been made in other states, presumably in preparation for another public works administration appropriation bill to be presented to the next session of congress.

$4,000,000 Investment Lies Idle.

Secretary of Interior Ickes last January set aside $6,877,000 for the bridge job. In July the tentative allotment was withdrawn for the announced reason that Lincoln park lacked security for the loan. The span near the mouth of the Chicago river would be used by 55,000 automobiles daily, relieving congestion in Michigan avenue. The preliminary work has cost about $4,000,000, and this investment has lain idle for three years.

The west side elevated highway recommended by the Illinois department for federal financing would be built in Randolph street from Jefferson street to Paulina street. The cost of the structure, a four lane pavement on steel or reinforced concrete pillars, is estimated at $1,114,000.

This price would include the ramps connecting with surface level and would also include two additional lanes of pavement approaching and leaving the ramps for accelerating or decelerating outside of the four high speed lanes. Another $451,000 would be spent on surface street connections with the ramps.

Site Recommended by Expert.

The location of this elevated highway is one recommended by a survey conducted by Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university at the direction of the council trafic committee headed by Ald. John Massen. Factual statistics showed that the delays and hazards of automobile congestion were most acute west of the loop.

Randolph street, east of Union park, is a broad pavement now of no use to through trafic because it is cluttered with farmers' and vegetable peddlers' wagons patronizing the old commission market.

The responsibility for the construction of a west side trafic artery has been shunted back and forth between the city, the state, and the government for several years, ever since the west park district defeated a bond issue referendum, refusing to pay local taxes for an improvement that would be enjoyed by the entire city and much of northern Illinois.

City Council Dallies.

Gov. Horner, before his election and shortly thereafter, said he would do everything in his power to bring about the construction of such a trafic facility. He passed to the city the task of determining the specific route and design. Rival local improvement organizations made this decision difficult.

The city council since early last spring has dilly-dallied over various proposed routes and designs without reaching a decision.

Illinois has already received two PWA allotments for road construction, one for $17,000,000 and the other for $9,000,000, without assigning any money either to the outer bridge or to the elevated highway.

13 AUTOS IN 1929, 'BROKE' NOW, HE SUES FOR LEGACY

Thirteen automobiles in 1929. Not enough money to buy shoes in 1934. These represent the tides in the fortunes of Schuyler Colfax Schwartz Jr., who sued in Circuit court yesterday for removal of Attorney William T. Pridmore as executor of the $250,000 estate of his grandmother, the late Mrs. Josephine E. Springer.

Schwartz, once wealthy cigar dealer, says in his bill that he is now subsisting on the charity of his friends and has no money to buy clothes or shoes. He alleges he has not received income from his grandmother's estate as provided in the will. He asks, besides Pridmore's removal, that an accounting of the estate be made, that the administrator be compelled to carry out terms of the will, and that the executor be enjoined from disposing of assets of the estate.

Mrs. Springer died Sept. 7, 1931. Her husband, the late Isadore Springer, was a wealthy real estate man. Her will provided for a $160 monthly income for life for Schwartz' mother, Martha, and for steadily increasing payments to Schwartz, the bill says.

When Schwartz' second wife, Georgia, sued him for divorce in 1929, she charged her husband had 13 automobiles and a diffrent sweetheart for each one.

OCEAN FLIGHTS AWAIT DEMAND, BUILDER SAYS

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific air travel will become a reality as soon as the American sky traveling public feels the urge to ship for foreign shores in paying numbers. This opinion was expressed by officials of the Douglas Aircraft company.

The company builds the American twin engine, 14 passenger, all metal low wing distance land monoplane—Douglas DC-2—which was flown by two Dutch pilots to second place in the recent England to Melbourne race.

"Of course, the Douglas plant is not operating air lines," General Manager Harry Wetzel said. "We are in the business of building and selling planes. When a pioneer in the trans-Atlantic pay load business gets ready to buy planes and put them on that route we will be able to furnish the ships. Do we hold any doubts as to their ability to deliver with safety, you ask? In reply to that question, we do not."

Would Use Land Planes.

Manager Wetzel took issue with the opinion expressed by others that the flying boat would be the accepted vehicle for trans-oceanic air travel.

"In this country," he said, "the layman's thought has been that you must fly over water by flying boat. That is not necessary at all. If you take a good land plane and you can get single engine operation with it—for instance, the Douglas DC-2 can cut out one of its two engines, which in standard equipment are either Wright Cyclone 710's or Pratt Whitney Hornets—and not only maintain but still climb you have a strong factor of economy in your favor. It will be possible to take a DC-2 transport, reënforce it from 18,000 to 24,000 pounds gross, and you would be able to fly an 1,800 pound pay load to Honolulu, which is the longest overwater hop under anybody's consideration."

Kingsford-Smith Agrees.

Preference for land planes on the trans-oceanic airways also was expressed by Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, who flew from Australia to California, and by A. B. Raymond, chief engineer of the Douglas plant. Kingsford-Smith said that land planes are preferable to flying boats for long sea flights, and that the American DC-2 is ready to demonstrate the feasibility of trans-Pacific commercial flight.

Both termed the land plane preferable because "it is easy enough to prepare the flotation factor," and made the following argument in behalf of the land plane:

"There is no reason why a land plane, if it comes down, could not float as long as a flying boat. A flying boat would be heavier. It would have more wind resistance. It would be slower. It would have to be more powerfully built. The land plane, with its retractable wheels, would have less resistance, be faster, could carry pay load for a longer haul on less gross weight overall."

Tanks as Emergency Floats.

"Merely by dumping the gasoline, if necessary to come down, the empty gas tanks would act as floats," Raymond said. "As between the land plane and flying boat over long sea hops it resolves itself chiefly into a matter of pay load. And from this important angle the preference would be for the land plane."

LEGION AID AND MERCHANT WIN FRAUD RETRIAL

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The conviction of Robert J. Byers, Legion official, and George S. Krieger, New York merchant, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in the sale of army and navy goods was set aside today by the United States Court of Appeals. Byers is adjutant and welfare officer of the department of Michigan.

Sentences of a year and a day in prison and fines of $2,000 each were reversed and the case sent back to the trial court. The Appeals court held that Judge Simon Adler, since deceased, who presided at the trial, had erred in not complying with a request to charge the jury that the conspiracy must be shown to have existed "since before the goods were purchased."

The appellants were indicted by a federal grand jury on Feb. 7, 1933, on charges of conspiring to obtain from the government war supplies set aside for charitable organizations and to sell them at a profit. The goods were sold by the government at low prices for distribution among the "worthy poor."

GUARD BUILDINGS ON WALL STREET IN STRIKE THREAT

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Forty buildings housing important financial institutions were guarded today by police because of the report that a strike of elevator operators and other building service employés would be called in the Wall street area.

Crowds in the district were attracted by the unusual sight of mounted policemen on patrol. They took over the beats of uniformed patrolmen who were assigned to buildings, including those of J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City bank, the Chase National bank, the Stock Exchange, Equitable Trust company, and the Bank of Manhattan company.

Meanwhile additional policemen also were on duty in the garment district from Fourteenth to Forty-first streets. A call for a new strike in this neighborhood was postponed indefinitly pending mediation among representatives of local 32B of the Building Service Employés' union and owners of buildings who have not signed union agreements.

Thousands of furnace-cleaning husbands get a holiday —freed by GAS HEAT

SHODDY, KEEP OUT

Shoddy gas appliances are taboo in the stores of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

The gas company submits every type of appliance to exhaustive tests in its own laboratory, Wabash Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street. It must be durable. It must be perfectly safe. It must show efficient performance before it is passed as approved for sale.

All a part of the service provided for the 796,000 Chicago homes served by The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

No wonder the head of the house likes gas heat. In the old days he spent his Saturday afternoon holiday cleaning the furnace, shaking and hauling ashes, removing clinkers, sweeping the basement. It was a dirty, dusty job—but it had to be done.

Now it's a different story in thousands of homes. Thousands of families in the Chicago area are enjoying gas heat. All furnace drudgery is ended. Saturday afternoon is a real holiday. Every morning all winter long the head of the house gets an extra hour's sleep. No early morning fire fixing, no back-breaking coal shoveling, no chopping kindling to coax or start a fire, no setting dampers and waiting for heat to come up. The house is warm when you get up—if you have gas heat.

Install Gas Heat NOW

Womenfolks, too, appreciate gas heat. No shoveling coal for them. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer. No basement dirt is tracked upstairs.

Now is the time to install gas heat. The long winter is still ahead. Every home—even the most modest, can now afford to heat with gas. Rates for gas heating are now less than half what they were a couple of years ago.

To prove that you can now afford to heat with gas we invite you to try it without investing one cent for equipment. We'll install it in your furnace or boiler and pay all the cost. You try it for any period up to a year and pay only $3 a month rental for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. When you decide—as we think you will—that you can't do without gas heat—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Accept our no-risk offer

But, if any time within the first year you decide you don't want gas heat, just order it out. Out it comes and the rental charge stops immediately. Your former heating equipment is replaced in good workmanlike order.

Take advantage of this timely offer. Get this modern convenience—automatic gas heat. Fire your furnace from your easy chair by setting a thermostat on the wall for the heat you want. The temperature stays even, comfortable every hour—day and night. Gas heat means so much in comfort, convenience and health for the entire family.

ROYAL SPLENDOR TO MARK JUBILEE OF MUNDELEIN

Famous Churchmen Will Join Celebration.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

With pomp and pageantry only exceeded by the Eucharistic congress of 1926, the silver anniversary celebration of the episcopacy of Cardinal Mundelein will be brought to a close in a solemn votive mass of thanksgiving next Tuesday morning at Holy Name cathedral.

The committee in charge yesterday also announced that radio participation in the event will include at least 750,000 persons. Members of the hierarchy representing more than 100 sees, led by Cardinal Patrick J. Hayes of New York and the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, will participate directly in the service, together with hundreds of priests and members of religious orders.

Wants Event To be Spiritual.

Cardinal Mundelein has expressed the wish that the celebration be entirely of a spiritual nature. The committee, therefore, has made no provision in the day's festival for a civic recognition of Cardinal Mundelein's jubilee. The committee in charge is composed of the Most Revs. Bernard J. Sheil and William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishops of Chicago, co-chairmen, and the Most Rev. Msgrs. Joseph P. Morrison, William R. Griffin, R. C. Maguire, the Revs. William Mockenhaupt, Richard S. Kelly and John Zelezinski.

The only informal event connected with the celebration will be a luncheon for the visiting and archdiocesan clergy following the Holy Name service at the Drake hotel. The committee announced that reservations both in the cathedral and at the Drake will be made for all clergy in attendance.

Announcements of Jubilee are the first to carry out the new Vatican order which designates all monsignori as well as bishops and archbishops as the most reverend. Previous to the recent order monsignori were designated either as the very reverend or the right reverend. These designations, it was explained, are adjectives, not titles, such as bishop or dean.

Confers Title on Bishops.

About two years ago a Vatican order changed the designation of a bishop from right reverend to most reverend, with right to be addressed as "his excellency," an address in civil life reserved for the President of the United States or for ambassadors.

New Tuesday's pageantry will be opened impressively with the formation of a guard of honor composed of 5,000 uniformed parochial school children. This guard of honor will extend along the line of the processional from Holy Name school, where the lesser clergy will vest, to the doors of the cathedral. Dignitaries will join the processional at the cathedral rectory.

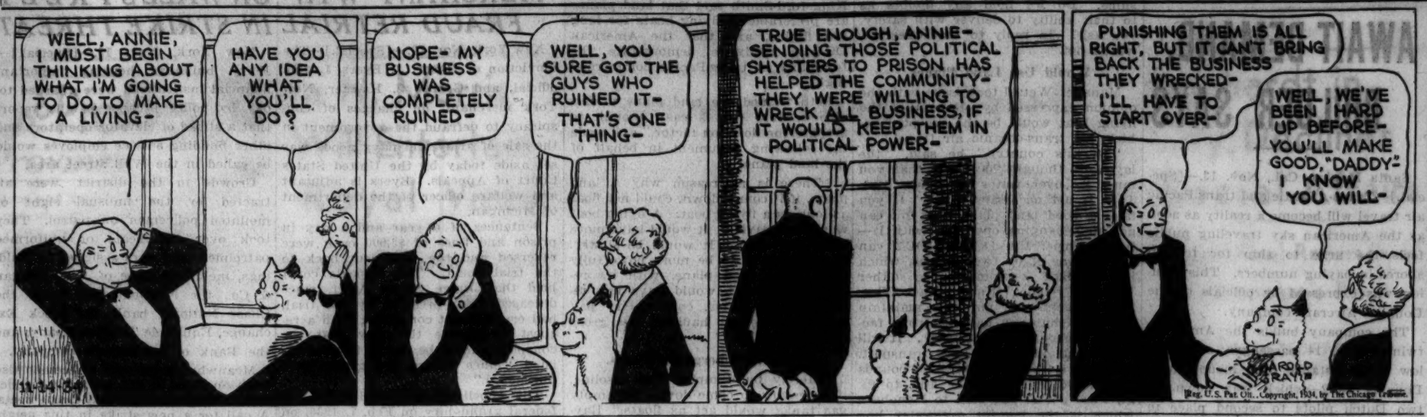
Priests' Choir to Sing.

A musical feature of the jubilee will be the first appearance of the priests' choir of the archdiocese. This organization will offer four selections at the luncheon following the great service.

The choir consists chiefly of alumni of Our Lady of the Lake seminary, Mundelein. The mass will be sung by the seminary choir and the Cardinal's Cathedral choristers of 225 voices. A 40 piece symphony orchestra will augment the organ. The jubilee committee not only has made provision for a nation wide radio hookup, but also for a loud speaker system to broadcast the service for those unable to gain entrance to the cathedral. The committee estimated yesterday that as many as 15,000 persons may assemble in the vicinity of the cathedral during the service.

The personal significance of Cardinal Hayes' participation in the jubilee was pointed out yesterday. It was related that the two cardinals were boys together on New York's east side. They were in seminary together, becoming priests at the same time. Later, both became chancellors of dioceses, with Cardinal Mundelein becoming a bishop five years prior to the episcopal elevation of Cardinal Hayes.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What to Do



J. W. HARRIMANS' POSSESSIONS TO GO ON SALE TOMORROW

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—From a wall in the Plaza Art galleries the portrait of Mrs. Joseph W. Harriman, sad faced and beautiful, looks upon the Harriman household possessions which go on sale Thursday.

Silver, tapestries, antique furniture, paintings, mirrors, rugs and draperies are spread out before the portrait—everything Mrs. Harriman and her husband collected in their long married life before he was sent to the federal penitentiary, convicted of misapplying funds of depositors in his bank.

They came from the Harrimans' two homes, at 2 East Seventieth street and on Long Island, which were broken up when Harriman went to prison.

Their value is $300,000, but officials of the galleries say that in the present depressed market they will sell for much less than that.

Hundreds have examined the furnishings since Sunday. Some are men and women who have dined at the massive Harriman dinner table and have sat in the eighteen carved mahogany Hepplewhite chairs, which are listed in the catalog at $3,000.

The portrait of Mrs. Harriman—called simply "Portrait of a Lady"—in the catalog—attracted most attention and there were many expressions of sympathy for her, though none spoke of her husband.

WILL OF T. G. LEE LEAVES $100,000 ESTATE TO WIDOW

The will of Thomas George Lee, president of Armour & Co., leaving an estate estimated at $100,000 to his widow, Mrs. Harriette E. Lee, 1300 North State street, was admitted to probate yesterday. Mr. Lee died a week ago in the Presbyterian hospital after an illness of four months. He was 56 years old.

Other wills were admitted to probate yesterday as follows:

CHARLES E. BEALL, died Oct. 30. Estate, $11,000, to widow and executrix, Isabelle Beall.

JOSEPH STEWART, died Sept. 1. Estate, $35,000, to three nephews and niece. Harris Trust and Savings bank, executor.

ANNA FRIEDRICH, died Sept. 1. Estate, $7,000, to brother and executor, Ernst Pyritz.

SALLIE M. HARMON, died Oct. 1. Estate, $8,404, to widower and two daughters. John H. Harmon, widower, executor.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

CATTLE TRUCK AND CAR CRASH; BOY IS KILLED

Samuel Pike Jr., 13 years old, 3500 Ogden avenue, was killed last night when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a loaded cattle truck at Kedzie avenue and 25th street. The force of the impact threw him from the front seat under the wheels of the truck.

Earl Patrick, 36 years old, 2843 West 22d place, driver of the car, was taken to St. Anthony's hospital with minor injuries. Woodlawn police held Fred N. Turner of Woodstock, driver of the truck, for the inquest.

The death of the Pike boy and two others brought the 1934 Cook county traffic toll to 1,081. The other victims:

William Hoffman, 10 years old, 2931 North 75th avenue, Elmwood Park. Killed by a truck yesterday at Belmont and 75th avenues in the suburb. Witnesses said the boy left his mother and ran into the path of a truck driven by Victor Clark, 43 years old, 6118 Winthrop avenue. Clark was taken into custody by Irving Park police.

Herman Franz, 52 years old, 3056 Addison street. Killed early today when he was struck by an automobile in front of 2322 South Ashland avenue. The driver of the car fled. Witnesses reported his license number and the police started a search for him.

DUDLEY G. HAYS, AN EDUCATOR FOR 40 YEARS, DIES

Dudley Grant Hays, educator in the Chicago public school system for 40 years, died yesterday in his home at 1539 Farwell avenue. He was 74 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence.

Born in Benton Harbor, Mich., Mr. Hays came to Illinois as a youth with his parents and lived on a farm near Creston. Following graduation from the Illinois State Normal university, he spent several years as a teacher in northern Illinois schools, then came to Chicago as a physics instructor at Englewood High school. He studied law in his spare time and acquired an LL. B. degree from Lake Forest university and an LL. M. degree from the Illinois College of Law. He served as principal of the Arnold, Kershaw and Eugene Field schools.

During the world war Mr. Hays was in charge of the school garden movement and subsequently became a pioneer in the field of visual education by slides and movies. He retired from the Chicago system four years ago. He is survived by his widow, Emma Adams Hays.

21 STUDENTS EXPELLED FOR COLLEGE RIOT

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Taking the most drastic disciplinary action in the history of the college, the City college faculty expelled today twenty-one students, and disciplined sixteen others in various degrees, as the result of the student riot in the great hall Oct. 9 during the visit of a party of Fascist students.

The faculty overrode the recommendations of Dean Morton Gottschall, who had been investigating the action of the students for more than a month, as being too lenient. He had urged indefinite suspension of five students and that the remaining thirty-two be placed on probation for the rest of their college careers.

Sacristan of Holy Family Church Is Critically Ill

Thomas M. Mulkerins, who has been sacristan at the Holy Family church, 1076 West Roosevelt road, for the last fifty-six years, was reported critically ill at the Alexian Brothers hospital last night. Brother Mulkerins, who is 78 years old, was taken to the hospital last Sunday suffering from a heart ailment. Dr. Frank P. Thometz said there was little hope for his recovery. Brother Mulkerins is head of the Holy Family Acolytical society, which numbers 2,000 active and former altar boys.

Sister Mary Huberta, Catholic Teacher, Dies

Sister Mary Huberta, widely known as a teacher in Chicago's Catholic schools and for fifty-one years a member of the Sisters of Charity, B. V. M., died yesterday at the Oak Park hospital. She was 75 years old. Sister Mary Huberta was superior of St. Callisto's school. She formerly was a teacher at St. Mary's, St. Charles, St. Pius, and the Blessed Sacrament High schools. Funeral services will be held from St. Mary's High school to St. Callisto's church at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Scattered over four points on a 10,000 mile circuit four radio engineers will combine vocal efforts tonight to make close harmony of "Sweet Adeline," despite the extreme distances involved. This unusual interpretation of the barber shop favorite is scheduled for 9 o'clock during the regular WBBM-CBS two way Little America broadcast. The four impromptu crooners will be located respectively in CBS' New York studio; in the RCA Communications building in New York; in Buenos Aires, a relay point on the circuit, and in Little America. All will be equipped with headphones through which they will endeavor to keep in unison with the others.

Business is definitly better in the realm of broadcasting. The other day NBC sold a 3 hour program extending to 1:30 a. m. And yesterday WAAF went on the air with a sponsored program at 6 a. m. The new program features Don C. Chisholm, radio pioneer from the west coast, a sort of walking encyclopedia. Chisholm is heard six mornings a week under the sponsorship of a financing concern.

James Melton, the singing star of Fred Allen's program, has signed a motion picture contract with Warner brothers. The contract gives him six months to wind up concert engagements and allows him to continue with his radio work. First picture assignment will be either in "Broadway Gondolier" or "New York, London, and Paris."

Eleanor La Mance, mezzo-soprano with the Chicago opera, will be guest soloist next Sunday with the W-G-N orchestra. . . . Rex Griffith, W-G-N tenor, has been engaged as a staf singer by WLW, Cincinnati. . . . Jan Garber's orchestra is getting to be largely a Large band. Frank Large is to join his brothers Freddie and Jerry in the W-G-N-Trianon orchestra. They play saxaphones. . . . Louise Barklie [Mrs. Fritz Blocki] is the new leading lady of the WBBM-CBS "Wings of Dawn" program.

The Kenosha motor maker has reserved practically the whole afternoon of Christmas day on the entire CBS network for a parade of some of the greatest stars of radio, stage, screen, operatic, concert, and literary worlds. The broadcast will have three points of origination — Chicago, New York, and Hollywood. Complete talent lineup is not yet ready for announcement.

The networks again are announcing that no more laxative accounts will be accepted. The same announcement was made a year ago. Present laxative lineup for NBC includes Fred Allen, DeWolf Hopper, and Gene Arnold; for CBS, George Gershwin, Gertrude Niesen, and Roxy. . . . Alice Mock, well known soprano, will be back on the air at 12:30 tomorrow in the new CBS show "The True Story Behind the Song." . . . Ruth Chatterton will play the lead in Donald Ogden Stewart's "Rebound" on NBC next Sunday afternoon.

W-G-N FEATURES

Forty-five minutes of entertaining adventures of characters known to every child listener are presented on W-G-N every weekday evening except Saturday. At 5:30 "The Singing Lady" is heard weaving her romantic stories into song for the children; at 5:45 p. m. Orphan Annie and her pal Joe Cortassel come on the air with a thrilling adventure sketch, and at 6 o'clock the adventures of the young aviator, Jimmy Allen, are aired. Tonight these three programs will present new stories for the little folks.

JIMMY ALLEN.

A new company of amateur performers, picked from hundreds of applicants, will be presented by Quin Ryan tonight on his "66" Amateur Night program at 6:45 p. m. The "66" Amateur Night performers present all sorts of interesting acts and the talent is selected in a preliminary audition from applicants from every section of the city. Other features:

7:45 a. m.—The W-G-N Keep Fit club with Capt. Paul Fogarty.

9:45 a. m.—Barbara White's Sewing Circle.

11 a. m.—Tom, Dick, and Harry and Carl Hoefle, songs and comedy.

CHARLES GABRIEL JR., EDITOR, SONG WRITER, IS DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Charles H. Gabriel Jr., former radio executive, newspaper man, magazine editor, and song writer, died today after an extended pulmonary illness, at the San Fernando veteran's hospital.

CHARLES H. GABRIEL JR.

Mr. Gabriel, who was born in San Francisco, and was educated in Chicago grammar schools, Chicago University High school, and Chicago Musical college, formerly was on the staf of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and in charge of the musical program of radio station W-G-N. He started the radio team of Amos 'n' Andy, then known as "Sam and Henry" over the air. He was for a time editor of "Popular Mechanics" magazine, from which he entered the radio field as an executive in Chicago, New York, Los Angeles, and San Francisco.

Prior to his illness he was program director for the National Broadcasting studio at San Francisco.

Mr. Gabriel served with 117th Field Artillery in the war and was a member of Masonic bodies in Chicago.

His father, the late Charles H. Gabriel Sr., famous hymn writer, with whom the younger Gabriel collaborated on several hundred compositions, preceded his son in death here two years ago.

H. A. Trask of Post-Dispatch for 30 Years Dies in Sleep

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Herbert A. Trask, associate managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, died in his sleep early today at his home here. He was 62 years old and had been under treatment for asthma and a heart ailment, but was at his desk yesterday. He had been with that paper for more than 30 years. When Mrs. Trask went to his room at 6:30 a. m. she found him dead.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE news of Max Reinhardt's arrival, as far as this column is concerned, is that Herr Reinhardt has never heard of Gertrude Stein. He said so, entirely without malice, when he was asked about her yesterday.

Reinhardt—Interviews—Books—Wasted.

"Who is Gertrude Stein?" he asked in German of Joseph Brainin, one of his assistants. And her identity was hastily explained to him in German, with the name "Four Saints in Three Acts" included in the identification.

* *

THE other piece of news was that, after the luncheon in his honor at the house on the roof of the Hotel Sherman, where he is stopping, he left the long table with the announcement that any one who would like to ask him questions should indeed do so, and to come into the other room, where it would be less formal. The sudden paucity of questions brought to mind similar instances in interviewing. I remember a good half dozen times when newspaper reporters, including myself, moved heaven and earth to have an interview arranged with, say, a notorious criminal held incommunicado. Then, the interview arranged, we gathered about the wretched fellow to inquire, after an embarrassed silence, "How did you sleep last night?" or a similarly innocuous question.

The prize moment of the kind, I think, was when Marty Durkin, the Dillinger of his day, was brought back in custody from California with a bride he had acquired while he was a fugitive from justice. The representatives of the press, by threats and promises, and getting the chief of police out of bed, got immediate interviews, and the newspaper women gathered about the bride in the office of the state's attorney. The preliminaries had taken much time, and for two of the reporters at least there was a deadline less than ten minutes away. A tall girl from one of the evening papers got in the first question. As the little group stood, pencils in hand, waiting to hear details of their capture, the newspaper woman asked, in a chatty tone:

"How was the weather in California?"

* *

THE staf of the Chicago Public library is noted for its competence, but even it slips up occasionally. The other day a rack labeled "Well Worth Reading" stood empty.

* *

THE favorite story of Jill Edwards, lecturer, radio artist, and speech specialist, concerns the old colored woman who comes in to clean. One winter Mrs. Edwards was proud of her because she was attending night school one evening a week, when she was learning to write. The following winter she announced that she was again going to night school.

"I suppose you'll learn to read this time, Mandy," said Mrs. Edwards.

"No, ma'am; I'se goin' to learn to write," answered Mandy. "Ah wants to write my name."

"But, Mandy, you learned to write your name last year," Mrs. Edwards pointed out.

"Yes, ma'am, ah did," affirmed Mandy. "But ah done got married again."

Ira N. Morris Will Entertain Royal Visitor

BY JUDITH CASS.

CHICAGOANS in general, and especially those who are title-minded, will be interested to learn this morning that the Infante Don Alfonso of Orleans, cousin of former King Alfonso of Spain, will arrive in Chicago Friday night for his first visit. He is coming to be the guest of Ira Nelson Morris at his apartment in the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

Don Alfonso and Mr. Morris became acquainted during the war when Mr. Morris was serving the United States as minister to Sweden. Since then their friendship has continued and Mr. Morris has seen him on each of Don Alfonso's visits to the United States.

A distinguished group interested in international affairs will meet the royal visitor on Saturday noon when the directors of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations give a luncheon for him at the Tavern. On Saturday evening Don Alfonso, with the Chauncey McCormicks, will be guests of Mr. Morris in his box at the opera. Don Alfonso will leave Chicago on Sunday night.

Responsible for Spanish Aviation.

A man slightly more than 45, Don Alfonso makes friends wherever he goes for he is democratic, poised, and an interesting and intelligent conversationalist on many topics. One of his prime interests for the last several years has been aviation. He was in large part responsible for the organization of the industry in Spain. In 1930 he flew the Atlantic from Seville to Lakehurst, N. J., in the Graf Zeppelin.

In 1928 he came to this country with personal messages from King Alfonso to President Coolidge. His wife, the Princess Dona Beatrice, who before her marriage was the daughter of the duke of Edinburgh, came with him at that time and so did their son, Don Alvaro. It will be remembered that the engagement of Don Alvaro to Princess Beatrice of Spain, the daughter of King Alfonso, was rumored in newspapers throughout the world two years ago. Also interesting is the fact that Don Alfonso's wife is the sister of Queen Marie of Rumania.

With the overthrow of the Bourbon dynasty in Spain Don Alfonso and his family lost most of their wealth. In 1931 it was reported that he would try to recoup his fortune in this country although he never made a trip here at that time.

Countess Bolognesi Will Visit Friends.

The many Chicago friends of Count and Countess Giulio Bolognesi will be pleased to learn that the countess and her two daughters, Caterina, who is now 17, and Mariana, who is 15, are coming to Chicago for the Christmas holidays. Ever since they left here in 1921 for Count Bolognesi to accept the post of consul general at Sarajevo in Jugo-Slavia, they have been missed by the several groups with whom they were so popular.

Count Bolognesi cannot be here for the holidays since he is in Europe, but the countess has been on their Wisconsin farm which is near Lake Nebogamon this fall while her daughters are in school at the Sacred Heart academy. In Chicago at Christmas time Countess Bolognesi and her daughters will stay at the home of her late parents, the John G. Garibaldis at 1236 Astor street, where her brother now lives.

A woman of great charm and beauty Countess Bolognesi was Rose Garibaldi before she married the Italian count in 1916, four years after he had been sent to Chicago by his government as consul general. The farm that they have in Wisconsin is a large and flourishing tract of more than 1,000 acres named Modena after the birthplace of the Bolognesis. This is run by the count's younger brother, Emilio Bolognesi, who was taken pris-

Cites Approval of Graphology by Harvard U.

Investigation Is Made by Research Bureau.

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

Letters! Letters! Letters! All kinds of handwritings and all kinds of people. The flood of mail has started and I like it.

In fact I shall be glad if every one of you will let me tell you your assets, talents, handicaps and emotions. It's easy. Just follow the instructions given in the coupon box.

MISS STAFFORD.

Today I shall explain the purposes of graphology. Some persons do not understand that graphology is a science and not fortune telling. They ask such questions as "When will I marry?" "Will he be tall or short?" "Will my stocks go up this month?" "Where is my missing daughter?" and so on. Remember that graphology is not fortune telling.

Some of your friends may say, when you mention graphology, "Why, I don't believe in anything like that!" When pressed these people cannot name any other things "like that." They've confused graphology with "pseudo sciences" that are based upon superstition and not upon modern scientific research.

The psychological research bureau of Harvard university after an investigation announced that handwriting reveals the personality of the writer. Three prominent professors of Yale university have given me statements expressing interest and approval of the science of graphology.

Although graphology is not a superstition, it can answer reasonable questions simply through the characteristics revealed. Of course I cannot tell from your handwriting whether your Aunt Eliza will live to be ninety, but I might be able to tell from the disposition shown in your writing whether she'll be likely to leave you her money.

If you write like this, she probably would. This specimen of writing was taken from my mail today.

Please analyze my handwriting

This writer, as you can see from her even, rounded writing, is sweet tempered and amiable. She is very generous and really loves to do things for other people. She is patient, kind and she never says too much. A neat, orderly nature is shown in the neatness of the writing and the careful way the t is crossed and the i is dotted. Sociability is noticeable and much sincerity. All of these things would tend to make the writer so lovable that even her relatives would be able to realize her fine qualities.

GRAPHOLOGY COUPON
Your Handwriting Analyzed

Know your assets, handicaps, talents and emotions. Obtain a personal graphology chart. Here are the rules:

1. Clip this coupon, attach a sample of handwriting and mail to Muriel Stafford, box 1539, Chicago Tribune.
2. Enclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Enclose a self-addressed STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Ball on Saturday

Mrs. Carroll Johnson, pictured above, is one of the young matrons working for the success of the Sunbeam league's annual fall Charity ball which will be held at the Stevens hotel Saturday night. It is hard work, too, for the nine kindergartens and the 14,000 crippled children cared for by this organization must be taken care of out of the proceeds from the ball, which is always a gay party, and the annual spring card party, so it is necessary that these two benefits be successful.

Among the kindergartens for sick and crippled children supported by the league are those at the Children's Memorial hospital, the Cook County hospital, the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children, the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, and the Spalding school.

The committee members for the ball will meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon for tea at the Stevens hotel.

Reinhardt in City; Declines Social Affairs

Handles Final Rehersals of Shakespeare's Play.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

Max Reinhardt came to town yesterday to take personal charge of the final rehersals and staging of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be given in the Auditorium for two weeks starting tomorrow night. He thereby caused great commotion in the hearts of many ladies, among them the members of the Woman's board of the Passavant Memorial hospital and two dozen of the tallest and loveliest post-debs and young matrons in society.

The older women are interested in the coming of this genius of the theater for they have taken over the première of his production of Shakespeare's fantasy as a benefit, and the younger ones are thrilled because they are to appear in one scene of the play and each hopes secretly, of course, that the internationally famous theatrical producer will discover in her a potential Rosamund Pinchot, who achieved fame in his production of "The Miracle."

Dr. Reinhardt was met at the train by Mrs. Eames MacVeigh and Mrs. Orville Taylor, representing the Passavant board, and by Mrs. Maurice P. Geraghty [Helen Ticken], Miss Frances Weary and the Misses Virginia and Peggy Wiley. The last three were among those chosen by Fred Niblo, supervising director of the production, to appear as court ladies in the play, and Mrs. Geraghty has been named general assistant to Dr. Reinhardt during his stay in Chicago.

Dr. Reinhardt speaks little English and most of those who met him at luncheon yesterday in the bungalow on the roof of the Hotel Sherman spoke little German, so it was necessary for Joseph Brainin of the Reinhardt Productions to act as interpreter when the questions the reporters asked became a little involved.

"Who is it, Gertrude Stein?" was his interrogation to Mr. Brainin as the result of someone's asking him what he thought of the writer who last week was Chicago's "lion." Extravagant bothered him, too, when Muriel Stafford, the TRIBUNE's graphologist, analyzed his handwriting. But it caused every one of his business asociates to laugh heartily for the magnificence of his productions and his artistic indifference to such mundane matters as dollars and cents are well known.

A shy, reserved man whose great interest is his work, Dr. Reinhardt said, emphatically, when asked if he would have time to go out socially during his short stay in Chicago—he leaves Friday for the west coast to start producing "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the movies—"Socially? No, I don't like it."

So he is accepting none of the many invitations that have been extended to him and the only time he will do anything of a social nature will be when he has supper after the première Thursday night with the president of the Passavant woman's board, Mrs. Francis Johnson, at her residence, 1430 Lake Shore drive. A few Chicagoans who have met him before will be present. They are Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift [Claire Dux] and Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. Mrs. Johnson is keeping a chair in her box Thursday night for Dr. Reinhardt but he said yesterday that he knew he would be too busy backstage to spend any time in front that night.

It was ten years ago that the theatrical wizardy of Max Reinhardt converted the Auditorium into a vast cathedral for his production of "The Miracle," but he did not come here then to direct personally the production.

Now he has had transported from California hundreds of trees, their leaves treated chemically to keep them fresh, so that he can transform the great theater into a wood where Titania will reign, Puck will perform his impish pranks, lovers will sigh, and Bottom will bray.

Dr. Reinhardt said yesterday that he has directed "A Midsummer Night's Dream" more than 1,000 times.

Society Turns Out to Hear Young Artist

The first snowfall of the season did not keep society from turning out in goodly numbers for the third performance of the season of the Chicago Grand Opera company. The performance was of especial interest to friends of Miss Kate Buckingham, for one of her protégés, Giuseppe Bentonelli, was making his debut as Cavaradossi in "Tosca" with the glamorous Jeritza.

Miss Buckingham is the good angel of several young artists whose ambition it is to sing, and all her friends are glad that young Bentonelli, whose name before he went to Italy to sing was Joseph Benton, has succeeded so well. Miss Buckingham was there last night, of course, sitting in a box with Prof. William G. Schmidt, Bentonelli's first vocal teacher at the University of Oklahoma; Carleton Smith, Walter Byron Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. John Dwight Sample.

Near by sat some old friends of the debutant, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buttram, who also had come from Bentonelli's home state, Oklahoma, for the occasion. All these and several dozen more drank to the young tenor's bright future and to the health of his patroness after the performance at a delightful champagne supper party Miss Buckingham gave in the Electric club atop the Civic Opera building.

RINGING APPLAUSE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

It made no difference whether he prefers to be known as Joe Benton or Giuseppe Bentonelli.

The former Sayre, Okla., farm youth turned tenor was accorded a near ovation in his American debut as Mario Cavaradossi in "La Tosca" last night.

From the audience's appreciation of his voice, which had won him acclaim in 411 operatic appearances in Europe before he ventured a debut in his own country, he apparently could have called himself by most any name and his welcome would have been no less warm.

At the conclusion of the first act the Oklahoman, with Maria Jeritza, who was cast in the title rôle, responded to four curtain calls without halting the ringing applause.

Again, in the third act, when Bentonelli sang one of Puccini's loveliest and most popular arias, "The Stars Were Shining," the rafters rang with applause.

His friend and counselor, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, was in the audience.

Others equally as friendly and equally as great admirers of his talent were present.

There was Evelyn Ames, 24, Chicago girl who also hails from Oklahoma, whose singing before John P. Harding, Chicago restaurant operator, at a party while she was a waitress in one of his establishments won her a chance in the Civic opera. Last year Miss Ames, who, like Joseph Benton, attended Oklahoma State university, appeared in eight operas.

In his dressing room Bentonelli told how he happened to change from his midwestern name of Benton.

"When I appeared in Italy they pronounced my name as 'Bon-Ton' and everybody thought I was a Frenchman, since that is the way it is pronounced in French," he explained. "An Italian audience has no respect for French singers or their ability, so in order to win them over I changed my name to Bentonelli and everything was lovely.

"I love my dear old mother for defending my choice of a name back in Norman, but no defense is necessary. If an artist or a movie star can change his name why can't I—when I have a very good reason to do so?"

Benton attempted his first vocalizing during his encampment at a wartime officers' training school. In post-war days he studied with Jean de Reszke, famous Polish teacher, and made his debut in Rome in 1928.

O. K. WITH MOTHER.

Norman, Okla., Nov. 13.—(AP)—If Joe Benton wants to change his name to Giuseppe Bentonelli to further his operatic career, its all right with his parents, his mother, Mrs. E. H. Benton, said today.

"Why shouldn't he adopt an art name?" She asked. "Writers have their pen names and actors their stage names, don't they?"

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A young American artist made a successful American debut at the Civic Opera house last night. You will find him listed above as Giuseppe Bentonelli, which was the name he used during a rather extensive operatic experience in Italy. He, however, makes no particular secret of the fact that this name is an Italianization of Joseph Benton.

His was the kind of debut that got better as it went along. His voice classifies as a lyric tenor, and it is a peculiarly favorable specimen of that classification. It is high, clear, and of fine quality. He himself is highly personable on the stage, carrying himself well and doing his characterization of the young artist with much intelligence. As a result, he made a favorable first impression which carried through at a mounting pace until he reached his great solo, "E lucevan le stelle," in the third act. This is an aria especially intended for a voice like his, and he made it his high spot of the evening.

Wherefore more will be heard from him before the season is over. It was told last night that Hope Hampton, the moving picture and operetta star, had been signed to sing "Manon" during the fifth week of the season. A worse idea might be conceived than that of putting Mr. Bentonelli with her.

For they gave him plenty of competition last night. It was not a case of a good talent standing out from a mediocre cast. He had to earn his way. The impetuous and vivacious Jeritza was the Tosca and that grand veteran of baritone, Pasquale Amato, wise in every last detail of opera, was the Scarpia.

One looks on Mme. Jeritza's second act in this opera with much admiration. It is not because she becomes more tousled than any other Tosca in memory, but that with it all she preserves her good looks and her fine voice and puts over the action with much force. It was a thriller last night, and the applause of the audience rose to her, to Mr. Bentonelli, to Mr. Amato, and especially to Conductor Papi.

Frederick Stock did something more than usually interesting for th Tuesday afternoon audiences of the Chicago Symphony orchestra by playing Jean Sibelius' First Symphony. It is a good thing to hear in the course of the répertoire. Possibly too much has been said about the resemblance between the ruggedness of the music and the rigors of Sibelius' native Finland. There should be a bit more about the merits of the music without regard to geography.

Good Morning!

Its component parts are a murder mystery, thieves, comics, runaway wife, card sharps, farce, melodrama, music, and romance. And a look at the cast shows that same flaunts a right imposing number of celebrities. Jack Benny, w. k. vaudeville and radio master of ceremonies, makes his screen debut here as manager of the boat's entertainment troupe.

The star of the show is Sally Marsh, who has taken the job to get herself and her brother Ned away from the clutches of the handsome and unscrupulous gambler, Lee Lother. . . .

But, ah! Who is here? None other than the villain himself—flanked by cohorts and in chase of the lady who would avoid him. He, in turn, is pursued by the aforementioned runaway wife whose husband—never mind——!

Very much present is Mr. Gene Raymond as an ingratiating and clever gent-who-lives-by-his-wits. Jimmy's great kick comes from, O, so innocently, besting other crooks. . . .

The piece's sweetly romantic moments are those involving the love affair which springs up between Sally and Jimmy. A love affair neatly nurtured by a slick sleuth—my favorite slick sleuth, Robert Elliott—who had thought he was going abroad for a vacation and finds his plans go most agley. . . .

Sid Silvers runs hither and thither, inspiring laughs, and Sydney Howard as a drunk contributes much to the merriment. The acting's all able.

"Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round" is most lavishly staged and costumed and has one musical ensemble that's a knockout. The fact that to produce same aboard ship would be an impossibility bothered the picture makers not at all.

The faults of the production lie in lack of cohesion and in the fact that it tries to be too many things at once.

Three Hundred Pieces Sold on First Day of Charity Auction

Chicago's charity auction started yesterday with more than three hundred persons present at the Potter Palmer mansion on Lake Shore drive at the afternoon and evening sessions. Offered for sale were one thousand pieces of furniture, valuable paintings, tapestries, lamps and various other types of interior furnishing items.

Some three hundred pieces were sold in yesterday's two sessions. The auction is to run three days.

All of the objects offered were collected from homes of Chicagoans. Proceeds of the sale go to the Children's Memorial and St. Luke's hospital. Although 25 per cent of the proceeds are to be returned to the donors of the articles many have waived their rights. A dollar admission is charged to the sale, the sum being credited to the first purchase.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Major Ralph Stornack, of apparent position and wealth, is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is in jail for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Major Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Rhoda met Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his warder. He plots Colin's escape by taking Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Stornack. They spend a brief honeymoon in Wales. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and feigns a lapse of memory. Her mother besieges her to marry Stornack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited a fortune of a Canadian relative. The solicitor had come to London to tell her of it. Stornack calls on Caermaen and they quarrel. Jack suspects Stornack of the crime for which Colin was convicted. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermaen's, the Rawlings, in London. Her mother follows with a court order placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermaen and his solicitor, Jarroman, plan to investigate Stornack. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where they take rooms with a private family, the Gougets.

INSTALMENT XXI.

DEPRIVED OF HER BABY.

Rhoda wrote quite openly to her bankers for fifteen pounds. She at once gave five to Estelle as payment in advance for teaching her French.

As there was little to do, Rhoda applied herself energetically to her French lessons and at once acquired a great advantage over her mother. At the end of a month she could speak freely to the servants and in the shops.

She spent the better part of another five pounds in buying Estelle little presents and, when she was sure of the girl's loyalty, told her as much of her story as was necessary. Then she worked round to the subject of letters.

Estelle thoroughly enjoyed what she regarded as a romantic intrigue. She willingly agreed to post Rhoda's letters and to receive letters for Rhoda addressed to herself at a shop in the town.

And so the months passed by. Autumn gave way to winter and winter to spring, and in March Master Colin Jack Briarley opened his eyes on foreign soil, though Rhoda did not tell his grandmother that that was really his name.

In spite of all the forces working against him the young man had in some ways come into existence under ideal conditions. For no mother was ever more delighted to welcome her child than was Rhoda.

She never ceased to think of Colin—the sense of pain and longing was never lost. But in the tremendous to-do of Colin Jack's arrival she had no thought to spare for the material difficulties that beset her. All her active attention was occupied with the business in hand. She even forgot her animosity to her mother, whose manner had changed within the last weeks. So that she now seemed to have much of the kindliness and helpfulness that Rhoda remembered in her childhood.

Mrs. Cornboise, indeed, seemed to be as pleased as a normally situated grandmother. The elder Gougets came to admire the so-wonderful baby. They had, they assured her, never seen so fair a skin on any human infant and the little brown splash above the left elbow—a "mother-mark," as the

"You will never see your baby again."

French call it—was, they declared, a positive enhancement of the young man's beauty.

In the days of convalescence that followed Rhoda came as near to happiness as was possible to her. With Estelle's aid she had sent a cable to Jack Caermaen, who had passed the news on to Colin. Back through Estelle had come a letter from Colin full of the sweet nonsense that she longed to hear. And in those first glad days she did not guess that he was tortured anew with anxiety for the future of his wife and child.

Colin Jack absorbed her whole attention. He was a lusty young man, who could wake the house whenever he felt inclined. But on the whole he was inclined to placidity. He slept a great deal and she would watch him for hour after hour—the visible pledge of Colin's love.

Soon she was able to wheel him abroad in his 'pram and display him to the many acquaintances she had made in the town amongst the tradespeople.

Every day after lunch she would herself lie down and sleep for a couple of hours—and during that time her mother was entrusted with the care of Colin Jack.

Afterward she blamed herself for her own foolish trustfulness. That, she decided bitterly, was the weakest spot in her weak character—that she was always ready to trust and be friends.

For nearly three months now she had allowed herself to be wholly deceived by her mother's gentleness.

One afternoon she got up at 4 o'clock as usual, tidied up, and then went into their sitting room for tea—which she would take along with her mother while her baby slept in a cot within hand's reach.

As she entered the room her mother began to pour out tea.

"I think I shall stop this habit of resting in the afternoon. I don't really need it any more and it's a lazy habit." She strolled over to the cot. "Where is baby, mother? I don't like him to be with the Gougets."

"He is not with the Gougets."

At these words sudden fear clutched at Rhoda's heart.

"Mother! Tell me quickly! Where is my baby?"

Mrs. Cornboise looked up at her and the mask she had worn for the last three months fell from her.

"Pull yourself together, Rhoda, and don't be hysterical! You must know perfectly well——"

"Where is my baby?"

"I shall not tell you—you don't need to know. I have saved you from the results of your folly, Rhoda. . . . You will never see your baby again."

For a moment Rhoda came perilously near to violence. Then that new instinct, born of the last months of anxiety, came to her rescue. She could not seize the whole of civilized society by the throat and demand to be treated with proper respect. For she had herself laughed at that same society's laws when she had married Colin.

To ease her sense of nervous strain, Mrs. Cornboise clattered with the teacups. Rhoda stared at her for a moment, then buried her face in her hands.

The crying was not wholly a pretence, but the submission that it suggested was very much of a pretense.

"If you think I like hurting you, you are a fool!" said Mrs. Cornboise calmly. "Whether I am right or wrong, I have done what I have done believing it to be the best interests of all concerned—including your child."

"You've taken him away from me!" wailed Rhoda, and again the wail was not wholly a pretense.

"You speak as if I had murdered him! I have put him where he will be well looked after. And, tight though money is, your father and I will pay whatever may be necessary, and later on, if he lives, he shall be given the means of earning a respectable living."

Rhoda shuddered.

"If he lives." One should not talk like that about a child. As if one hoped he would not live!

She came very near to hysteria then. A minute more and she had steadied herself. She moved toward the door.

"Tomorrow we will do our packing," said Mrs. Cornboise. "And the day after we will go home. There is no need to stay in this dreadful little place any longer."

Go home—and leave Colin Jack in France! But she must fight with craft and subtlety.

"If you feel ill, dear, I'll——"

"I do feel ill. And the one thing I want you to do for me is to keep out of my way. That's not meant to be an insult—it just means that I must be alone."

Mrs. Cornboise nodded. She was too farseeing and determined a woman ever to lose her temper over things that did not matter. Rhoda, she assumed, was a little hysterical—which was only to be expected in the circumstances. She would probably be better the next day and see how sensible the arrangement was.

Rhoda lay down on the bed to give color to her statement that she was feeling ill. But she was alert—thinking and planning—and all her plans centered round Estelle.

Estelle worked at a milliner's. Very soon now she would be home. And then she would have tea. And then perhaps she would come up for a chat.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THIS HAND REALLY IS NEWS.

In a recent interclub match for teams of four, in which the result was determined by total points as distinct from "board a match," this hand came along:

	♠A-J-8-7 ♥Q-2 ♦A-J-10-2 ♣A-8-7
♠Q-10-6-3-2 ♥J-6-5 ♦6-5 ♣J-4-2	N. W. E. S.	♠9-5 ♥A-4-3 ♦Q-9-8-7 ♣K-10-5-3
	♠K-4 ♥K-10-9-8-7 ♦K-4-3 ♣Q-9-6

I held the West hand. The bidding was a spade by North, two hearts by South, three diamonds by North, three no trumps by South. I opened with the jack of clubs, which ran to the queen. Declarer was wrong in several guesses or finesses, and we set them a trick. I thought we had gained a few hundred points on the hand, as our partners had probably steered the no trump declaration into the North hand, in which event they would presumably get a much less damaging lead, and make three no trumps without much trouble.

An Incredible Slam.

When the session was over and we compared scores I discovered to my delighted amazement that Johnny Rau, sitting South, had actually bid a small slam in hearts and had made it doubled. Both he and his partner [Derrick Wernher] were reticent, not to say sheepish, when the bidding was discussed in the car on the way home. Certainly they had overbid their holdings, but in view of the truly inspired play which Johnny gave to the hand, and the sensational success he obtained, I could not say much about the bidding. Apparently they started off with one diamond, one heart, two no trumps. From then on they would discuss only Johnny's play as declarer, and I have not yet found out by just what succession of overoptimistic bidding errors they stumbled into this slam, which appeared almost hopeless when Wernher laid down the dummy. Had East not doubled, the declarer would have had no key to the playing possibilities hidden in the cards. By virtue of the double, however, he credited East with the diamonds that were missing, and also the ace of hearts. Consequently he gave the hand the following backward play:

Trick	West	North	East	South
1	♠3	♠7	♠9	♠K
2	♥5	♥2	♥A	♥10
3	♥6	♥Q	♥4	♥7
4	♦5	♦J	♦7	♦3
5	♦6	♦2	♦8	♦K
6	♥J	♣7	♥3	♥K
7	♠2	♠J	♠5	♠4
8	♠6	♠A	♠3	♠6
9	♠2	♠A	♠5	♠9
10	♣10	♠8	♣10	♥8
11	♣Q	♣8	?	♥9

East is now hopelessly squeezed. He must discard either his king of clubs or a diamond. Either discard permits declarer to fulfill his contract.

Watch Those Doubles of Slams.

I do not wish to detract in any way from the brilliance of South's play—let us not inquire further into the bidding—but I do think that this hand illustrates the folly of doubling a slam when you are not certain of defeating it in your own hand and when the declarer is a ranking card player. Though sitting over the no trump bidder with those powerful protected holdings in both minor suits, East really had only one sure trick, the ace of trumps. He should have concluded that South's distribution was far less than normal than it turned out to be, and in a total score match there was no point in trying to win the hand twice over. Their South partner was not likely to play the hand any better than Johnny Rau, but if the slam could not be made, there was a good chance that their partners had stopped short of it in the bidding with East's high cards against them. The double was a bad one all around, for by enabling our partners to register so enormous a swing in our favor, it has prevented me up to this day from dragging the inner secret of their bidding on this hand into the remorseless light of day.

HIT THAT COLD

WHERE IT LIVES—

in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

Children Often Maladjusted After Illness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"DEAR MRS. BEVANS," begins today's mail: "Will you kindly let me know where I could have an intelligence test given my 5 year old daughter? Last year she was ill in the hospital, and that left her nervous. Now she goes to special school and likes it a great deal, but the teacher tells me she doesn't want to concentrate, and also cries easily.

"I thought I ought to have a mental test taken—or do you think I ought to let her alone?"

The answer to this question follows:

On thinking your letter over I believe that you would be foolish to bother with an intelligence test for your little girl. I feel practically certain that there is nothing the matter with your small daughter's mental development. In my opinion any indications of lack of concentration or nervous instability are due entirely to her illness of last year.

Of course, it is not possible for an outsider to judge such things with complete accuracy. But if she were my child I should not send her to school but should let her spend many hours outdoors in the air and sunshine and in unrestricted play, and have plenty of rest at home.

If, however, she is keen about going to school and you think it would make her happier and that she needs the companionship, why don't you try kindergarten for a short time and see what effect this has upon her physically and nervously? The confinement may be trying to her, or on the other hand it may be that, psychologically, school would be good for her, that it would tend to give her stability.

It is vital for mothers to take into deliberate account the physical and psychological after-effect of illness.

oner by the Austrians during the world war and served two years in an Austrian military prison.

Prince Potenziani to Close Fair Business.

Prince Potenziani arrived in the city yesterday to finish up the business which has brought him to Chicago several times during the last two years as royal Italian commissioner to A Century of Progress. He is at the Drake, where he has been during his previous visits.

Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson yesterday was elected president of the Antiquarian society of the Art institute, succeeding Mrs. Potter Palmer. Other new officers include Mrs. James Ward Thorne, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Meeker, secretary, and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, treasurer. Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Phillip Miller, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mrs. Alfred Hamill were named directors.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Porter are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son yesterday morning at St. Luke's hospital. Both the mother, who is the former Mary Kinney, and the baby, who has been named for his father and his late grandfather, are doing well. In a couple of weeks they will be going home to 25 Cedar street where the Porters moved this fall when they came in from their country home on Lake Geneva.

Tell Engagement of Mabel Lamy.

The tiny pennants that decorated the appetizers yesterday at the luncheons that Mrs. Joseph F. Lamy gave for her daughter, Mabel Adele, held more than passing significance for the dozen guests.

By way of the pennants Mr. and Mrs. Lamy, whose home is at 3750 Lake Shore drive, announced the engagement of their daughter to De Witt James Purcell of St. Cloud, Minn., son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Purcell. Miss Lamy has just finished at Rosemont college in Rosemont, Pa. She was prepared for college at the Convent of the Sacred Heart. Mr. Purcell studied at De Paul university. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Longmeadow Hunt is giving its annual landowners' party tomorrow night at the Vista Del Lago and about 400 farmers and their wives will dine and dance as the guests of the hunt club members who are saying "thank you" to the owners of the land over which they have hunted. Mrs. Ernest Ballard, Mrs. Hill Blackett, Mrs. Howard Fenton, Frederick Burnham, Donald McPherson, and Arthur Cox will receive. Mr. Ballard is chairman of the entertainment committee and Denison Hull is chairman of the decorating committee.

Elizabeth Lewis to Visit City.

Over this coming week-end there will be a number of luncheons, teas, and dinners for Mrs. Elizabeth Graham Lewis who arrives from New York tomorrow to be at the Drake hotel through Sunday evening. A woman noted for her chic and good looks, Mrs. Lewis is known to a number of Chicagoans through her former visits here.

Between 4 and 6 tomorrow afternoon at the Casino she will be entertained at tea by Mrs. Augustus W. Eddy and Mrs. Fowler McCormick. Tomorrow evening Mrs. Orville J. Taylor will have Mrs. Lewis for dinner at the Casino before the Passavant hospital benefit performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Here and there . . . Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne are expected at home tomorrow from a vacation at the Virginia Hot Springs. The John Stuarts, the William D. McKenzies, the Edmund B. Bartletts and the William S. Hoveys are at Sea Island, Ga. The Stuarts and the McKenzies will return Sunday but the Bartletts will be away until after Thanksgiving.

The Rush Butlers and Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney are at the Drake hotel for the winter. Henry C. Lytton, too, is at the Drake for the next few months.

Miss Constance Wallerich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Wallerich of River Forest, will be married to Edmund L. McGibbon of Kenilworth, on Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 4:30 o'clock. The service will be read before about 100 relatives and friends by Bishop George Craig Stewart in Christ church, River Forest.

Three Exhibits of Portraits on Art Calendar

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three important exhibitions of portraits have been opened. Wayman Adams, the Hoosier painter, has a most interesting group of portraits in the Lord Nelson room, Drake hotel. In the Carson Pirie Scott galleries may be seen stunning canvases by Louis Kronberg depicting gypsies and ballet girls. In the Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan avenue, Frank O. Salisbury, the distinguished English painter, is represented by a number of canvases of notable people, chief among them Il Duce of Italy.

Alike as are these three exhibitions in theme, they are a world apart in character, manner, technique, and atmosphere. Wayman Adams paints in a typically American fashion according to our best traditions of frankness and unaffected beauty. He paints simply and sturdily. There is grace in his work sometimes, witness the dignified old lady by the coffee service and the young woman in the velvet riding habit, but more characteristic of him are the vigorous portrait of Hamlin Garland, the young girl in riding breeches with her terrier, and the very young Hoosier cowboy with straw hat and pistol on hip, shouldering a gun.

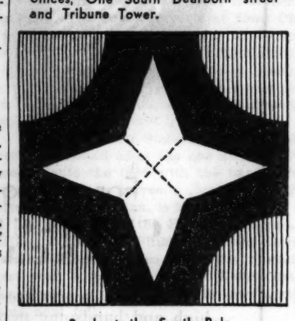
Mr. Adams should not be judged entirely by this exhibit. A show that leaves out his gorgeous portrait of Booth Tarkington and his superb portrait of Joseph Pennell cannot be considered complete. Mr. Adams will show "how to paint a portrait" this evening at the Drake when John T. McCutcheon, TRIBUNE cartoonist, will sit for him.

Louis Kronberg has been called the American Degas. Obviously the bon mot found its origin in the fact that Mr. Kronberg, like Degas, looks to the stage and particularly to the ballet for his models. There the likeness ends. Louis Kronberg has his own American way of handling his dancing girls and they stand out in vigorous strength from canvas after canvas. His portraits of gypsies strike still other notes and are among his most brilliant work.

Frank O. Salisbury is well known in Chicago, where he has painted many important portraits. The current exhibit shows him at his best. The fine portrait of Mussolini is dramatic in its sincere simplicity. Mussolini is shown the leader, the man of the hour; it is a great piece of painting. The "Miss Maud Gillette" is exquisite, a young girl in rose. "Dr. S. Parkes Cadman" and "Mr. William A. Douglass" are two other portraits that stand out.

Quilt Interprets Byrd's Exploit in Little America

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.



Byrd at the South Pole.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Byrd's flight over the south pole, the epoch making event which climaxed his explorations in Little America, is marked in quilting history by the creation of the design presented today. Rose, ice blue, and white are the colors combined to symbolize the polar region. The coverlet is composed entirely of pieced blocks which make a most unusual pattern in the spread.

Almond Torte Is Splendid as Birthday Cake

Luscious and Rich with Mellow Filling.

The Fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery continues today at Guyon's Paradise ballroom and will also be held there Nov. 15 and 16. Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, in co-operation with Miss Mary Meade, Tribune cooking editor, will conduct the sessions. Next week the school will be held on the north side at the Aragon ballroom, Nov. 20, 21, 22, and 23.

All schools will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

BY MARY MEADE.

A birthday cake with flakiness, richness, delectable color and festive appeal is the almond torte. We assure you that there's something almost ambrosial about the flavor—especially about the filling, which makes one long for birthdays to happen about four times as often as nature allows.

Atop the upper layer birthday candles will stand firmly, shedding a twinkly glow over the brown crust. The recipe is a bit lengthy, but the eating makes it up to one several times over.

Almond Torte.

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
4 eggs, separated
1 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons irradiated evaporated milk
1½ tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup sugar
½ cup blanched chopped almonds
½ teaspoon cinnamon, and
1 tablespoon sugar, mixed.

Cream the butter or margarine until smooth and light. Add the ½ cup sugar, beating it in gradually. Add the beaten egg yolks and continue mixing until well blended. Sift the flour, measure it, then sift again with the baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture the dry ingredients alternately with the combined evaporated milk and water. Begin and end your additions with portions of the flour. Add the vanilla and, when well blended, turn the batter into two 9 inch spring form or cake pans which have been greased and lined with waxed paper. Now whip the egg whites until stiff. Fold into them the ¾ cup of sugar, then spread the combination over the top of the unbaked mixture. Sprinkle almonds over both tops, then scatter with the sugar-cinnamon mixture. Bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] for about 40 minutes. Spread the following cream filling [cooled] between the cooled baked layers.

Filling for Almond Torte.

½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 egg, well beaten
2 cups irradiated evaporated milk
1 teaspoon almond extract.

Blend together the sugar and the cornstarch. Add the beaten egg and evaporated milk and stir until well blended. Cook the mixture over boiling water for about 10 minutes, stirring continually. Then remove it from the stove and add the almond extract. Cool before using.

The Mount Sinai Hospital Service club will present the fifth annual edition of its fall benefits, "Service à la Carte," this evening at the Aragon ballroom. Mrs. Migel King is the chairman.

Morning Frock Subtly Tailored

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

There is a suggestion of tailored smartness about this pretty morning dress, and its bias bodice lines and slimming panelled skirt make it suitable for matron or maid. Blue with white dots in percale, with the color scheme reversed for the bodice, made the original dress. Any of the cottons or linens will make up well.

The pattern, No. 3491, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measure.

Jacoby's Four Aces Win Vanderbilt Bridge Trophy

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Oswald Jacoby and his mates on the Four Aces and a Joker team today won the Harold S. Vanderbilt trophy for bridge teams of four by a commanding margin over the other finalist entry, a combination led by H. Huber Boscowitz. Jacoby, David Burnstine, Richard L. Frey, Michael Gottlieb, and Howard Schenken ended the 100 hands in the final round 7,760 points in the lead of Boscowitz, Charles Goren of Philadelphia, John Rau of Deal, N. J., and Charles Lochridge. On the final 28 hands the four aces maintained the pace they had set on the previous 72 boards and led their opponents by almost 100 points to the hand.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Luke Romans Phillips of 5917 Winthrop avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Brooke Elizabeth, to Mount Burns, which took place last Saturday.

Opera Reflects the Return of Dress Parade

More Capes than Coats in Brilliant Array.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Impressions of Chicago fashions, worn the opening night of the opera: Dove gray satin fashioned into slim, luscious evening creations with long trains.

Romantic color combinations — a flesh colored gown worn under a short velvet coat of sky blue banded with chinchilla; plum colored taffeta billowing beneath a saffron velvet cape with a ginger brown collar; a snowy white dull crêpe costume accented with sapphire blue and salmon pink; forest green with gold in a gown and long cape.

More capes than coats, capes of luxurious silver fox pelts, draped, festooned and swirled in a dozen different formations, using the skins vertically in most models. One breath-taking Russian sable cape reached the hips, with all the dark brown tails forming a fringed effect at the lower edge.

One knockout white caracul coat, as soft and silky as moire satin. Long black velvet coats, with long sleeves, some with white ermine collars and cuffs, others without a bit of fur dramatically accenting the resplendent glory of the sparkling picture gowns worn under them.

Long coats of any material were fitted and flared around the hemline of the skirt, gallant looking affairs made with yards and yards of material marking the return of real dress parade clothes after seasons of rather ordinary and hackneyed run-of-the mill fashions.

Evening slippers were gorgeous, glittering trifles, perfect footnotes to accent the glory of the gowns. High heels, fabulously lovely fabrics, iridescent metallics, brocades, silver and gold skins, colorful velvets trimmed with silver braid, and all with high, graceful heels.

Flounces, ruffles, fringed ruchings, and even fringe, were the outstanding trimmings.

Chicago Alumni of Kemper to Organize Club Friday

Organization of a Kemper club of Chicago will be effected at a dinner at the Knickerbocker hotel Friday evening, to which about 150 Chicago alumni of the Kemper military school of Boonville, Mo., have been invited. A simultaneous dinner will be held at the academy, and the two meetings will be connected by two way communication to be broadcast at either end by loud speakers. G. O. Steffans, 21 South La Salle street, is acting secretary of the projected club.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Argentine ambassador, Felipe Espil, was the ranking guest at the luncheon today given by the Irish minister for William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, who is celebrating the half century mark of his priesthood.

Mme. Prochnik, wife of the Austrian minister, this afternoon gave the first of three teas she is giving to present the minister's daughter, Miss Valerie Prochnik to society. This is in accordance with the custom in Austria.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Stringing along with the bare beauty necessities—the economical buys of cream, rouge, powder, and lipstick—isn't any fun. There isn't a woman living who wouldn't love to have a little outbreak once in a while, even if it's only a dram of inexpensive perfume.

As the old income expands we all indulge in the fripperies, if for nothing else than the purely feminine pleasure they give us.

Take the matter of sachets. You could live without them but it's much more fun to take a less Spartan view of the matter and surround yourself with them if the budget can stand it.

They can be very grand affairs or little silk cases without elegant touches. If you'd like to brood over the sachet situation you'll have a swell time with one collection in a Chicago shop. You can plunk half the rent on one piece if you're so inclined, or you can satisfy your yen for sweet scented things with a few tailored rolls or pillows that cost very little. It will all depend on the income.

If the sky is the financial limit you'll be drawn inevitably to a plump pillow, all petaled in taffeta, that is scented with rose. It's one of the heights of boudoir grandeur. Our own preference if Santa Claus told us to take our pick is for a smaller one, oblong in shape, in pink satin with banding of delicate white ostrich feathers along its four sides. Here again the sachet is rose—and it lasts for years and years.

Then there are dozens of others—long slender ones in white satin that look like bell cords and are to be used on the hangers for lingerie; sets of plump pillows in white tied with green velvet that will whisper gardenia wherever you tuck them and box on box of those charming sausage shaped rolls in devastating colors and even more thrilling fragrances.

Your taste will be for all of them, we'd guess, and your pocketbook will have the final say. No woman could resist them if she could possibly wangle the money for them.

Talking About One's Defects Is Bad Policy

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Why do women say: "Don't I look a perfect fright?" when they know right well that they don't look a perfect fright or sight? Is it their way of forcing a compliment, or is it a habit of "always belittling"? It's not good poker in either event.

One shouldn't look a perfect fright, for one thing, unless she's just emerged from a fire or a street mob. The incident, then, would be explanation enough.

I speak of it because it is a habit you can let grow on you, just one of those little things that aren't so vitally important but important nevertheless.

Or, are you one who embarrasses listeners by calling attention to a nose, let's say, with which you're not satisfied, or hands, or feet, something you wish were molded after another pattern? Calling attention to the item isn't going to change its shape. You have to put up with it, but listeners shouldn't have to be forced to deny it's there if it is.

The smart sister simply doesn't call attention to her defects. Her one ambition is to keep them dark. She begins training herself that if such and so is the case, her nose too large, say, then she simply has to play up her eyes, her skin, her hair. If her hands are large, she can forget all about that because some mighty good looking hands these days are large.

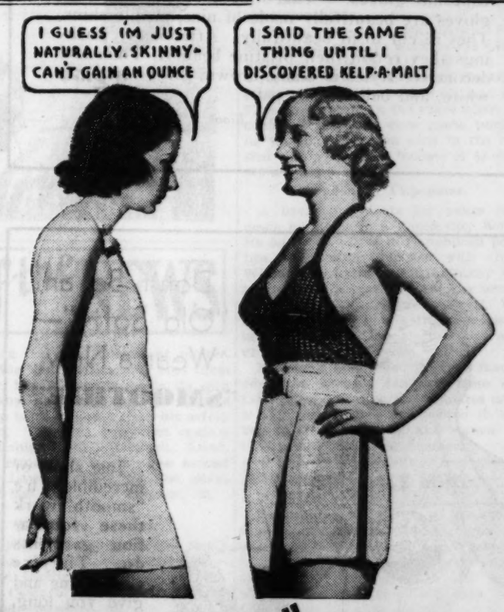
I GUESS I'M JUST NATURALLY SKINNY—CAN'T GAIN AN OUNCE

I SAID THE SAME THING UNTIL I DISCOVERED KELP-A-MALT



FOLKS WHO ARE "NATURALLY SKINNY" NOW GAIN 5 LBS. IN 1 WEEK AND FEEL FINE!

New Mineral Concentrate From the Sea—RICH IN NATURAL IODINE Building Up Thousands of Nervous, Skinny, Rundown Men and Women Where All Else Fails.

"Naturally Skinny" folks who can't seem to add an ounce no matter what they eat. A new way has been found to add flattering pounds of good, solid flesh and fill out those ugly, scrawny hollows even on men and women who have been underweight for years. 5 lbs. in 1 week guaranteed—15 to 20 lbs. in a few weeks not uncommon.

This new discovery, called Kelp-A-Malt, now available in handy tablets offers practically all the vitally essential food minerals in highly concentrated form. These minerals, so necessary to the digestion of fats and starches—the weight making elements in food—include a rich supply of precious NATURAL IODINE.

Kelp-A-Malt's NATURAL IODINE nourishes the internal glands which control assimilation, the process of converting digested food into firm, solid flesh. 6 Kelp-A-Malt tablets contain more NATURAL IODINE than 486 lbs. of spinach, 1,600 lbs. of beef, 1,389 lbs. of lettuce.

Try Kelp-A-Malt for a single week and notice the difference—how much better you sleep, how your appetite improves, how ordinary stomach distress vanishes. Watch flat chest and skinny limbs fill out and flattering extra pounds appear. Kelp-A-Malt is prescribed and used by physicians. Fine for children, too. Remember the name, Kelp-A-Malt, the original kelp and malt tablets. Nothing like them, so do not accept imitations. Try Kelp-A-Malt. If you don't gain at least 5 lbs. in 1 week, the trial is free. 100 jumbo size tablets, 4 to 5 times the size of ordinary tablets, cost but little. Sold at all

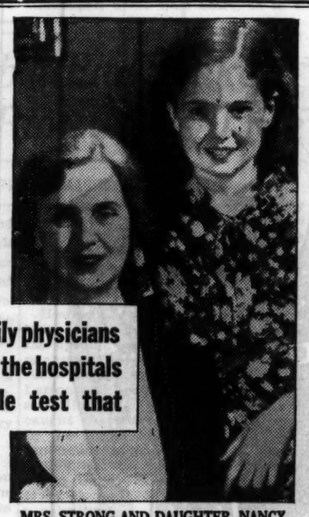
LUCKY GIRL



MRS. STRONG AND DAUGHTER, NANCY

Her mother felt that family physicians and child specialists, and the hospitals must be right. A simple test that proves they are.

If anyone in your family is occasionally sluggish or constipated; especially any child, you should know this medical truth:

You cannot get safe relief with any medicine if you cannot regulate the dose. And to regulate dosage, you should have a liquid laxative. With a liquid laxative, you can gradually reduce the dose. And that is the secret of safe relief from a sluggish, constipated condition.

Why Doctors Use Liquid Laxatives

A liquid laxative can be measured. Its action can be thus controlled. If properly made, of natural laxative elements like senna and cascara, it forms no habit — even in the youngest child. And such a laxative will help the bowels to help themselves, not make matters worse.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative containing herbs, active senna, and cascara, and is the one widely used. You can always obtain it at any drug-store. Why not make the "liquid test" which has attracted so much attention of late? It helps nearly everyone who tries it. It may make you feel better than you have in a long time.

If you will risk sixty cents to discover the natural, comfortable action of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, we believe bowel worries will be over for your household.

IMPORTED HANDMADES

If you refuse to dress your little daughter in commonplace frocks you'll be interested in these exquisite little imports. Each one possesses a rare individuality. There's distinction in the fabrics—sheer batiste and cross-barred organdy. Colors are lovely—soft pastels and white, too. Each little frock is trimmed with fagoting, or puff-work, wee tucks, piping, or scallops. 2 to 6. $3.95

Baby Shop, Third Floor.

We've Knit a Bit of Russia Into Our

NEW HIGH TOQUES

Sturdy enough to see you through a real Russian winter, these saucy knit toques (Schiaparelli's ideas)—and high enough to assure your chic in the Chicago winter of 1935. And do they ever get on well with coat collars! Your choice of 3 styles in black, brown, and gay colors. $3.95

Perfectly Amazing! Hand-Detailed

SILK GOWNS

We know you're going to be just as excited over these exquisite crepe de Chine nightgowns as we are.

Such whimsical details — hand-embroidered "Bonne Nuit," wee lace covered buttons, quaint smocking and lattice-work effects for shoulder straps.

The crepe de Chine is of a lovely quality, silky smooth and very fine. In tearose or in white, with color contrast in the trim.

We've sketched only two styles—there are several others every bit as attractive as these.

Have you already decided to buy several?

RODAK-RITTER TEAM LEADS SIX DAY BIKE RACE

McNamara Injured in Spill.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

REGGIE McNAMARA

Mickey Rodak of Chicago and Charley Ritter of Newark, riding in Chicago's 32d international six day bike race in the colors of the Catholic Youth Organization, jammed into the lead last night shortly before 11 o'clock as the climax of an evening of surprises which at different times saw such comparative unknowns at Rabbit Yates and Steve Wagner of Chicago, and Jerome Rodman of Chicago, and Louie Cohen of Brooklyn pacing the ensemble.

The activities of these juvenile stars who have not long twinkled was not curbed until the worst spill of the race at 11 o'clock. In this accident 50 year old Reggie McNamara and the sub-veteran, Bobby Walthour, went down, causing suspension of jamming for more than a half hour. McNamara picked up a four inch splinter which had to be cut from his left arm. Walthour was knocked unconscious, but doctors succeeded in reviving him before McNamara could be patched up for competing purposes.

Tough for Wissel Team.

It was an especially tough evening for Wissel and Grimm, who had forged into the lead during the afternoon jousting, but who found themselves seven laps back at the time Rodak and Ritter took the lead.

The presence of Rodman and Cohen at 10:05 o'clock, an eminence gained through the stealing of four laps in 35 minutes, caused some skeptics to whisper that the lads were engaging in an innocent build up for "Jewish night" tonight. Wisecrackers were terming the program "Promoters' night." When this quip was heard in the rest booths, however, the athletes, highly incensed at the inference the innuendo carried, broke loose in the best riding of the race, effectively hushing those who would say an ill word against the sincerity of six day endeavor.

The awarding of "prems," special prizes for sprints other than those in regular series, continued with greater generosity than in any race in the last eight years. A variety of awards ranging from shoes, skates and hams to barrels and cases of beer, were posted for one mile sprints.

Rodak, Ritter Hold Lead.

Rodak and Ritter maintained their lead though severely pressed up till the time McNamara took a second bad spill shortly before midnight. Letourner-De Baets and Spencer-Walthour, the form players' favorites, were four laps back in the midnight line but seated comfortably on their saddles, scheming to make it tough for the fresh guys who've been taking the play away from them.

There was no evidence that any of the riders were becoming dizzy, but there were symptoms of light headedness on the part of the three promoters of the race, Carl Stockholm, Harry Mendel, and Frank Harmon. For years the six day bike race has been a one ring circus with a few sideshows, mostly song boosters and beverage enthusiasts. Now the impresarios have come out of a huddle with the announcement that tonight, tomorrow night, and Friday night motorpaced races will be staged without halting the six day race for as much as one little minute.

Tonight there is to be a five mile motor paced match between Al Letourner, for three years outdoor motor paced champion, and Franz Deulberg, one of the world's best pace followers. Tomorrow night Gerard Debaets and Tino Reboli will clash for five miles behind the motors, and Friday night the winners of the two earlier races will fight it out.

Under the rules of the six day race the partners of the lads behind the motors will have to ride as usual while the motors are roaring around the track.

The old time bike riders will have a dinner tonight and at the Midwest club as guests of the Cycle Trades of America and then will proceed to the Stadium in a body.

Results of 11 o'clock sprints:

2—Debaets, Thomas, Grimm, Croley.
3—Thomas, Cohen, Debaets, Wagner.
4—Dempsey, Debaets, Schaller, Garrison.
5—McNamara, Letourner, Ritter, Dempsey.
6—Wissel, Lands, Martinetti, Cohen.
7—Thomas, Letourner, Grimm, Deulberg.
8—Martinetti, Walthour, Cohen, Lands.
9—Ritter, Spencer, Lipsett, Dulberg.
10—Garrison, Schaller, Rodak, Sheehan.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WINNING or losing, Notre Dame apparently is one of the few teams that still can put 60,000 spectators in your stadium. . . . Lorne Chabot, Blackhawk goal tender, has been nicknamed Tarzan by his mates because of a huge shock of thick, unruly hair. . . . Football reporters who wrote in their pieces of the Northwestern-Illinois game that the Illini used their flying trapeze play against the Wildcats were in error. . . . The pyrotechnics in the second quarter were executed from the razzle dazzle, so christened by Coach Zuppke. . . . The last time his boys used the flying trapeze was in the Ohio State game. . . . Ford Frick, new president of the National league, for several years was Babe Ruth's ghost. . . .

Cornie Beukema, a member of Fielding H. Yost's publicity bureau at the University of Michigan, sits on pneumonia terrace, Michigan's open faced press box, without hat or overcoat the coldest days of football. . . . It is said to be a subtle maneuver to shame as sissies the authors who growl and moan because of the policy that keeps pneumonia terrace an open air rendezvous. . . . Last Saturday, it is reported, Mr. Beukema turned red when the cold rain started to fall, turned blue when the sleet set in, and was purple when the mercury dropped ten more degrees and big snowflakes fell. . . . Iver Lawson of Salt Lake City, bicycle champion of the world in 1904, is clerk of the course at the current race at Chicago Stadium. . . . Lou Gordon, captain of the Chicago Cardinals, has been licensed as a timekeeper by the Illinois athletic commission. . . . Jane Fauntz, former United States diving champion and twice a member of the Olympic team, will be swimming instructor at the Arizona Biltmore hotel in Phoenix this winter. . . .

Francis Xavier Shields has signed a seven year contract with the movies, but as he was not engaged for his tennis ability he retains his amateur standing. . . . Synthetic Northwestern alumni who have been firing Dick Hanley every Monday morning since his team lost the Iowa game have forgotten apparently that less than three months ago he ran second in a nation-wide poll that tested the popularity of all the leading coaches of the country. . . . In its games with Rice, Notre Dame, and Wisconsin, Purdue rolled up the imposing total of 609 yards from scrimmage and scored only three touchdowns. . . . Last Saturday at Iowa City the Boilermakers raced 508 yards from scrimmage, yet made only two touchdowns. . . . The Chicago Illini club is breaking precedent by inviting women as well as men to the annual dinner to the Illinois football team at Del Prado hotel Nov. 24, following the Chicago game. . . . Mike Tobin will be toastmaster. . . . Bob Zuppke, expert at the schottische and polka, will give a demonstration of his art at the ball which will follow the dinner. . . .

Cadets at Ohio State have organized themselves into a football cheering corps patterned after the one at West Point. . . . Several hundred of them march onto the field with the band before each game and during the ceremonies between halves. . . . Fred Landis, the only Republican congressman elected from Indiana, is a brother of K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball. . . . Bill Hewitt, the Bears' great end, wants to be a sports writer. . . . Mike Nicksick of Pittsburgh, who scored all four touchdowns against Nebraska Saturday, also made the touchdown that whipped the Cornhuskers last year, 6 to 0. . . . Jack Kearns has bought a chicken ranch near Los Angeles. . . . Marquette will play a return game with Temple in Philadelphia next fall. . . .

It cost Leo Rodak $95 yesterday for coming in a pound overweight in a bout against Pete De Grasse at White City Monday, 25 per cent of the purse he was paid for the 10 round victory. . . . Minnesota Substitute Makes Story Book Plot Come True

BY WILFRID SMITH.

You know this story. The plot—after years of unrewarded service and unsuspected ability, the coach sends in a substitute in the big game of the year, when his star player is injured—has been used many times in fiction. But to Maurice Johnson of the Minnesota Johnsons it's a mighty real story.

The climax of this hackneyed tale is that the substitute wins the game. And fittingly, Maurice Johnson had a lot to do with Minnesota's victory over Michigan.

Johnson Gets His Chance.

For three years Maurice Johnson was a substitute. During the seasons of 1932 and 1933 he served 15 minutes in all games, but next spring Johnson will be graduated from the University of Minnesota journalism school, not only with his bachelor's degree but with the varsity "M" and the satisfaction of catching a touchdown forward pass against the Wolverines.

Catching passes, it seems, was just the one thing the coaches didn't think Johnson could do. So he caught three in as many attempts, one of them for a touchdown.

For three years Johnson was a substitute at right end. In 1932, his sophomore year, he played 15 minutes of the Minnesota-Mississippi game. Last fall Johnson was a substitute for Frank [Butch] Larson, Minnesota's great sophomore end. And Coach Bernie Bierman sent only three players to end all season, his three regulars, Larson, Bob Tenner, and John Roning. Johnson never played a minute.

Johnson Shows Improvement.

Discouraged? Perhaps he was, but Johnson never missed a practice last year or this, when again in his senior year, he was substitute for Larson.

Of course, Johnson improved. Defensively he was considered very strong, but because physicians had reported he had weak eyes when he underwent his physical examination, the coaches didn't consider him, in the event passes were the order of the day.

However, Johnson served 15 minutes against North Dakota State in the opening game. He played seven minutes of the Nebraska game. Then came the Pittsburgh battle in which Larson and Tenner played throughout and Minnesota won, 13 to 7. Tenner caught the winning touchdown pass. In the Iowa game, the first of the conference schedule, Johnson played 17 minutes, the longest period of service in three years. Minnesota won, 48 to 12, and Johnson still was just a substitute.

Johnson Replaces Larson.

Then came Minnesota's homecoming game with Michigan at Minneapolis. In the first half Larson was badly injured. Johnson took his place at right end. At the end of the half neither eleven had scored. When Minnesota returned to the field Johnson again was at end. Minnesota opened up and three forward passes in that half were caught by Johnson. One of them Johnson carried across Michigan's goal line.

When Johnson was asked how he felt when he scored that touchdown, he remarked he was too busy thinking about it to know how he felt.

"My thrill," he said, "was when Coach Bierman let me start the second half. That was the first game I ever played in that wasn't already won."

BY FRENCH LANE.

Sixty-four boys, the survivors from an original field of 2,035, are ready to begin boxing in the semi-finals of the fourth annual Catholic Youth Organization amateur boxing tournament.

Thirty-two of them will see action tonight in 16 bouts that are to be run off at the C. Y. O. Center gymnasium, 31 East Congress street. The remaining 32 will battle it out tomorrow night.

The survivors then will come together in the championship matches at the Chicago Stadium on the night of Dec. 5.

Representatives from every parish and every town within the Chicago area have taken part in the early rounds of the tournament. The lads hailed from Chicago, Joliet, Kankakee, Lockport, Des Plaines, Cicero, Berwyn, Villa Park, Elmhurst, Oak Park, Evanston, Lake Forest, and Waukegan among other towns. As a result it is the biggest athletic event, and by far the most outstanding, sponsored by the C. Y. O.

Start Meet in 1931.

The Catholic Youth Organization went in for boxing back in 1931. The idea was to provide athletic recreation that would attract a lot of young fellows with spare time on their hands and thus lure them off the street with recreation they would fully enjoy.

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, senior auxiliary bishop of the Chicago archdiocese, outlined the scheme and Cardinal Mundelein became its sponsor. Including that first tournament in 1931 and the one which has now reached the semi-final stage, about 6,000 boys have participated in the spirited competition. Out of it has come many fine physical specimens of young manhood and some of the best amateur boxers in the country.

Packy McFarland, one of the greatest of all American boxers and a member of the Illinois State Athletic commission, was made director of the tournament. He has supervised all the bouts regardless of whether they were first round matches or championship contests.

He believes the boys who have fought their way into the semi-finals this year are far superior to those who have struggled for titles in other seasons. Only three defending champions have been able to reach the semi-finals this year. They are Andy Scrivani, featherweight; Charley Wozniak, middleweight, and his brother, Ray Wozniak, light heavyweight. McFarland is not at all confident any of the champions will be able to repeat their victories of last season.

Split Up Field.

All of the 2,200 seats in the C. Y. O. Center gym will be occupied when the semi-final matches start tonight. Packed houses watched the boys struggle through their quarter-final scraps and the demand for tickets has increased for the semi-final bouts.

Thirty-two of the survivors are grouped in the championship class.

The thirty-two others are grouped in class A. These boys are engaging in amateur boxing for the first time and the quarter-finals indicated that several of them are better punchers and possess more boxing skill than the lads grouped in the championship division.

There will be eight bouts in the class A division tonight and eight in the championship class.

Flyweights, lightweights, middleweights, and heavyweights from the championship division will struggle on toward the C. Y. O. titles. In class A there will be fighting in the bantamweight, featherweight, welterweight, and light heavyweight division.

Plenty of Reward.

A busy winter looms ahead for the C. Y. O. champions. Soon after the Chicago finals there will be a match on the Pacific coast for them against the C. Y. O. champions of Los Angeles and San Francisco. The boys then will return to Chicago for a time and later travel east for a match with the C. Y. O. champions of New York. From New York they will go to Panama for a match. They will return to Chicago in time to take part in THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament.

ON HIS WAY TO THE TOP

Henry Bruder, Illini guard, who is being coached to succeed Chuck Bennis. Bruder got a chance in the Northwestern game last Saturday and did creditable work. He is expected to be one of the Illini stars next season. Indianapolis is his home town.

Wanted: Pass Attack by N. U. for Irish Game

After seeing its passing attack collapse during the last two games, Northwestern's football team is devoting attention this week toward getting some semblance of an aerial game ready for Saturday's contest with Notre Dame at Dyche stadium.

In the early games of the season the Wildcats relied almost entirely on the forward pass. Against Marquette and Iowa they took to the air for all of their scores. And even the limited advance made against Stanford and Ohio State came as a result of passes.

Loss of Potter Costly.

The principal reason for the deflated condition of Northwestern's aerial game was the loss through injury of George Potter, veteran quarter back and brilliant passer.

Fortunately, the Wildcats' running game improved almost in direct ratio to the failure of their passes. Against Illinois it was the plunging of Duvall and the running of Toth, Cruice and Swisher that accounted for most of the advances. It is felt that if the team possessed a passing threat these backs would become all the more effective.

In the Illinois game the Wildcats threw only four passes and completed none. Three were tried in the closing minutes in a desperate attempt to score.

Stress Aerial Attack.

Coach Dick Hanley is fully aware it will require more than running alone to score upon Notre Dame. Consequently it is certain that Wildcat quarter backs will be instructed to mix up in a liberal sprinkling of passes. Although Potter again will be absent from the lineup, the Purple still have Swisher, Cruice, Toth and Duvall, all of whom can pass with some degree of accuracy. Leeper and Henderson, ends, have already established themselves as fine receivers.

The Wildcat line, which presented a stubborn front against Illinois, is expected to be even better fortified Saturday through the return of Capt. Al Kawal.

IRISH DRILL IN SNOW.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—A blinding snow storm failed to prevent Notre Dame from participating in a rigorous scrimmage this afternoon in preparation for Saturday's game against Northwestern at Evanston.

Coach Elmer Layden and the players evidently realize from past experience that they can expect a tough battle from the Wildcats, even though Notre Dame is the favorite by a small margin. At any rate, they went through one of the most enthusiastic drills of the season.

In anticipation of a wet field, Layden had his squad practice falling on fumbles for 15 minutes before the scrimmage opened.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

SILVER FOOTBALL.

DEAR Wake: What a coincidence it would be if history repeated itself in the award to a Maroon player of your silver football for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team.

Back in 1927 it was generally agreed that Ken Rouse received the trophy through being taken out of a game, strange as that may sound. Chicago, with Ken a roving center, made a great stand against Michigan in the first half. When Rouse was injured and retired Michigan used the Maroon line for a sieve.

Chicago has made a great showing all season, winning two topheavy conference victories over Michigan and Indiana and losing by a close margin to Purdue. Berwanger played. Berwanger was out of the Ohio State game. Ohio State, 33; Chicago, 0—proving beyond question Berwanger's value. I don't see how the award can go elsewhere. Maroon, '28.

Two players stand out for the silver football. They are Duane Purvis of Purdue and Jay Berwanger of Chicago. Purdue without Purvis is just an ordinary football team. When he is in Purdue is plenty tough. He makes Carter's runs look good and is the spearhead of their entire attack. Certainly Purdue has demonstrated it cannot win without Purvis. Boilermaker.

Notwithstanding its fine material, Minnesota would not be on its way to a national title without Pug Lund. It still would be a good eleven, but Lund supplies the all-around qualifications to make it the team of a decade, at Minnesota or anywhere else. He is the inspiration of his teammates, one of the requirements for silver football awards. It is not the same team when he rests on the bench.

Lund is a triple threat, Minnesota's most reliable passer, a great runner in an open field by his elusiveness, for others have greater direct speed, and he's the most consistent punter. Other Big Ten punters may boot them farther, but Minnesota holds its own with any opponent through Lund's running back of punts from his safety position. This was important against both Michigan and Pittsburgh. Lund, if you remember, ran a close second to Joe Laws of Iowa for the silver football last year. Gopher, '32.

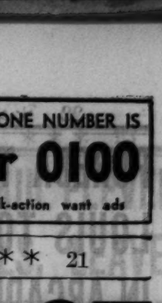
Breadon Considers Offer.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Lew H. Wentz, Oklahoma multi-millionaire oil man, is seeking control of the St. Louis Cardinals and their minor league farms from Sam Breadon.



LEW WENTZ.

Breadon, confirming reports that negotiations were under way, said tonight conferences with Wentz will be resumed tomorrow.

Wentz has been in St. Louis since last Friday and has admitted he was interested in purchasing the Cardinals, National league and world champions, explaining his other interests now permit him to indulge in an outside hobby. Wentz's fortune is estimated at $10,000,000.

Travels with Cards.

Wentz's admiration for the Cardinals was enhanced by the recent world series, which he attended, making two round trips to Detroit on the Cardinals' special train. A few years ago Wentz made a bid for the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the late Barney Dreyfuss rejected his offer.

Breadon's majority holdings, which Wentz seeks to acquire, represent 77 per cent of the stock in the St. Louis club. The tentative purchase price is said to be slightly in excess of $1,000,000.

If the sale is completed, and it appeared almost certain tonight it would be, Wentz, in addition to the Cardinals, will gain control of the Rochester International league club, the Columbus American association team, the Houston Texas league team and several other clubs in the Cardinals' farm system.

Breadon Gives Hint.

Branch Rickey, vice president and general manager of the Cardinals, who built up the chain store system, is expected to become president of the organization in the event Wentz acquires control.

Breadon, who took over the Cardinals in 1920, indicated for the first time last summer that he was prepared to dispose of his holdings. He said at the time, however, he had not set a price and had received no offers. Since 1926 the Cardinals have won five National league and three world championships.

Wentz, son of a Pittsburgh, Pa., blacksmith, went to work in the Oklahoma oil fields in 1911 and built up a fortune regarded as one of the largest in the state by buying oil land for 25 cents an acre. In the years when income tax returns were made public, he was one of seven men in the nation who paid on an income of $5,000,000 a year.

Breadon Is Unpopular.

A bachelor, Wentz for years had made his home in a Ponca City hotel. He has been active in Republican politics. His many clashes with Gov. William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray attracted wide attention. Another bitter political enemy, Congressman E. W. Marland, Wentz's one time associate in the oil fields, was elected governor of Oklahoma last week.

Breadon's hard-fisted business methods have aroused criticism from St. Louis fans and this, his intimates say, is the chief reason he desires to retire from the baseball and return to the automobile sales business.

HARRIS BACK HOME

Washington, D. C., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Stanley H. [Bucky] Harris, who as baseball's boy manager led Washington to a world championship 10 years ago, tonight was given a one year contract as the Senators' pilot for 1935.

Harris succeeds Joe Cronin, the second of the Senators' youthful managers, who replaced Bucky as the Boston Red Sox leader a few weeks ago in one of baseball's biggest deals.

Griffith Is Enthusiastic.

Six years after he was dismissed here, Harris was recalled by President Clark Griffith to inspire the American League club for next season's pennant drive and partially allay fans' disappointment over the trading of the popular young shortstop-manager.

"I've never seen a better manager on the field," Griffith said. "And I feel he is the man we need here. He will get every ounce of baseball out of our players."

Harris Is Pleased.

Griffith would not disclose what salary Harris would draw but said: "I wanted the best manager I could find and I was ready to pay for him. I have always admired Harris and I am glad to have him back again."

"This is the greatest break I've had since 1924. [When Griffith first named him as manager at the almost unheard of youthful age of 27.] I have a home here and it is wonderful to be working in your home town again. I think I know what Griff wants and I'm going to give it to him," he said.

POREDA TESTS LOUIS TONIGHT IN ARCADIA SHOW

Joe Seeks 10th Straight Pro Victory.

Joe Louis, Detroit, Mich., heavyweight boxer, will receive his tenth professional test tonight in a 10 round meeting against Stanley Poreda of Jersey City, N. J., at Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. He was successful in the nine previous fights, winning two decisions and scoring seven knockouts.

Poreda, one of the best heavyweights in the world in 1932, may surprise Louis' followers and hand Joe his first pro defeat. It has been recorded that Poreda has whipped such topnotchers as Primo Carnera, Tommy Loughran, Ernie Schaaf, Babe Hunt and Johnny Risko. These accomplishments are so important, however, they may be listed again. But Stanley has not done as well since and therein rests a puzzle.

The case was clarified somewhat yesterday by Poreda after the latter had perspired for 40 minutes in a final workout. The giant Pole said he began to lose faith in his manager after he beat Loughran two years ago. This led to carelessness in training and at 23 years of age he was ready to quit. After a long layoff his present manager, Mushky Jackson, induced him to launch a comeback. Two fights under Jackson's management ended in knockout conquests for Poreda and have tended to give back his former confidence.

Eddie Anderson, Detroit heavyweight, will make his first Chicago appearance against Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., in a six round semifinal. Kranz was one of the two victims capable of going the limit with Louis. The other was Adolph Wiater. The preliminary contests, all of which will involve heavyweights, follow:

Johnny Vorce vs. Red Johnson, [6].
Frank Ketter vs. Danny La Marre, [5].
Merrill [Red] Tonn vs. Chet Rayner, [5].

The show to be presented by Promoter Billy Cepak at Cicero stadium Friday has been arranged. Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, boxes Richard [Toots] Bernstein, Milwaukee, Wis., in the 10 round main event. Paul Dazzo, Chicago, and Mike [Little Pal] Primich, Indiana Harbor, Ind., meet in the eight round bout which will head the preliminary card. Bill Reardon clashes with Hugh Allen, Sammy Chivas faces George Hagerski, and John Pacek opposes Marvin Stanley. Chivas hails from Detroit and Stanley comes from Butte, Mont.

Pete De Grasse is slated to fight Frank Covelli for the second time at Washington, D. C., Nov. 26. . . . The 10 round conflict between Jimmy Christy and Sammy Musco at Merry Gardens Friday was approved yesterday.

The state athletic commission has banned Joe Savoldi, heavyweight wrestler, until he appears for a hearing. . . . Sam De Pasquale and Armand Morell will clash in the topline contest of an amateur program at Pulaski hall, 17th street and Ashland avenue, tonight. . . . Ed Schiller, Chicago 150 pounder, back from California after five years, is managed by Dave Biggerstaff. . . . Felix Kolk's father, John Kolk, 4105 West 25th street, died yesterday following an appendicitis operation. . . . Kolk is boxing instructor at Mayfair casino.

Winfred [Moon] Mullins, Vincennes, Ind., featherweight, and Everett [Young] Rightmire have been signed to meet for 10 rounds in the windup at Midway arena Monday. . . . Eddie Cerda, Los Angeles, Cal., Mexican welterweight, is training at Trafton's gymnasium in anticipation of obtaining his first local bout soon. F. M.

HORSES CRASH IN FOG; BOTH DIE; JOCKY INJURED

San Mateo, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A heavy fog here today caused a head on collision of two race horses on the Bay Meadows turf, breaking both their necks and seriously injuring a jocky, James McLaren.

The horses were Sir Richard, owned by Mrs. A. Horton, and Mint Memory, owned by John Manale, New Orleans. McLaren was riding Sir Richard in a morning workout when Mint Memory tossed his rider and ran wild the wrong way into the oncoming Sir Richard.

McLaren's skull was fractured.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—POP GETS SERVICE

French Team Wins Military Jump at Show

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The French army team, victor the first time it crossed the Atlantic in 1925, tonight rode back to the heights in the international military jumping competition, winning the team championship with a brilliant display of horsemanship as a climax to the national horse show in Madison Square Garden.

Competing against the officers and selected mounts of the United States, Canada, Chile, and the Irish Free State, the French team turned in two perfect performances over the difficult course and made only one mistake with the third member of the trio for an aggregate of four faults.

U. S. Team Has Eight Faults.

The unexpected strength shown by the French, winner of only one minor event previously, left the others far to the rear. The United States team, the favorite, led by Capt. W. D. Bradford, was second with eight faults and was trailed by Canada with 11, Chile with 12, and the Irish with 15.

Each team was permitted four competitors with the three best scores to count, but the French, last to compete, found it necessary to send out only three horses.

U. S. Off to Bad Start.

The United States team turned in the only other faultless exhibition, Capt. Bradford scoring a clean performance with Don. The team from Fort Riley, Kas., had a bad start, however, and never made up the lost ground. Snoozer, with Lieut. A. E. Solem in the saddle, piled up the triple rising bar; Tanbark, ridden by Capt. C. C. Jadwin, bowled over the first obstacle, and Ugly, with Lieut. Carl W. Raguse handling the reins, plowed through three fences for a total of 12 faults. Ugly's score was not used in computing the Americans' final standing.

King of the Plain, owned by Mrs. John R. Thompson of Lake Forest, Ill., scored in a walkover in the class for hackney pony stallions under 14.2 earlier in the evening. The victory was the King's second in the Garden exhibition.

Armor Fails to Aid Lasky's Sparmates

A new training device was put to use by Art Lasky's handlers at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday in an effort to enable sparmates to absorb body punches while aiding the Minneapolis heavyweight prepare for his return bout with King Levinsky at Chicago Stadium on Nov. 23.

The device, a lether corset, lined with spongy rubber, proved successful for two rounds for Ed Wills while Lasky shot short, playful pokes at the body but in the third Art wound up his left and let it go. It landed on Wills' left side and the latter dropped, gasping for breath.

It was reported last night that the contraption had been burned up.

Prior to the abrupt ending of the drill Lasky went a couple of rounds with a new stablemate, 205 pound Tony Souza of Los Angeles. Souza, a stocky fellow, refused to lead and made Art look bad in spots.

Levinsky sparred four rounds yesterday at Northwest gymnasium, two each with Tony Cancela and Adolph Wiater. It was announced that he weighed 204, around the poundage he expects to carry against Lasky, and so his trainers ordered a vacation today.

LOOK TO BOSTON AS NEW ENGLAND RACING CENTER

Boston, Mass., Nov. 13.—(AP)—With the 1934 New England pari-mutuel betting crop, which totaled $41,957,209, safely gathered in, the racing interests that shared in this bountiful harvest, as well as scores of others that hope to next year, today turned their attention to Massachusetts, which voted overwhelmingly in favor of horse and dog wagering just a week ago.

For many months, ever since the Massachusetts legislature turned the racing bill over to the voters for final disposition, the racing interests that operated so successfully in the neighboring states of New Hampshire and Rhode Island have been making the Boston district their 1935 objective.

At least two, and probably more tracks, the most costly and palatial in the east, will be operating near Boston next season. Locations and details have been kept more or less a secret but an avalanche of horse racing plans and facts will be released as soon as Gov. Ely announces his racing commission appointments, which are expected to go before his council for confirmation tomorrow.

MISSOURI PAPER ASKS ACCOUNTING FOR 19 DEFEATS

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 13.—(AP)—A showdown on the University of Missouri's future athletic policy was demanded today by the Missouri Student; official campus newspaper.

The weekly paper called upon the committee on intercollegiate athletics, storm center of persistent reports that the athletic administration and coaching staf are due for an overhauling, to make a public statement of its attitude.

Pointing to the record of two victories, two ties, and nineteen defeats made by the Tigers during Frank Carideo's three years as head coach, Howard Young, editor, said:

"We realize that the members of the squad and the coaches are doing the best they can, but it is the duty of the student newspaper, as an organ of student sentiment and a support of the best interests of the university, to depict our deplorable football situation as it exists."

DUSEK, SHIKAT ARRIVE FOR COLISEUM SHOW

Arrival of Ernie Dusek and Richard Shikat from New York last night completed the card for the wrestling show at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Dusek will meet Jim McMillen in the main event and Shikat is matched against Dick Raines in the semi windup.

Dr. Pat Mulligan, world's light heavyweight champion, will defend his title in a 30 minute bout with Zack Malcov. The former Rogers Park policeman is improving rapidly and experts are of the opinion he will beat Mulligan.

Bar Marone in Texas for Doping Horse

Arlington Downs, Tex., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—C. A. Marone, horse owner and trainer, today was suspended by the stewards at the Arlington Downs race track on charges of using stimulants on Donday, one of the horses he trains. Mrs. Marone also was suspended, and all their horses were barred.

In addition, several other horses trained by Marone will be unable to compete "until placed in the hands of a licensed trainer approved by the stewards." One of the horses is Ted Clark, which has established track records at one mile and a mile and an eighth. Rumors that Marone used stimulants on Ted Clark were denied.

This Makes It Official.

Marone's own horses are, in addition to Donday, Ruckus, More Anon, My Letitia, and Babson. Other horses trained by Marone are Fair Cynthia and Flom. The announcement of the suspension follows:

"Trainer and Owner C. A. Marone has been suspended and his case referred to the Texas racing commission. The horses More Anon, Donday, Ruckus, My Letitia, and Babson, the property of Marone and his wife, have also been suspended pending further action by the commission."

Ted Is Quite a Horse.

Ted Clark, a former selling plater, has an impressive record for the meet here. Owned by Dr. Charles N. Mooney of Toronto, Ont., Ted Clark first broke a track record at a mile a week ago, paying 80 to 1 in the mutuels. Last Saturday Ted Clark paid 19 to 1 as he set a new mark for a mile and an eighth.

A saliva test of Donday was made by Dr. J. J. Reid of the live stock sanitary commission of Texas. He reported his findings to the official veterinarian of the Texas Jocky club and the announcement by the stewards followed.

CLASSIC LEAGUE BOWLS TONIGHT AT WINDY CITY

MAROONS DEFEAT EAGLES, 2 TO 1, IN EXTRA PERIOD

Deciding Point Is Scored by Dave Trottier.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 13—[Special.]—The Montreal Maroons defeated the St. Louis Eagles, 2 to 1, in a National Hocky league game here tonight. The score was tied, 1 to 1, at the end of the regular playing time. In the first extra period, Dave Trottier made the winning goal for the Maroons.

After a scoreless first period, both teams tallied in the second, Scotty Bowman for the Eagles and Jimmy Ward for the Maroons. Neither team was able to pierce the other's defense in the third period.

It was the second defeat in as many games for the St. Louis team. The Eagles, who formerly were the Ottawa Senators, were beaten by the Chicago Blackhawks, 3 to 1, in their season's debut last Thursday.

AMERICANS' CASE UP

New York, Nov. 13—(AP)—A dispute between the New York Americans Hocky club and the Madison Square Garden corporation over the rental charges for the Americans' home games of the National Hocky league campaign was placed in the hands of three league officials for arbitration today as the Americans' officials heatedly accused the other side of attempting to gain control of professional hocky.

Frank Calder of Montreal, league president, Connie Smythe of Toronto and Leo Dandurand of the Montreal Canadiens will be the arbitrators of the dispute, following a precedent set in similar arguments in Boston and Chicago.

Although the new contract offered to the Americans calls for the Garden to get a 40 per cent cut in the gate receipts instead of 50 per cent as before, William V. Dwyer, owner, and Marty Shenker, secretary-treasurer, of the Americans claim that "trick clauses" offset the reductions and with lower ticket prices the club would receive even less money.

Dwyer also maintained that Col. John S. Hammond, president of the New York Rangers and a Garden official, had called a secret meeting of rink owners to urge that rentals be increased so that the club owners would abandon their franchises. He also said the Americans had instituted a civil suit to recover $114,259.70 from the Garden on its old contract. Charges not stipulated in the contract, such as lighting, insurance, maintenance of time clocks, were levied against the Americans while the Rangers, owned by the Garden, were not required to pay their share.

FANS SEE MORENZ

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 13.—[Special.] — Because of the demands of Montreal hocky fans, who have been clamoring for a glimpse of Howie Morenz, the greatest hocky favorite Montreal fans ever knew, the Blackhawks' manager threw open the doors of the Forum for today's practice and an enthusiastic crowd watched the former star of the Canadiens do his drilling in a Blackhawk uniform.

One of the most interested spectators was the diminutive left wing of the Canadiens, Aurel Joliat, who for eleven seasons teamed with Morenz. During his long term of service with the "Flying Frenchman" and his forward line alliance with Joliat, the longest partnership hocky has ever known, Morenz scored 392 points, a record likely to stand for all time.

Manager Clem Loughlin's plans call for a final workout tomorrow. The Hawks' boss figures Tommy Gorman's Maroons are one of the hardest clubs in the league and he is leaving nothing undone to have the champions in trim for the game Thursday night.

CENTRAL, WHITING SEEN AS INDIANA PREP FINALISTS

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Northern Indiana High School conference football season will end with games Friday night and Saturday afternoon. Prospects are bright that both Central, eastern sectional champion, and Whiting, western title defender, will retain their titles. Both Central and Whiting are scheduled to meet inferior foes. Whiting is scheduled to entertain Froebel of Gary Friday night, and Central will face Elkhart here Saturday afternoon.

Froebel has won only one conference game out of six, while Elkhart has lost every conference game this season. Should both Central and Whiting win the two elevens will meet at Whiting on Nov. 24 for the conference championship. Teams from these schools met here last Thanksgiving day, Central winning, 14 to 13.

Mishawaka will be host to Riley Saturday afternoon in the final conference game while Michigan City will travel to Culver for a game with the Culver Military academy eleven. Goshen and Laporte, the remaining eastern division teams, completed their season last Saturday.

TOLAN SAILS FOR AUSTRALIA TO RUN IN SPRINTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Eddie Tolan, former Univeristy of Michigan star sprinter, sailed from here today for Australia, where he will race professionally. The Negro runner will compete in five races, including the 130 yard Stawell gift handicap for a prize of $1,000 against W. McFarlane, Great Britain, and Auston Robertson and F. O'Neil of Australia.

Pedigreed Boston Bull Puppies Will Compete

The Western Boston Terrier club, under the auspices of the American Kennel club, will hold its annual puppy show at The Fair department store Saturday. More than 100 pedigreed animals will be shown. The show will be benched in the sporting goods department on the second floor. Judging will occur at 12 o'clock noon and 2 p. m.

MOON MULLINS—CHEERFUL CREDIT

GEE! I'D OF KNOCKED THAT COLLECTOR'S BLOCK OFF IF HE'D CALLED ME "A SWINDLER" LIKE HE DID LADY PLUSHBOTTOM JEST BECAUSE I DIDN'T PAY SOME INSTALLMENTS ON THE PIANO.
WELL IT SUITED ME ALL RIGHT SHE MADE HIM TAKE IT BACK.
ALL OF THEM INSULTIN' REMARKS?
NO, STUPID! THE PIANO!!
AND HOW, LADY PLUSHBOTTOM- IS EVERYBODY AT YOUR HOUSE?
WHY, MY DEAR MRS. BOOBLEBAUM HAVEN'T YOU HEARD? LORD PLUSHBOTTOM HAD TO HAVE HIS APPENDIX REMOVED FRIDAY.
GOOD GOSH, EMMY! FIRST IT'S YOUR PIANO AND NOW IT'S HIS APPENDIX- WELL, PERSONALLY I PREFERS TO PAY CASH FOR THINGS AND KEEP 'EM.

Maroons Not Alarmed by Gopher Power

Minnesota may be undefeated in its last 14 starts, and may have averaged 33½ points in six games this season, but the University of Chicago football boys never have seen the Gophers in action, and for all they know at first hand, they may be just another team. So there was no lack of cheeriness on the Midway practice field yesterday, at least on the surface, and the practice itself was devoted to scrimmage on offense.

Practical minded Chicago partisans, however, have come to regard the Gopher game as something of a nuisance, something the team must get past with a minimum of injuries, so that the Maroons will be at top strength for their fine old rivals, the Illini, the following Saturday. A victory over Illinois, they point out, would make the season a distinct success, comparatively speaking, and assure Chicago of first division ranking. And they hope that the Gophers will be astute enough to realize that a defeat for Illinois would be to Minnesota's advantage in the title race.

Casuals Are Recovering.

The cheeriness of the Maroons partly is due to the fact that the trainers are increasingly optimistic about the chances for Jay Berwanger's being able to play Saturday. Clarence Wright, tackle, and Ned Bartlett, half, are also on the mend and will work out this week, but Johnny Baker, right end, apparently is out of the picture. His place was taken by Ralph Balfanz yesterday.

Coach Shaughnessy emphasized blocking during the action and had Tommy Flinn calling a good many pass plays. The scrimmage is probably the next to last of the season, for today and tomorrow will be devoted to more routine drill, and next Tuesday is the tentative date for the last practice scrimmage.

They've Met 17 Times.

Chicago has not played Minnesota since 1928, when the Gophers won, 33 to 7. The coming game will be the eighteenth between the two schools if the S. A. T. C. game of 1918 is included. Minnesota has won 11, Chicago has won 5, and one game resulted in a tie. Minnesota has a point advantage in the series of 268 to 136. The first Chicago-Minnesota game was played in 1895, and the scores have varied widely, Minnesota winning, 49 to 0, in 1916, Chicago winning, 29 to 0, in 1899 and 1908. No game is scheduled for next year.

SEIDEL IS OUT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Concern over the condition of Glenn Seidel, junior quarter back, was expressed in the Minnesota football camp today. Seidel suffered a wrenched back in the Indiana game and it is doubtful whether he will play against Chicago Saturday.

At first it was thought Seidel's injury was only a bruise. But he complained of pain near the spine and an examination revealed the more serious injury. Seidel has been able to be up and around, but Dr. George Hauser, line coach and team physician, was not so sure that he would improve sufficiently to warant his use against the Maroons.

With Seidel out, quarter back duties will fall on Babe Levoir, who has been alternating with Seidel for the last two years. Capt. Pug Lund, George Roscoe, and Art Clarkson will be drilled in signal calling in the event Levoir is injured.

After the longest chalk talk of the season yesterday, in which Jay Berwanger was the subject of most of the conversation, the Gophers went back to work on Northrop field today.

TENNESSEE WILL PLAY TEN GAME CARD NEXT FALL

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The University of Tennessee today announced its 1935 football schedule. The Volunteers will play 10 games, opening on Sept. 28 against Southwestern. Tennessee now is making final arrangements for a game with Louisiana State university on Dec. 7. The schedule:

Sept. 28, Southwestern at Knoxville; Oct. 5, North Carolina at Knoxville; Oct. 12, Auburn at Birmingham; Oct. 19, Alabama at Knoxville; Oct. 26, Duke at Durham; Nov. 2, Centre at Knoxville; Nov. 9, Mississippi at Memphis or Oxford, Miss.; Nov. 16, Vanderbilt at Knoxville; Nov. 28, Kentucky at Lexington; Dec. 7, L. S. U. at Baton Rouge, pending.

First Reformed vs. Third Christian Reformed at 9:45 p. m.

Beloit Elects Ralph Scott Captain of 1935 Eleven

WHEN PAT O'DEA COACHED AT NOTRE DAME

Pat O'Dea (in back row, indicated by arrow), the famous Wisconsin kicker, who will be the guest of Badger alumni at the Union League club tomorrow night, went from the Madison campus to Notre Dame to be an assistant coach in 1900. Later he disappeared to escape hero worshipers, was believed dead, and then returned to claim his dues two months ago. Members of the 1900 Notre Dame team O'Dea helped coach were (first row, left to right): Arthur Hayes, Kirby, Clarence Diebold, John Farley, now the Rev. John Farley, C. S. C.; George W. Kuppler, H. J. McGlew, Red Salmon, the greatest full back Notre Dame ever had, and Coach McWinney. Second row: Frank Winter (standing), Clement Staudt, Bouza, Dominic O'Malley, now the Rev. Dominic O'Malley, C. S. C.; Nace Gilleen, Frank B. McWinney, Albert Fortin (standing at right), and Ralph Glynn. Third row: James Farragher, Joseph J. Culliman, and George Lins. Back row: John Pick, John Eggeman (now a judge in Fort Wayne, Ind.), Harold McDavitt, O'Dea, Dad Moulton, track coach, and Boots Butler, trainer. The last player could not be identified.

Purdue Seeks Scoring Punch for Fordham

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The Purdue football squad continued to seek a scoring punch today for Saturday's game at New York with Fordham. The regulars reported for drill following a day's layoff spent in ridding themselves of bumps and bruises accumulated against Iowa.

In an extended offensive scrimmage session the eleven worked within the twenty yard zone against the freshman in an effort to improve the blocking and effectiveness of close line plays near the goal line.

Coach Noble Kizer indicated that he would use the starting lineup against the Rams that opened the Iowa battle, and is basing his hopes of stopping Fordham's comeback on the running attack built around Duane Purvis and Jim Carter.

Preparations for the game will be concluded with a long workout tomorrow afternoon, and the squad will head for New York on a special train at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

RAMS DRILL INDOORS.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Deterred by chill weather and a water-soaked field, Fordham's football forces went into the college gynasium today for one of their most thorough drills of the season.

The Rams worked under shelter for more than three hours and reviewed all their plays, learned two new formations and studied those of their next opponent in preparation for the battle with Purdue at the Polo grounds on Saturday.

For the first time since early in the campaign, the entire squad is in top physical condition, Coach Jim Crowley declared. Joe Maniaci and Joe Dulkie, the most recent hospital cases, were in action, and appeared completely recovered from the leg injuries they sustained in the West Virginia game.

PROPOSES KNOX PLAY HOBART FOR CELLAR CROWN

Galesburg, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—An intersectional contest between Knox college and Hobart college of Geneva, N. Y., the most frequent football losers, to settle supremacy for the all-time cellar championship in the national football race, is proposed by a local sports enthusiast.

Knox thought it had a world record of 25 straight defects sewed up but Hobart has bobbed up with a prior claim of 27 consecutive setbacks.

Dawson Denies Report of Change in Coaching Job

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Lowell Dawson, back field coach at the University of Minnesota, took time out today to deny reports that he had accepted another job. According to the rumors, Dawson was to leave Minnesota for the head coaching postion at either Boston university or the University of Missouri.

Newell Banks to Give Checker Exhibition Tonight

Indiana Stresses Offense in Drill for Maryland Tilt

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Engaging in dummy scrimmage, Indiana university's football squad today continued to stress offensive play in preparations for its game here Saturday with the University of Maryland.

Although Wendel Walker, recovering from a leg injury, was back on the squad, he did not return to his new quarter back rôle, but was in his old position as full back. Yoder and Fox, who called signals in the Minnesota game, alternated at the quarter back job. Walker did most of the passing.

Maryland, which defeated Virginia Military institute, 23 to 0, last night, has lost only one game this season and that to Navy, 16 to 13.

IOWA AT BEST POWER.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football squad will probably be nearer full strength for the final game of the season against Ohio State than it has been for any other contest this season, Dr. A. S. Fourt, medical adviser, said today. Barring further injuries in the next ten days, the team probably will be deprived of only the services of Dwight Hoover, blocking half back, who has sustained a cracked vertebra of the neck.

Herman Schneidman, half back, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Nebraska game Oct. 13, reported for light drill and will attempt to get in condition for his final intercollegiate game on Nov. 24.

Malone and Smith Wrestle to Hour Draw at White City

Eddie Malone, Irish light heavyweight wrestler, and Clarence Smith, Chicago, wrestled to a one hour draw last night at White City. In the semi-windup Frank Malkowicz pinned Frank Kimball in 18 minutes. In other matches Buck O'Neill and Hy Sherman drew in 30 minutes; Al Foreman threw Nick George in seven minutes, and Silent Ratten won from Ed Van Herrick in five minutes.

70,000 May See Ohio and Michigan Play

Columbus, O., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Ohio State university athletic officials made preparations today to receive a crowd of 70,000 at the homecoming game with Michigan Saturday.

Workmen started the erection of temporary seats in the open space of the horseshoe arena today while the varsity went through a long snappy drill on offense.

Coach Francis Schmidt drilled the players on several formations he has been holding in reserve since the first of the season especially for the Wolverines.

It's the Biggest Game.

Early in Schmidt's coaching career at Ohio State he learned that a Buckeye coach may be successful though he lose all of the games on the schedule—with the exception of the Michigan game. Consequently those who have watched daily practice have become familiar with "Michigan" routine, a group of plays worked almost to perfection and saved for the Wolverines.

While the varsity perfected its plays, Assistant Coach Floyd Stahl took charge of the reserve forces and schooled them on Michigan formations to meet the regulars Wednesday.

For the first time this season the home team will be ready to face the enemy in first class condition.

MICHIGAN FULL BACK HURT.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Cedric Sweet, Michigan's sophomore full back, suffered a leg injury during scrimmage this afternoon that will keep him out of the Ohio State game Saturday and possibly out of the Northwestern game the following week, Coach Harry Kipke said tonight.

Steve Remias, second full back, also was slightly hurt, but Kipke said Remias might be able to play Saturday. If not, John Regeczi will move to full back, Chris Everhardus and Whitey Aug will play the half backs and either Ferris, Jennings, or George Bolas will be at quarter back.

Karl Schuelke Back in Badger Varsity Lineup

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13—[Special.]—Karl Schuelke, regular right halfback, who was kept at home last week end to take treatment for his injuries, was back in the first string lineup this afternoon as Wisconsin's Badgers went through a long defensive drill against Illinois passes and running plays.

Paul Jensen, big sophomore tackle who has been playing regularly since the Notre Dame game, also was in a suit, apparently recovered from injuries received in the Northwestern and Michigan games.

Michigan Victory Helps.

The Michigan victory, coming after three successive defeats in which the Badgers failed to score a single point, has served to instill a new spirit on the squad—noticeable as compared to the practice sessions last week.

Coach Spears realizes his team is the underdog in the Illinois game, but he seems satisfied to keep it that way until game time at Camp Randall Saturday.

ILLINI SEEK LINEMEN.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Illinois' football team worked industriously today on various plays involving deft ball handling and seeking line reinforcements for what is expected to be a smashing onslaught by Wisconsin's heavier forwards. Zuppke paid considerable attention to Parry Palmer, senior reserve tackle and center. Palmer won his letter last season, but has had little opportunity to see action so far.

Weenie Wilson brought over his cardinal jerseyed freshmen, who demonstrated Badger formations and plays in dummy scrimmage. There were no absentees among the regulars and with no accidents the Illini will be able to present their strongest array at Madison.

Bill Waller, who retrieved Lindberg's pass for the first Illinois touchdown against Northwestern, and Francis Cantwell appeared at one end on one team. Cantwell, a lanky sophomore, has never played in a varsity game, but has worked his way up to the second set of wingmen for the time being at least.

COAST OBJECTION TO BROADCASTING OF GAMES GROWS

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Pacific coast conference football may go off the air next season.

Objection to the broadcasting of games is reported to be increasing and the question will be reopened at the annual meeting next month.

Opposition to the broadcasting already has been unofficially voiced by Stanford and California. Southern California is believed ready to line up on the side of the two big northern California universities.

Alfred R. Masters, graduate manager of Stanford, said he was convinced that broadcasting "is hurting and will continue to hurt our attendance."

"Something will have to be done," he added. "If not, the time may come when the colleges will be run out of the football business."

California's spokesman, Bill Monahan, expressed views in similar vein. He said he "knew Southern California was 'fed up' on the matter."

An oil company paid $60,000 this year and last for the right to put all conference contests on the air. These sums were divided among the ten conference schools, according to the number of games handled and their importance.

Schmeling Agrees to Meet Steve Hamas in Germany

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, announced tonight that he had concluded an agreement to meet Steve Hamas, American heavyweight, in a bout here next March.

Bears, Cardinals to Play Games on Road Next Sunday

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chicago will be without professional football Sunday when the Cardinals meet the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee and the Bears play the Giants in New York. The Cardinals and Packers were scheduled here, but it was decided to take the game to Milwaukee, since the teams are booked against each other at Wrigley field Thanksgiving day.

The Cardinals will rest today, under the new practice routine adopted by Coach Paul Schissler, but will return to work at Wrigley field tomorrow in preparation for the game in which they have been made the favorites following their victory over Brooklyn and surprising showing against Detroit last week. The Packers returned from the east Monday and worked out yesterday, correcting faults revealed in their 17 to 3 defeat at New York.

The Cardinals came out of Sunday's game with Detroit in excellent shape and Schissler expects to have a better conditioned combination on the field against the Packers than he did last week when several men played with bad bruises. Two men, in particular, Griffith and Gordon, quarter back and tackle, respectively, are reported to be bordering on complete recovery from injuries received on the recent eastern trip.

The Bears, undefeated in nine consecutive games in their quest for a third successive championship, are drilling in the east this week preparatory to tackling the Giants. This game may be a New York preview of the championship fight. The Giants seem headed for the eastern division title and the Bears are expected to repeat their victory of last year in the western division, Detroit and its undefeated eleven, notwithstanding.

Both the Giants and Bears, however, are uncertain of qualifying for the title game. The Bears, of course, must dispose of Detroit in at least one of their two games and possibly both.

DE PAUL ELEVEN DRILLS, LEAVES FOR TEXAS GAME

North Siders Will Reach Lubbock Tomorrow.

After a strenuous two hour scrimmage against Texas Tech formations the De Paul university football team left last night for Lubbock, Tex., where it will play its final game on Friday.

Texas Tech has compiled an imposing record in the southwest territory. The Techs came through their game last week with a 13 to 0 victory over Hardin Simmons. De Paul has won four of its six games, both losses being suffered on muddy gridirons.

The Demons have expanded their passing game into the lateral field and it was a couple of these tangent throws that played an important part in the 18 to 7 victory over Niagara last Saturday.

De Paul will have a complete squad of twenty-eight players available, all the minor casualties of the Niagara game having recovered.

De Paul will reach its destination tomorrow and plans to hold a final workout at Lubbock in the afternoon.

SCHURADS PLAY EDISON PARK.

The undefeated Edison Park eleven will invade Spencer Coal field, Central and Berteau avenues, tonight for a game with the Schurads. Edison Park has won seven straight games.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The post holiday bond market showed considerable irregularity. On the stock exchange today, domestic corporation bonds and some of the leading foreign loans were weaker, while United States government long term issues finished generally higher, the latter up 8-32ds to down 2-32ds point, total transactions in the listed bond market amounted to $12,148,400.

Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds failed to respond to the announcement by directors of the corporation that until further notice the corporation would not accept further applications for loans as the funds unexpended are deemed only enough to satisfy applications now in hand. The Home Owners' bonds closed on the stock exchange today, up 2-32ds to down 1-32d point. It was said that dealers generally were mindful of the new blocks of bonds which are yet to come out and also of the fact that new authorizations for the corporation may be made.

Foreign Loans Irregular.

With the dollar generally stronger in the foreign exchange market, as a result of the lifting of foreign exchange restrictions by the treasury, foreign loans were irregular. A break of 10½ points for Polish government 7s and of 2⅝ points for the 6s, reflected the anxiety felt in some quarters about Poland's future financial position, inasmuch as political reports indicate a coolness between Poland and her financial backer, France. British, French, and Belgian government loans pointed higher. German government 7s dropped 1¼ points and the 5½s held unchanged. Strength in Argentie bonds was again the feature of the Latin American list.

The principal setbacks in domestic corporation bonds ranged from 1 to more than 4 points. The railroad, public utility, and industrial issues averaged lower in that order.

Curb Bonds Lower.

On the curb exchange, domestic bonds were irregularly lower, and foreign loans higher in active dealings. In the latter group, the old imperial Russian government loans were active and fractionally higher on the news over the week end on the prospect of the reopening of the Russo-American trade and debt negotiations.

Bohn Aluminum and Brass.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation.—H. C. J.

Answer: Products produced by Bohn Aluminum and Brass corporation find their greatest use in the automobile industry. Earnings, consequently, tend to fluctuate with activity of automobile producers. Most important customers are Ford, Studebaker, Chrysler, Nash, and Packard. It also supplies manufacturers of vacuum cleaners, refrigerators, radio, washing machines, and aircraft with equipment.

The company is the largest consumer of aluminum. Production of aluminum was formerly controled by Aluminum Corporation of America, but Bohn on Oct. 3, 1934, announced that it had developed a new process for its production which would make Bohn less dependent on the premier aluminum producer of the world. The development will involve investment of between 10 and 15 million dollars and will require about a year to complete. Charles B. Bohn appeared assured of adequate financing. "Financing is the least of our worries," he said.

Although net income of $125,000 for the third quarter of 1934 was only about 25 per cent of that reported for the corresponding 1933 period, due to letdown in automobile construction, net income for the first nine months of this year was $1,263,000, or $3.59 per share, against net of $1,159,000, or $3.29 per share, for the corresponding 1933 period.

The company earned $1,495,000, or $4.24 per share, in 1933. Loss in 1932 was $721,000. Net income in 1931 was $295,000, against $726,000 in 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets were $5,703,000 and current liabilities were $702,000. Funded debt, since reduced to $500,000, was $1,411,500. There are outstanding only 352,418 shares of $5 par capital stock, on which dividends of 75 cents a quarter are currently being paid.

Pennsylvania Electric.

Investors' Guide: Please let me know the rating of Pennsylvania Electric company first and refunding 5s, due 1962. Are they listed?—K. E. F.

Answer: The bonds are regarded as sofind. They are listed on the Boston Stock exchange and traded in on the New York Curb exchange.

Dodge Bros.

Investors' Guide: I read that Chrysler called bonds of Dodge Brothers 6s, due 1940, on Nov. 1. Kindly advise me if bond M44,899 is one of the numbers called.—Mrs. J. G. A.

Answer: No, Dodge Brothers, Inc., 6 per cent debenture, due May 1, 1940, number M-44,899, was not called.

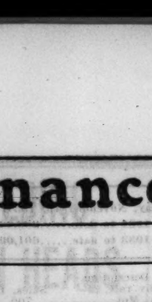
Gives Views After First Month.

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—One month of federal regulation of the New York Stock exchange has convinced Richard Whitney, its president, that government supervision will neither destroy the brokers' business nor disrupt the traditional free and open market, he said today in an interview.



RICHARD WHITNEY

In replying to a series of questions touching the relations between the new securities and exchange commission and the stock exchange and the possible effect of its regulatory powers, Mr. Whitney made it plain that there is no inherent conflict between the commission and the exchange. Both have "identical objectives," chief of which, he said, is the maintenance of a "continuous and stable market."

Regrets Shoestring Traders.

Mr. Whitney, expressing regret that shoestring traders, such as bootblacks and laundresses, cannot be excluded from the market, said:

"The exchange will be much happier if it functions for traders who are sufficiently sophisticated to know that prices can go in two directions legitimately." He denied that brokers as a group have lost hope in the future of their business.

"If wishful thinking by brokers had any power," he said, "the country today would be riding the high tide of recovery."

As to the effectiveness of the new control act, Mr. Whitney said the exchange, the commission, and the federal reserve board "must regard this step as somewhat experimental in character" and that "it may be very necessary from time to time to modify regulations, perhaps amend the law, to enable it to realize its purpose." He made it plain that the stock exchange will be sympathetic and coöperative.

His Answers to Questions.

Q.—Is it true that the restraints upon trading by corporate executives, the need for monthly reports by large holders, etc., will keep a lot of trading out of the market which formerly accounted for substantial volume?

A.—In the first place, the extent of abuse by corporate insiders has been greatly exaggerated. The executive who attends strictly and honorably to business does not ordinarily provide copy for the reporter. It is the man who has violated his position who attracts greater public notice.

Q.—How will regulation affect the volume of business on the exchange? It has been necessary for a number of houses to merge because business has declined. Is this not directly attributable to public regulation?

A.—Not at all. The operations of the exchange are highly technical and it is not fair to expect the government to undertake its task without encountering problems. During the period of transition from self-regulation to governmental regulation, there will be some unavoidable uncertainties. As experience accumulates, these uncertainties will disappear. Over a period of time, neither the law nor the securities exchange commission will affect the volume of transactions.

Q.—Again this matter of volume, Mr. Whitney. The act seeks to restrain imprudent speculation and abuse of credit.

What Is Prudence?

A.—Neither the law, the Securities Exchange commission, the Federal Reserve board, nor the New York Stock exchange can draw the line between prudent and imprudent speculation.

There is no investment which is free of the speculative quality. Assuming, however, that it were possible to draw the line between speculation and investment, how can we make the further distinction between prudent and imprudent speculation? We deplore the assumption of unwaranted risks by bootblacks and laundresses whose hard won accumulations should not be used for speculation in the security market. It is difficult to see how the stock exchange as an institution or brokers as individuals can arrogate to themselves the right to say that Mr. Smith is competent and Mr. Brown incompetent to trade directly in the market.

Will Take a Chance.

Q.—Is it true that the experience of the last five years, together with the new legislation, will discourage speculation by the little fellow and that this will cut the volume of business on the exchange?

A.—I am not able to say what effect the experience of the last five years will have upon future participation in the security market by the small speculator. If men think they see an opportunity to improve their finances they will seize it whether their resources are large or small.

Q.—The banking act of 1933 and the securities exchange act of 1934 both seek to restrain the use of bank credit in the stock market. What of this angle?

A.—This term "abuse of credit" involves one of the many misconceptions which have been nourished by critics. Credit is abused when it exceeds the capacity of the borrower to repay it. The best practical test of abuse as against legitimate use is the record of repayment. If you will examine the banking record for the post-war period and the depression, you will find that call loans have stood up better on the score of safety and liquidity than any other general class of bank assets.

19 Firms Put 120 Millions Into Expansion

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—A favorable straw in the economic wind appeared today in tabulations of expenditures for expansion of outstanding major industries, largely expenditures of idle cash.

Figures tabulated by Standard Statistics company show nearly $120,000,000 of capital expenditures by 19 companies either undertaken or planned since the first of this year. This, the company believes, is significant of "definite evidences of a constructive future viewpoint." It is pointed out, however, that "it is doubtless too early to assume, merely because certain leading strong companies are using idle cash assets to expand or improve plant facilities, that a rapid trend in this direction on the part of industry generally will develop."

Ford Motor Heads List.

Heading the list is the Ford Motor company with plans to spend about $13,000,000 for two large steel mills and $2,000,000 for expansion of the Riger Rouge plant. The Packard Motor Car company plans to spend about $6,200,000 for plant reorganization.

The Allied Chemical and Dye corporation plans to spend more than $5,000,000 for a new alkali plant at Baton Rouge, La., and American Cyanamid is putting $7,000,000 into the new alkali plant at Corpus Christi, Tex.

E. I. du Pont De Nemours & Co. is listed to spend $10,000,000 in expansion of its Argentine plant and $5,000,000 on its plants at Belle, W. Va., and Ampthill, Va.

Matheson Alkali is listed for a $7,000,000 expenditure on a new plant at Lake Charles, La., and Union Carbide and Carbon is down for $10,000,000, for its plant at Whiting, Ind.

Steel Concerns to Expand.

Four steel companies are listed for a $27,000,000 expansion. They are National Steel, $12,000,000 for the Great Lakes Steel corporation; United States Steel, $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 for the Carnegie Steel corporation; Wheeling Steel, $2,500,000 at Yorkville, O.; Youngstown Sheet and Tube, $8,500,000 at Campbell, O.

Union Oil of California is scheduled to spend $2,000,000, Socony-Vacuum Oil, $5,000,000; Standard of California, $4,000,000.

Other expenditures made or planned include Standard Brands, $2,000,000; Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts, $6,000,000 at Peoria, Ill., and elsewhere, and the Celanese corporation, $1,000,000.

ASK DISMISSAL OF SUIT TO BAR CUTTEN TRADING

Dismissal of the action brought by the secretary of agriculture to bar Arthur W. Cutten from operating on the country's grain exchanges is asked in a brief filed with the Grain Futures administration by Orville J. Taylor, Cutten's counsel.

The brief contends that Cutten, one of the best known stock and grain speculators, is deprived of his constitutional right of trial by jury. It further alleges that the grain futures commission is an administrative body and cannot assume judicial functions as it does in the Cutten case. The commission has no such punitive power as is claimed by the secretary of agriculture, the bill adds. The secretary of agriculture, who brought the charges, also sits in judgment on the case as an ex officio member of the grain futures commission, it is asserted.

The grounds on which Cutten's disbarment was asked is that he failed to report fully on his grain market operations to the government, as is required by the grain futures act. Counsel for the secretary of agriculture has 20 days to file rebuttal arguments on the brief filed by Cutten's counsel. If the commission rules against Cutten he has recourse to the appeals court.

INSURANCE HEAD IS INDICTED ON CHARGE OF FRAUD

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 13.—(AP)—U. S. District Attorney Harlan Besson today released an impounded indictment charging Carl M. Hansen, president of the International Reinsurance company of California, the International Reinsurance company of Delaware and the Insurance Management corporation of Pennsylvania, with defrauding stockholders.

Besson released the indictment after he had been notified by federal authorities at Butte, Mont., that Hansen was taken into custody there Nov. 10.

The 100 page indictment alleges that Hansen "devised a scheme and artifice to defraud a class of persons comprising the holders and those who could be induced to become holders of the shares of capital stock of the International of California and the International of Delaware."

Receivers for the International Reinsurance company, at one time valued as a 5 million dollar corporation, were named April 19, 1933, in Delaware, Pennsylvania, California, and New Jersey. Hansen, at first named a receiver, was later removed.

BRITAIN CALLS 3% BONDS; MAY TRY REFUNDING

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—The government is preparing to take immediate advantage of the huge rise in British government securities on the stock exchange. The treasury announced tonight that £44,000,000, or half of the amount of the 3 per cent treasury bonds outstanding, will be drawn on Nov. 26 for repayment next April.

The announcement surprised London, for the drawing represents 40 per cent of the original issue of £110,000,000 sold in April, 1932. Only 10 per cent need be drawn.

The Daily Herald suggests that the government is preparing for conversion to 3 per cent of £429,196,000 of local loans, on which 3½ per cent is being charged to authorities for the purposes of the housing act and the small dwellings acquisition act.

4 ROADS URGE JUDGES ENJOIN EASTMAN ORDER

Routing Trains Over C. & E. I. Attacked.

Four railroads yesterday sought an injunction to prevent Federal Coordinator Joseph B. Eastman from enforcing his order that Louisville and Nashville trains on the "Dixie" route continue to be routed over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois tracks between Chicago and Evansville, Ind.

Arguments were heard by three federal judges sitting en banc—Evan Evans, John P. Barnes, and Philip L. Sullivan—who took the question under advisement. A ruling within ten days is expected inasmuch as a ten-day extension of the coördinator's order, due to expire at midnight, was announced in court.

The Louisville and Nashville road is seeking to drop its contract of 50 years' duration and route its passenger trains over the New York Central lines north of Evansville. It contends that it has lost business because the C. & E. I. has failed to live up to its agreement to keep up its equipment, and that hope of regaining business is seen in the transfer. Joining with the L. & N. and New York Central in the petition are the Big Four and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis.

Regional Groups Favor Change.

The regional coördinating committees reported in favor of the change because [1] the railroads are within their right and [2] there are substantial advantages in the new setup. Coördinator Eastman reversed this opinion, charging the committees with "failure to act."

Leslie Craven, attorney for Eastman, tossed a bomb into the hearing yesterday by charging that the case is nothing more than an effort of the railroads to smash the activities of the federal coördinator, clip his wings, and make a "mere ornament" of him. Apparently, he argued, the roads are not interested in eliminating waste and costly duplication.

Craven pointed out that the C. & E. I. has a double track, up-to-date, and capable of highly efficient handling of passenger business. The Big Four tracks, over which the New York Central would run the trains, are a freight line now, he asserted, and would require considerable expenditures to put them in shape for passenger service.

Holds Duplication Inevitable.

Craven also said that duplication would be inevitable in that the Big Four would be forced to put on three new trains in direct competition with the three now maintained by the C. & E. I. and which the latter road would be forced to continue running anyway.

Louis B. Wehle, representing the C. & E. I. bondholders' committee, filed an answer charging that the change would work grave financial injustice to investors who hold $30,000,000 of bonds as a first mortgage. One-tenth of the road's gross revenue would be removed, he said, and a pending reorganization killed. The report of Reconstruction Finance corporation survey pointed to the feasibility of consolidation with the Illinois Central, Wehle added, and declared that such a plan would be knocked out by the rerouting to enable the New York Central to pick up the C. & E. I. "for a song"—to the added detriment of bondholders.

Urge Recourse to I. C. C.

Other defense arguments pointed out that the coördinator's order is not final, that objectors have recourse to the interstate commerce commission before it becomes permanent, and that there is no redress to courts before all rights under the emergency railroad act have been exhausted. It was charged that no effort as yet has been made to present objections in those channels.

Fitzgerald Hall, vice president of the L. & N. and the N., C. & St. L., argued for the injunction. He maintained the right of a railroad to make a change it feels will help its business. He also charged the C. & E. I. with failure to keep up its equipment. The New York Central was not represented.

NATIONAL TEA CO. FOUR WEEK SALES TOTAL $4,471,916

National Tea company sales for the four weeks ended Nov. 3 totaled $4,471,916, against $4,717,325 a year ago, while for the forty-four weeks ended Nov. 3 the total was $51,179,746, against $52,978,243 in the corresponding 1933 period.

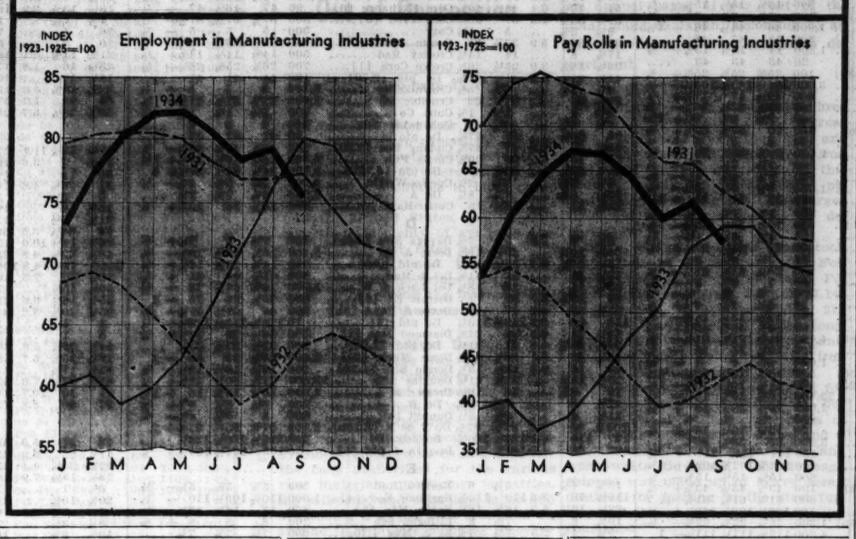
Kroger Grocery and Baking company yesterday reported sales of $17,102,027 for the four weeks ended Nov. 3, compared with $16,125,479 in the corresponding period of last year, a gain of 6 per cent. For the forty-four weeks ended Nov. 3 sales amounted to $185,537,480, against $172,102,000 in the like period a year ago, an increase of 7.6 per cent.

Sales of First National Stores during the four weeks ended Oct. 27 totaled $8,498,808, compared with $8,150,826 in the same period last year an increase of 4.3 per cent. In the 30 weeks ended the same date sales totaled $63,617,708, against $60,713,295 last year.

Western Union Telegraph Earnings Below Last Year

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—The Western Union Telegraph company reports for the nine months ended Sept. 30 net income of $1,676,568, equivalent to $1.60 a share on the capital stock, against $4,188,824, or $4 a share, in the first nine months last year. September net income was $100,642, against $347,403 for the like period in 1933.

Government Report Shows Employment and Pay Rolls Declining



Life Concerns Again Assail Rating System

The fight between the American Life Convention and Alfred M. Best company over the right of a private organization to classify life insurance companies on the basis of "excellent," "very good," "good," or "rating omitted," was continued yesterday with a public statement by the association and a reply by Best's.

The American Life Convention is an association of 127 life insurance companies, practically all of whose members are "rated" by Best's. The Alfred M. Best company is an insurance reporting agency that, among other things, assigns ratings to life insurance companies. The Life Convention objects to its members being rated by any private organization and Best's insists on the right to do so.

Defends Rating by States.

"The insurance department [of states] is the only authority in a position to know the true financial status of a company," said the convention. "Ratings of companies, whether issued by Mr. Best or others who are now engaged in the same practice, made without the consent or supervision of state authorities, are frequently misleading, inaccurate and dangerous to the best interests of life insurance."

In reply, Raymond T. Smith, Chicago vice president of Alfred M. Best company, said, "The Alfred M. Best company has been continuously under the same management for nearly 40 years. The type and quality of reports issued have never before been questioned by any one."

"No private company, without official standing and without means of investigation, other than the superficial one of endeavoring to value securities held by companies by examination of lists of market values, has any legal or moral right to base a rating system on the conclusions so reached," the convention asserts.

Cites Other Factors.

"The quality and kind of assets held by an insurance company is only one of a great many items taken into consideration," replied the Best organization. "Liquidity, return on investments, age of company, reserve basis, underwriting results, relationship of surplus to reserve, growth of the company under review, and net costs to policyholders are a few of the important items considered."

As a parting shot the convention says: "Mr. Best has no copyright on comparative ratings. Such a practice is now being indulged in by a number of others, and new 'rating bureaus' are springing up everywhere. The whole practice can easily degenerate into a blackmailing racket, and we propose to condemn it and to oppose it in the future as in the past."

PROCTER-GAMBLE VOTE 20 CENTS EXTRA DIVIDEND

The Procter & Gamble company yesterday declared an extra dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the 5 per cent preferred stock, both payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Nov. 23.

The S. R. Dresser Manufacturing company declared a dividend of $1.50 a share on the class A participating convertible stock, payable Dec. 1, the first payment since June 1, 1932, when 75 cents a share was paid.

The Sstromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing company omitted the quarterly dividend due at this time on the preferred stock.

The Southern Colorado Power company declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred capital stock, payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 30.

RECALL FIVE YEARS AGO WHEN STOCKS TOOK BIG TUMBLE?

Yesterday was the anniversary of one of the most severe of the collapses that overtook the stock market in the fall of 1929. It was on Nov. 12, 1929, that the market entered its second big decline. Two weeks before had witnessed the initial crack-ups on Oct. 28 and 29.

The decline which began Nov. 12 continued on the 13th, but on Nov. 14 the first of the "false recoveries" was witnessed. The "recovery" was induced by the report that John D. Rockefeller had instructed his brokers to buy up to a million shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey at $60 a share.

The Nov. 12 decline carried THE TRIBUNE average on 50 representative stocks down 11 points. Losses in leading stocks ranged from 2 to 20 points and, in some isolated instances, to as much as 50 points.

The following table lists some of the principal stocks that were market leaders in 1929. The table shows the 1929 peak prices, the Nov. 12 closing prices and the declines of that day, and final quotations on the same issues yesterday:

FOREIGN SILVER UP IN NEW YORK TO 55¾ CENTS

New York, Nov. 13.—(AP)—An advance of 1⅞ cents an ounce in foreign bar silver for domestic industrial use today lifted the price of the white metal to the highest level since 1929. Quoted at 55¾ cents an ounce, it topped the previous high of 55⅝ cents established last August.

The boost in the price was in response to sharp rise Monday in the London quotation for the bar metal and an advance of around 2 cents an ounce in silver futures prices in the Montreal and Toronto markets. Strength of the metal in the London market was accompanied by reports of buying by the United States government under the provisions of the silver purchase act.

Mexican Silver Reaches U. S.

Laredo, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—The largest shipment of bar silver to enter the United States through the port of Laredo from Mexico in recent years was on its way today to the federal reserve bank in Philadelphia.

The consignment, which came from Monterrey, consisted of 930 bars with a value of 1,875,896 pesos, equivalent to $534,000. Reports here said the transfer was prompted by the increase in the Mexican export tax on silver and other goods, which becomes effective within the next few days.

Oil Men Ask All but State Gas Tax End

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Directors of the American Petroleum institute today described gasoline taxation as an exclusive function of the state and urged the elimination of federal, county, and municipal levies on the motor fuel.

Resolutions adopted at the fifteenth annual meeting of the institute here opposed the use of proceeds of gasoline taxes for expenses other than highway construction.

At the same time, however, Baird H. Markham, director of the American petroleum industries committee, expressed fear that oil men could not hope for an immediate lessening of a billion dollar annual tax bill.

Taxes Yield Over Billion.

He said 118 taxes on the industry last year yielded more than $1,000,000,000 in revenue, while petroleum's net earnings were $204,000,000.

C. C. Chapman of Portland, Ore., known to the oil men as "The Father of the Gasoline Tax," said road work was the original purpose for the fuel levy.

"Neither legislatures nor public," he said, "would permit its dissolution once the issues and equities are clearly brought out."

Institute officials advocated coöperation between the oil men and the government in speeches before the convention, but warned against government control of the industry.

Lauds Competitive System.

William R. Boyd Jr., executive vice president, pleaded for retention of the competitive system and expressed the opinion it was better to teach a man how to run his own business than "have a benevolent government give him soothing syrup that he may sleep and let some theoretically disinterested person run it for him."

The membership of the board of directors of the institute was increased today to 89, and eight new members were selected. Others were reëlected.

Axtell J. Byles president of the institute, criticized the petroleum industry's code and the socialization of industry and decried planned economy. There is nothing inviolate in the price of crude oil, he said. He explained that the price of the commodity should be flexible, responding to changing conditions, because the most stabilizing influence in industry is "free prices."

Dollar Rises as Exchange Control Eases

New York, Nov. 13.—[Special.]—Easing by the treasury of its control over foreign exchange transactions by issuing a blanket license to everybody to purchase foreign exchange in amounts under $5,000 weekly for any purpose brought several important developments today. These developments were:

1. The dollar was stimulated and rose against nearly every currency in the world except sterling.

2. The gold currencies were sent below their gold points again, because the fresh confidence engendered in the dollar came at a time when gold currencies were being adversely affected by news of a political crisis in Belgium which followed shortly that in France.

Gold Flow From France Rises.

3. The gold influx from France, which reached a figure of $50,000,000 last week, was increased by between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 today. Much of the additional metal engaged today will be placed on the Paris, which sails for this city from European ports tomorrow.

4. Banks suspended, in their sales of exchange to customers, the requirement that such customers fill out blanks specifying the purpose for which the exchange was sought and containing the statement that such purpose was not in violation of executive orders on foreign exchange. Blanks now must be filed only by those whose transactions exceed $5,000 weekly.

5. Business in foreign exchange was light, with no evidence of a rush to obtain supplies of foreign currencies for purposes hitherto forbidden. Banks explained this on the general ground of human perversity.

Continues as Listening Post.

6. The foreign exchange control division of the federal reserve bank was relieved of its obligation to report on applications for exchange for moot purposes, but continues as a listening post and a statistic gathering bureau.

In financial circles here the treasury action was interpreted as indicating an advance toward normal conditions. It was explained that possibility of any further devaluation of the dollar has been lessened.

One of the reasons why there was no noticeable broadening of the exchange market on the news of the new treasury regulations which modified former restrictions was the extreme liberality with which the treasury had approved applications for foreign exchange since Jan. 15.

The treasury has refused to license only one class of foreign exchange purchase, namely that involving the purchase of gold for hoarding purposes. Under the new regulations the treasury through the reserve bank continues its control over gold by the licensing system.

Dollar Gains in Gold.

While stronger against foreign gold currencies, the dollar was lower in terms of the British pound, which rose 1¼ cents to $5.00¼. French francs were down ⅛ point at 6.58¾ cents.

At the closing quotation of the franc the dollar was worth 59.47 cents based on the old par of the franc, while calculated on the new par of the franc the dollar was valued at $1.0069. These values compared with 59.46 and $1.0068, respectively, yesterday.

The Italian lira lost 1 point to 8.55 cents, the Belgian belga 3 points to 23.31 cents, the Swiss franc 11 points to 32.45 cents, the Dutch florin 4 points to 67.58 cents, and the German mark 4 points to 40.21 cents. The Canadian dollar gained along with the pound, rising to $1.0259375.

Gold prices in London declined 5½ pence to 139 shilling ½ penny a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.80, based on the opening of sterling at $5.00½. Bars valued at $945,945 were sold.

RECOVERY ONLY INFLATION CURB, SPRAGUE WARNS

Gives U. S. a Year to End Depression.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The United States has about one year in which to work itself out of the depression before drastic currency inflation of the greenback type becomes an immediate threat.

That is Dr. O. M. W. Sprague's answer to the question, "When does inflation come?" Dr. Sprague, professor of banking and finance at Harvard university and former special adviser to the Bank of England and later to Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, made this estimate yesterday in an address before the Bond Men's club at a luncheon in the Union League club.

That is Dr. O. M. W. Sprague's answer to the question, "When does inflation come?" Dr. Sprague, professor of banking and finance at Harvard university and former special adviser to the Bank of England and later to Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, made this estimate yesterday in an address before the Bond Men's club at a luncheon in the Union League club.

Feels More Hopeful.

Declaring that he felt "a little more hopeful" than a year ago when he resigned from the Roosevelt brain trust as a protest against the administration's unorthodox financial policies, Dr. Sprague expressed the opinion that with proper coöperation between industry and finance and the government it would be possible to bring about recovery by more or less orthodox means, but, that failing, inflation would probably be inevitable.

"I don't say it will be exactly a year," he said, "because it is impossible to be too definite about such things, but I think a year is about the length of time that would be required."

The chief hope for forestalling drastic inflation, Dr. Sprague said, lay in stimulating the heavy industries. Despite the pickup in sales by companies producing "consumers' goods" such as food, clothing, movies, motor cars, etc., he pointed out the "producers' goods" and construction industries are still about as stagnant as ever.

High Costs Bring Stagnation.

The reason for this stagnation, he said, lay in the fact that instead of reducing the prices of their products such industries have had to keep prices up because of increased operating costs under the NRA, high taxes, and high transportation costs.

In England, he continued, recovery had been brought about largely through the stimulus afforded the heavy industries by the building of some 300,000 low cost residences for

UTILITIES DRAG STOCKS LOWER; FEAR RATE CUTS

New York Power Authority Assails Charges.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 13.—Weakness in public utility stocks acted as a drag on the whole market today. The silver mining, building and oil groups met with good support and a scattering of miscellaneous issues stood up well, some of them registering new highs for the movement. The weight of operations was on the selling side, however, and the close found the list irregularly lower. Trading was brisk throughout the session, the turnover running to around 1,131,000 shares.

Liquidation of utilities was blamable principally to the report of the power authority of New York state that light and power rates here are about twice what they should be. The estimate raised visions of a reduction of schedules in the minds of shareholders and there was a rush to sell stock of every company which might be affected.

Consolidated Gas Declines.

Consolidated Gas sold down more than 2 points to a new bear market low, and losses of 1 to 2 points or more were registered in Brooklyn Union Gas, American Water Works, North American, United Gas Improvement and Public Service of New Jersey. In the case of Consolidated Gas and North American the day's lows represented a minimum for these two premier issues over a period of some ten years. Pacific Lighting, Peoples Gas, and the shares of other companies in other sections of the country were sympathetically weak.

New York traction stocks were also heavy, partly with the selling of all utilities and partly because of the coolness shown toward higher fare proposals by the city fusion administration. American Telephone finished a point lower.

Silver Group Rises and Falls.

Silver shares sprang forward in the forenoon with the rise of the metal in London and Montreal, and hopes that reported buying for the United States treasury eventually would boost prices on the metal here. In the late trading, however, enthusiasm for the shares waned perceptibly and most of the early gains were wiped out.

Further announcements of government-financed building operations had a stimulating effect on Johns Manville and other building group issues.

The oils looked better than they have for some time, due chiefly to improvement in the gasoline price structure.

BANK HOLDING CONCERN HEADS DENY SWINDLE

Trial Over Sale of Stock Set for Nov. 30.

Moorhead, Minn., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Sixteen present and former officers of the Northwest Bancorporation, huge northwestern bank holding concern, today entered pleas of not guilty to charges of larceny and swindling and opening trial was set tentatively for Nov. 30.

Through their attorneys, the sixteen entered their please in Clay county District court before Judge John A. Roeser, but reserved the right to permit later motions for quashing, or demurrers to the charges. Judge Roeser gave the defendants until Nov. 21 to decide upon possible changes in pleas, with additional provision that the motions are to be argued by Nov. 24.

Defendants Ask Separate Trials.

Each defendant requested a separate trial. The state announced J. Cameron Thomson of Minneapolis, present head of the corporation, will be tried first.

The charges followed an investigation by the state commerce commission into the sale of stock by the Bancorporation, sponsored by Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

Alex Highland, former vice president of Banco, now a resident of San Diego, Cal., and Ford E. Hovey, Omaha, another former officer, did not appear, and the prosecution announced steps for extradition will be considered later. George D. Dayton, Minneapolis, another defendant, was reported ill by his attorney, and his case was continued.

Charges Dilatory Tactics.

Defense attorneys, who asked that the trial be delayed until Dec. 11 to give them time to study the informations which were first presented today, were charged with "dilatory" tactics by W. E. G. Watson, special attorney for the state department of commerce, who asked the trial be fixed for Nov. 26.

Defendants appearing were E. W. Decker, D. R. West, Theodore Wold, F. T. Heffelfinger, John Crosbst, W. A. Durst, R. E. Macgregor, Albert C. Cobb, Henry D. Thrall, J. Cameron Thomson, John S. Pillsbury, Gardner B. Perry and William E. Brockman, Minneapolis, and Oscar Mitchell, George P. Tweed, and Isaac S. Moore, Duluth.
